Stassen Tosses Hat Into GOP Ring

Advocates Six Point Program For Candidacy

Third Republican To Enter In Race

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen tonight announced he will seek the 1952 Republican nomination for President of the United States—third GOP aspirant for the nation's highest post.

Previously, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Governor Earl Warren of California had announced their candidacies. All three had been nominated at the Republican convention in Philadelphia in 1948. Warren was the GOP vice presidential nominee that year, running mate for Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

The former governor of Minnesota and now president of the University of Pennsylvania said he would pursue this program:

1. Higher moral standard in Washington "with plain honesty in public employes."

Modern Gold Standard

2. A modern gold standard to prevent "runaway inflation."

3. "Full employment, excellent farm income, conservation of natural resources and a balanced budget."

4. Harmony between labor, farmers and employers "with less taxpaying and more profit-sharing plans with employes throughout American business."

5. "A new American foreign policy x x x to win the peace and gain expanding freedom for ourselves and for others."

6. "An administration that is not a 'one-man" band.' "

Stassen revealed his decision to run in an address at a dinner given here by the Friends of Stassen Committee.

Stassen's presidential plans may be a major blow to Republicans backing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The 44-year-old Penn president recently returned from Europe where he held private conferences with Eisenhower. It was reported that Stassen would have backed Eisenhower if the general had hinted he would run.

Mentions Eisenhower

In his speech, Stassen mentioned Eisenhower only once, stating he would confer with the Atlantic Pact commander "on the problems of Western Europe" because "his views are very sound and his ability is remarkable."

Stassen is anti-Taft. Only last month he said he was convinced that the "overwhelmingly majority" of the American people do not want Taft or Mr. Truman as president.

Stassen said he had "considered long and prayerfully" the decision on whether to run and agreed to make the race in order to present his own "humanitarian and liberal program" to the people.

Though striking hard at what he called the inadequacies of the country's domestic program, Stassen declared "the most serious failures of the present national administration have been failures of foreign policy."

To Consult Experts

To put his program into effect if elected Stassen said he would seek counsel from:

Gen. Douglas MacArthur — "On problems of the Western Pacfic and in devising military plans for that area."

Bernard Baruch—"on questions of financial and economic policy, domestic and foreign."

Gen. Eisenhower — "On problems

Own Blood Saves Soldier

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (AP)—The young soldier needed a blood transfusion badly. His eyes really popped when he saw his own name on the bottle as the precious fluid flowed into his veins.

The story of the soldier who donated his blood—and then got it back—was told at Letterman General Hospital today.

The soldier is Pvt. Richard A. Norman, 23, Wapato, Wash.

Norman was a member of Battery B, 87th Armored Field Artillery Battalion at Camp Roberts.

He was on a kitchen police duty when a cook lit a lamp which exploded. The startled cook hurled the lamp away from himself, and it hit Norman's legs.

He was burned severly and needed a quick blood transfusion.

Hungary Again Delays Action On U. S. Fliers

Commie Delegation To Reply Today

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 27 (AP)—Communist Hungary tonight delayed again—at least until tomorrow—her answer on a U. S. offer to pay $120,000 in fines for the prompt release of four American airmen held since their plane was forced down there by Soviet fighters Nov. 19.

The Hungarian government asked George Abbott, U. S. legation charge d'affaires in Budapest, to call at the foreign office at 10 a. m. (4 a. m., EST) tomorrow to get the reply.

GOP CANDIDATE — Harold E. Stassen has become the third Republican aspirant for the nation's presidency after the announcement last night that he had tossed his hat into the 1952 race for the GOP nomination. Previously Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Governor Earl Warren of California had announced their candidacies.

Announcement Is False

An announcement by the Hungarian legation in Washington Wednesday night indicated the fliers would be released today but this proved to be wrong. A legation spokesman said then that Hungary already had accepted the American offer, but that the men could not be released before today because of the Christmas holidays.

With the latest development, however, it seemed doubtful that the Hungarians would free the airmen before Abbott sees the foreign office officials.

American officials here, keyed up in expectation that the four would be set free, have waited fruitlessly for two days to learn whether Hungary would accept the American offer. Red officials in Hungary would give no reason for the delay other than that the matter was under consideration by judicial and financial authorities. This led Western officials to suspect that the Hungarians may have referred the matter to Moscow for a high Communist policy decision on what to do.

A Hungarian court in Budapest last Sunday convicted the four crewmen of a U. S. Air Force plane —forced down in Hungary by Soviet fighters—on charges of 'premeditated violation" of the Hungarian border, and fined them the equivalent of $30,000 each.

Plane Is Confiscated

The court said if the fines were not paid the men would have to spend three months in prison. It also ordered the confiscation of the C-47 transport plane which the men flew on an ill-fated trip from Germany toward Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Although some westerners termed the fines out-and-out ransom, the U. S. government said its first consideration was to gain the release of the men, and offered to pay the

McCarthy Probe Said Effort To Discredit Solon

Former Counsel Says Case Political Move

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—A former aide to a Senate elections subcommittee said today its inquiry into the conduct of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) is an effort to "discredit and destroy" the senator.

Daniel G. Buckley got out a statement saying that as assistant counsel to the subcommittee "I was expected to substantiate Senator Benton's charges and to discredit Senator McCarthy at the expense of the truth."

The subcommittee is looking into charges by Senator Benton (D-Conn) that McCarthy has committed perjury and fraud and engaged in "calculated deceit" of the American people, and should be ejected from the Senate.

May Question Buckley

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa), the subcommittee chairman, told a reporter that Buckley's accusation seems absolutely ridiculous." He said the group "may subpoena Buckley" for questioning under oath. Buckley, a former New York lawyer, served as assistant counsel of the committee from Oct. 16 to Dec. 8.

At the time Buckley left the job, Gillette indicated the subcommittee had released him. He said Buckley had been employed originally only in a "temporary capacity."

Buckley disclaimed any interest in McCarthy "as a person," but said he had reached the conclusion that "Benton's case is without foundation and politically motivated."

He said his first assignment by the subcommittee was to go into the Wheeling, W. Va., speech which was Senator McCarthy's opening public statement in his effort to prove there was Communist subversion in the state department.

Specifically, Buckley said, he was instructed to check whether Mc-

Blast Caused By Firecracker

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—One of the two mysterious blasts heard last night and today in this explosion-jittery city was only a firecracker.

Police Chief Herbert Warner of suburban Hialeah said a boom heard over a 25-block radius there last night was "an aerial bomb left over from the Fourth of July" which was set off by a honeymooning couple. He declined to give their names.

The Hialeah explosion and another heard four hours later in Coral Gables occurred two days after the death-bombing of a prominent Negro leader at Mims, a small community 40 miles south of Daytona Beach.

There have been three dynamite blasts at Carver Village, a Miami Negro housing project, and another at a Jewish synagogue since last June. Dynamite has been planted at six other Jewish and Catholic buildings but failed to go off.

Gov. Fuller Warren offered a $6,000 reward today for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the dynamiters and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People offered $5,000. That brought to $19,325 the amount of money offered by aroused communities and citizens.

Warren called the killing of T. Moore, 46-year-old Negro, "not only murder but terrorism."

Interne Rapes Polio Victim Paralyzed In Hospital Ward

SEATTLE, Dec. 27 (AP)—The prosecutor's office charged a Harborview County Hospital doctor interne today with raping a 22-year-old mother, partly paralyzed with polio, in her ward at the hospital.

The man, Dr. Roy B. Patton, 29, signed a statement admitting the offense under questioning by police, Detective Chief Emile Vallet reported. Dr. Patton, formerly of Columbus, Ohio, is married and has two children.

Prosecutor Charles O. Carroll, who filed the rape charge, also petitioned the court that Dr. Patton be adjudged a sexual psychopath. Superior Judge Theodore S. Turner set bail at $3,000. Dr. Patton was taken to the Seattle veterans hospital for observation.

The victim of the asserted assault said the attack occurred last Thursday night, Deputy Prosecutor John L. Vogel reported.

In the statement, the prosecutor said, the accused man told of giving the woman a sedative and then returning and attacking her after he believed sufficient time had elapsed for it to take effect.

The woman said she remained conscious, however, and moaned in an effort to attract the attention of nurses.

Dr. Patton came here last July from Ohio State University, where he had studied medicine and won 'outstanding" recommendations, the prosecutor said. He is a Navy veteran of the second world war.

Aerial War Continues On Korean Front

Ground Action Lulls; Two MIGs Shot Down

SEOUL, Korea, Friday, Dec. 28 (AP)—A bitter little battle on the Korean East-Central front crackled through its third day Thursday. Aloft American Sabre Jets shot down two Communist MIG-15 jets in a dogfight over North Korea.

The Far East Air Force sent 13 B-29 superforts on night raids over the Communist jet air base at Namsi and rail bridge at Sunchon and on frontline support missions.

Flak Is Intense

Intense flak was encountered over the airfield and bridge, both north of the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang, but all planes returned safely, the Air Force said.

The 30-day limit on the provisional cease-fire line expired at midnight, but the comparative lull in the ground war continued.

Reliable sources freely predicted the "twilight war" which began Nov. 28 would not flare into big-scale conflict, at least for some time.

The armistice talks are continuing, even though neither side mentioned any extension of the 30-day limit on the cease-fire line. By terms of the agreement, when all other armistice points are decided, the negotiators must redraw the cease-fire line to conform with any battlefront changes in the meantime.

However, the Chinese have given no indication of any buildup for an offensive, and the Allied command seemed satisfied to hold its present positions along the 145-mile-long front across the Korean peninsula.

Company Is Cut Off

At 7 a. m., Thursday, a company (possibly 200) of Reds cut off an advanced Allied position.

Allied troops counterattacked during the morning, and at last report were struggling through knee-deep snow in bitter cold to regain the position.

Remainder of the front was reported quiet, with light contact among patrols of 40 or so men each.

Thursday's air battle was a 30-minute scrap between 32 Sabres of the U. S. 51st Fighter-Interceptor Wing and 50 MIG jets. The Air Force reported that two MIGs were shot down, one was badly damaged, and that all American planes returned safely.

U. N. Demands Prisoner Account

MUNSAN Korea, Friday, Dec. 28 (AP) — United Nations negotiators pressed the Communists Thursday for a full accounting of more than 50,000 unlisted Allied prisoners and received a grim inkling of their possible fate—death by disease or exposure.

The ominous intimation that few, if any, of the unaccounted-for American and South Korean prisoners were still alive came from Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho, North Korean truce delegate handling prisoner of war exchange discussions.

The U. N. command had intimated for the first time that it might discuss a Communist proposal for an all-for-all prisoner exchange if the Communists would provide an "honest and factual" accounting of all the prisoners they have taken

Man Slays Wife, 2 Of 8 Children

MANCHESTER, Conn., Dec. 27 (AP) —A wealthy lumber dealer secretly entered the Christmas decorated home of his estranged wife, police reported today, slew her and two of their eight children, then committed suicide.

In an upstairs bedroom, 14-year-old Arthur England found the bodies of his parents, W. Harry and Louise England; his sister, Jane, 24; and his brother, Jonathan, 4. All had been shot.

Downstairs in the big eleven-room house, stood a Christmas tree with a toy railroad and other presents still heaped around its base.

The Englands, married since 1925, had been living apart as a result of a divorce suit filed by her and still pending in court.

Mrs. Simpson Dies

Own Blood Saves Him

Pvt. Richard A. Norman (above), 23, a patient in Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, received his own blood during a transfusion after he was critically burned when a lamp exploded. Norman two weeks previously had donated a pint of blood for the armed services. While on kitchen police at Camp Roberts, Calif., he was burned about the legs when a cook hurled the burning lamp against him attempting to throw it away. A medico happened to pick up his bottle of blood when Norman needed the transfusion. (See story bottom of page).

Churchill Plans Talk On Atomic Energy On Trip

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP) — British Prime Minister Churchill has sent word that he wants to talk about a dozen broad subjects, including atomic energy, in his conferences with President Truman beginning here next week.

Diplomats familiar with Churchill's agenda said it is phrased in general topics and bears out the expectation of American officials that he is counting on a sweeping survey of all important Anglo-American world problems.

The Prime Minister is scheduled to arrive in New York late next week on the Queen Mary and to fly immediately to Washington. After five days of intensive conferences here, he is slated to visit New York for two days and Ottawa for about four days, returning to Washington about Jan. 15 or 16.

He is tentatively set to address Congress Jan. 17. He will begin his trip home about the 19th or 20th.

Several weeks ago the Prime Minister advised American diplomats in London that he did not intend to take up in Washington the question of American aid for Britain and that he had no particular agenda for his talks. Since that time American officials have urged that he at least indicate the range of topics he expected to cover so that preliminary preparations could be made.

The list of topics he has now sent here is understood to be divided into three categories, covering the following subjects:

Foreign affairs — general relationships involving the two countries; relations with Russia; problems of the Far East, Southeast Asia and the Near East; the Atlantic community.

Economic matters — the British position; industrial supplies, including steel.

Defense of the West — the European army; atomic energy; various military command, including the Atlantic command; rifle.

The list includes a number of controversial issues on which the President and Prime Minister are expected to seek clear mutual understanding if they cannot actually resolve them.

Burglars Ransack Office, Get $2,000

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 27 (AP)—Burglars ransacked an office building closed for the Christmas holiday and walked off with more than $2,000 in cash and checks, city police said today.

Mayor Roscoe C. Rowe, an attorney, occupied one of the offices but reported nothing missing.

Quake Hits Ancona

ANCONA, Italy, Dec. 27 (AP)—A sharp earthquake shook this Adriatic city today.

The quake lasted from five to six seconds. The frightened population fled into the streets. There were no immediate reports of casualties or damage.

Children Testify To Help Save Life Of Neighbor's Dog

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 27 (AP) — Kurt, a three-year-old Doberman-Pinscher, won his freedom in district court today after two little girls — children of a complainant — testified they were not afraid of the animal.

Kurt's owner, Harold Cutter, sought reversal of a police order to "restrain, confine or kill" the dog. The police issued the order after Clyde MacDonald, a neighbor, complained the dog was vicious.

MacDonald's children, Jean, 7, and Nancy, 6, testified they played with the dog and were not afraid of him. Their father asserted Kurt had knocked them down.

Judge Lawrence G. Brooks ordered the restraining order reversed. When the children left the courtroom they waved happily to the big dog in the courthouse corridor.

"Streetcar" Best Picture Of 1951

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—"A Streetcar Named Desire" was chosen today by the New York Film Critics as the best picture of 1951.

Runner-up and very close in the final balloting of 8 to 7 was "The River."

The critics also chose:

Best director—Elia Kazan for "Streetcar"; runner-up — George Stevens for "A Place In The Sun."

Best actor—Arthur Kennedy as the blind veteran in "Bright Victory"; runner-up—Marlon Brando in "Streetcar."

Best actress—Vivien Leigh in "Streetcar"; runner-up — Shelley Winters in "A Place In The Sun."

Best foreign film—the Italian-made "Miracle In Milan"; runner-up—the Japanese-made "Rashomon."

Grunewald Once Investigator In Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Attorney General McGrath said today that Washington mystery man Henry (The Dutchman) Grunewald was once an investigator for the Justice Department and the Republican National Committee and also worked for the alien property office.

The attorney general cleared up some of the obscurity surrounding Grunewald in a letter to Senator Wiley (R-Wis) who has recently been criticizing the alien property office, which functions under McGrath.

Grunewald was called as a witness before the King House committee investigating tax scandals last week. He refused to answer all questions about his activities and government associations.

Wiley, who recently wrote a number of officials in the Justice Department for information on Grunewald, said in a public statement last Monday that he had learned that Grunewald once worked for the alien property custodian.

McGrath, in replying, said Grunewald was appointed a special assistant in that office in 1942 by the then-custodian, Leo T. Crowley, at a salary of $22.22 a day when actually working.

McGrath said that although carried on the rolls from Sept. 12, 1942 until February 27, 1943, he had received government compensation of only $222.20 because he worked only 10 days on a special assignment to Omaha, Neb.

To get the job, Grunewald supplied the names of seven "rather prominent citizens, some of them in public service," McGrath said. He added that he would not name them publicly because there was no evidence that they knew of the use of their names "or were asked for statements."

Miners Picket Headquarters In Dispute With Union Heads

NORTON, Va., Dec. 27 (AP) — Placard-carrying coal diggers picketed District 28 headquarters of the United Mine Workers here today in a show of dissension rare in the coal union's history of internal solidarity.

A spokesman for the 300 pickets, all of whom were believed to be union miners, said they wanted the District 28 president and some other officers fired.

The trouble apparently started, or came to a head, the spokesman said when UMW field representative Charles Minton was fired about a month ago.

The miners said that in addition to the firing of district officers they wanted an explanation as to why Minton was relieved of his duties.

Some of the placards shouldered by the milling miners read:

"Throw the union scabs out of District 28."

"We want honest leaders—not tyrants and dictators."

"Down with (Alan) Condra and (George) Griffith."

"We want to elect our own officers."

The district president and secretary-treasurer are appointed by the national UMW headquarters in Washintgon and the field men, in this area, are named by the district president.

Alan Condra was appointed District of 28 president about nine months ago after William F. Minton retired. Griffiths has been secretary-treasurer for a number of years.

A spokesman for the pickets, who asked that his name not be used, said Minton "was forced to retire" and that Charles Minton, his son, was fired because of a "grudge and an attempt to get rid of all the Mintons."

The spokesman said the group had made an appeal to UMW president John L. Lewis and national headquarters but had received a reply they were being misled.

Special Group To Take Final Action Jan. 3

Truman Has Hopes Walkout Is Averted

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 27 (AP)—The steel union today called off a nationwide strike on New Year's Day but left the final decision on a work stoppage to a special convention Jan. 3.

The CIO United Steelworkers 170-man wage policy committee voted to direct the 650,000 USW members in the steel producing industry to stay on the job after their contracts expire at midnight Monday.

Meet At Atlantic City

The committee exphasizeed that the strike was put off only until the convention at Atlantic City, N. J., takes some action. The convention was called at the direction of the wage policy committee to map the union's future course in the stalemated steel contract talks.

President Truman had appealed to Philip Murray, head of both the CIO and the USW, to prevent a strike. He threatened to use whatever laws are on the books to keep steel mills open. The wage-policy committee said in a satement the formal answer to the President will be made by the convention.

Mr. Truman expressed happiness and hope when he heard the news at his Independence, Mo., home where he is spending the holidays. The President learned of the union action in a telephone call from Murray and made this volunteer statement:

"I am happy there will be no steel strike on Jan. 1 and I am hopeful there will be no strike at all."

The USW policymakers said the entire contract dispute with the steel industry is in the hands of the convention. They declared a work stoppage on New Year's Day—before the convention—would prejudge the issues.

At stake in the dispute is a whole new contract between the USW and all major steel producers. The union wants a 18½ cent hourly wage increase, a guranteed annual wage, union shop, improved premium and incentive pay and other concessions. The union says higher living costs and steel company profits justify bigger pay checks.

Made No Wage Offer

The industry has made no wage offer and says any increase will have to be accompanied by higher prices. Steel leaders maintain a pay hike would only add to inflationary pressure without giving the workers any real benefit.

Negotiations which began Nov. 27 stalled and the government stepped in. When federal mediators failed to make any progress, Mr. Truman turned the whole dispute over to the Wage Stabilization Board for a recommened settlement.

Times does not permit the WSB to study the tangled steel picture and come up with a recommended solution before the Jan. 1 deadline. Many observers expect the Atlantic City convention to decide to hold off a strike until the union gets a look at the WSB's idea of a settlement. That proposal will not be binding but public pressure might bring about its acceptance by both sides.

Wayne Top Money Maker

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27 (AP) — Straight-shooting, hard-riding John Wayne has again plugged his way to the top of the movie industry's money-makers.

For the second straight year, the action star captured the No. 1 spot in the Motion Picture Herald's poll of theater men. Wayne, who rose to his present position after 20 rugged years of movie making, was named the star who brought the most money through the box offices in 1951.

The skyrocketing team of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis placed second. Virtually unknown a couple of years ago, their zany comedy zoomed them to prominence on the screens of theaters as well as TV. They replaced the No. 2 star of last year, Bob Hope, who helped start them on their big-time careers.

Pals Hope and Bing Crosby, who placed second and third in 1950 and jockeyed for the top spot in previous years, dipped a few positions. Crosby is fifth and Hope sixth in this year's list.

No. 3 among the money-makers is Betty Grable, although she spent a large part of the year on suspension by her studio. The beauteous blonde is rounding out her 10th straight year on the list. Two other veterans, Abbott and Costello, placed fourth.

Rounding out the top 10 are Randolph Scott, Gary Cooper, Doris Day and Spencer Tracy, in that order.

Weather Forecast
Cloudy and continued cold today. Somewhat warmer tomorrow.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—One of the two mysterious blasts heard last night and today in this explosion-jittery city was only a firecracker.

Police Chief Herbert Warner of suburban Hialeah said a boom heard over a 25-block radius there last night was "an aerial bomb left over from the Fourth of July" which was set off by a honeymooning couple. He declined to give their names.

The Hialeah explosion and another heard four hours later in Coral Gables occurred two days after the death-bombing of a prominent Negro leader at Mims, a small community 40 miles south of Daytona Beach.

There have been three dynamite blasts at Carver Village, a Miami Negro housing project, and another at a Jewish synagogue since last June. Dynamite has been planted at six other Jewish and Catholic buildings but failed to go off.

Gov. Fuller Warren offered a $6,000 reward today for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the dynamiters and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People offered $5,000. That brought to $19,325 the amount of money offered by aroused communities and citizens.

Warren called the killing of T. Moore, 46-year-old Negro, "not only murder but terrorism."

Interne Rapes Polio Victim Paralyzed In Hospital Ward

SEATTLE, Dec. 27 (AP)—The prosecutor's office charged a Harborview County Hospital doctor interne today with raping a 22-year-old mother, partly paralyzed with polio, in her ward at the hospital.

The man, Dr. Roy B. Patton, 29, signed a statement admitting the offense under questioning by police, Detective Chief Emile Vallet reported. Dr. Patton, formerly of Columbus, Ohio, is married and has two children.

Prosecutor Charles O. Carroll, who filed the rape charge, also petitioned the court that Dr. Patton be adjudged a sexual psychopath. Superior Judge Theodore S. Turner set bail at $3,000. Dr. Patton was taken to the Seattle veterans hospital for observation.

The victim of the asserted assault said the attack occurred last Thursday night, Deputy Prosecutor John L. Voge' reported.

In the statement, the prosecutor said, the accused man told of giving the woman a sedative and then returning and attacking her after he believed sufficient time had elapsed for it to take effect.

The woman said she remained conscious, however, and moaned in an effort to attract the attention of nurses.

Dr. Patton came here last July from Ohio State University, where he had studied medicine and won 'outstanding" recommendations, the prosecutor said. He is a Navy veteran of the second world war.

Aerial War Continues On Korean Front

Ground Action Lulls; Two MIGs Shot Down

SEOUL, Korea, Friday, Dec. 28 (AP)—A bitter little battle on the Korean East-Central front crackled through its third day Thursday. Aloft American Sabre Jets shot down two Communist MIG-15 jets in a dogfight over North Korea.

The Far East Air Force sent 13 B-29 superforts on night raids over the Communist jet air base at Namsi and rail bridge at Sunchon and on frontline support missions.

Flak Is Intense

Intense flak was encountered over the airfield and bridge, both north of the Red Korean capital of Pyongyang, but all planes returned safely, the Air Force said.

The 30-day limit on the provisional cease-fire line expired at midnight, but the comparative lull in the ground war continued.

Reliable sources freely predicted the "twilight war" which began Nov. 28 would not flare into big-scale conflict, at least for some time.

The armistice talks are continuing, even though neither side mentioned any extension of the 30-day limit on the cease-fire line. By terms of the agreement, when all othe. armistice points are decided, the negotiators must redraw the cease-fire line to conform with any battlefront changes in the meantime.

However, the Chinese have given no indication of any buildup for an offensive, and the Allied command seemed satisfied to hold its present positions along the 145-mile-long front across the Korean peninsula.

Company Is Cut Off

At 7 a. m., Thursday, a company (possibly 200) of Reds cut off an advanced Allied position.

Allied troops counterattacked during the morning, and at last report were struggling through knee-deep snow in bitter cold to regain the position.

Remainder of the front was reported quiet, with light contact among patrols of 40 or so men each.

Thursday's air battle was a 30-minute scrap between 32 Sabres of the U. S. 51st Fighter-Interceptor Wing and 50 MIG jets. The Air Force reported that two MIGs were shot down, one was badly damaged, and that all American planes returned safely.

U. N. Demands Prisoner Account

MUNSAN Korea, Friday, Dec. 28 (AP) — United Nations negotiators pressed the Communists Thursday for a full accounting of more than 50,000 unlisted Allied prisoners and received a grim inkling of their possible fate—death by disease or exposure.

The ominous intimation that few, if any, of the unaccounted-for American and South Korean prisoners were still alive came from Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho, North Korean truce delegate handling prisoner of war exchange discussions.

The U. N. command had intimated for the first time that it might discuss a Communist proposal for an all-for-all prisoner exchange if the Communists would provide an "honest and factual" accounting of all the prisoners they have taken

MANCHESTER, Conn., Dec. 27 (AP) —A wealthy lumber dealer secretly entered the Christmas decorated home of his estranged wife, police reported today, slew her and two of their eight children, then committed suicide.

In an upstairs bedroom, 14-year-old Arthur England found the bodies of his parents, W. Harry and Louise England; his sister, Jane, 24; and his brother, Jonathan, 4. All had been shot.

Downstairs in the big eleven-room house, stood a Christmas tree with a toy railroad and other presents still heaped around its base.

The Englands, married since 1925, had been living apart as a result of a divorce suit filed by her and still pending in court.

Churchill Plans Talk On Atomic Energy On Trip

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP) — British Prime Minister Churchill has sent word that he wants to talk about a dozen broad subjects, including atomic energy, in his conferences with President Truman beginning here next week.

Diplomats familiar with Churchill's agenda said it is phrased in general topics and bears out the expectation of American officials that he is counting on a sweeping survey of all important Anglo-American world problems.

The Prime Minister is scheduled to arrive in New York late next week on the Queen Mary and to fly immediately to Washington. After five days of intensive conferences here, he is slated to visit New York for two days and Ottawa for about four days, returning to Washington about Jan. 15 or 16.

He is tentatively set to address Congress Jan. 17. He will begin his trip home about the 19th or 20th.

Several weeks ago the Prime Minister advised American diplomats in London that he did not intend to take up in Washington the question of American aid for Britain and that he had no particular agenda for his talks. Since that time American officials have urged that he at least indicate the range of topics he expected to cover so that preliminary preparations could be made.

The list of topics he has now sent here is understood to be divided into three categories, covering the following subjects:

Foreign affairs — general relationships involving the two countries; relations with Russia; problems of the Far East, Southeast Asia and the Near East; the Atlantic community.

Economic matters — the British position; industrial supplies, including steel.

Defense of the West — the European army; atomic energy; various military command, including the Atlantic command; rifle.

The list includes a number of controversial issues on which the President and Prime Minister are expected to seek clear mutual understanding if they cannot actually resolve them.

Burglars Ransack Office, Get $2,000

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 27 (AP)—Burglars ransacked an office building closed for the Christmas holiday and walked off with more than $2,000 in cash and checks, city police said today.

Mayor Roscoe C. Rowe, an attorney, occupied one of the offices but reported nothing missing.

Quake Hits Ancona

ANCONA, Italy, Dec. 27 (AP)—A sharp earthquake shook this Adriatic city today.

The quake lasted from five to six seconds. The frightened population fled into the streets. There were no immediate reports of casualties or damage.

Children Testify To Help Save Life Of Neighbor's Dog

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 27 (AP) — Kurt, a three-year-old Doberman-Pinscher, won his freedom in district court today after two little girls — children of a complainant — testified they were not afraid of the animal.

Kurt's owner, Harold Cutter, sought reversal of a police order to "restrain, confine or kill" the dog. The police issued the order after Clyde MacDonald, a neighbor, complained the dog was vicious.

MacDonald's children, Jean, 7, and Nancy, 6, testified they played with the dog and were not afraid of him. Their father asserted Kurt had knocked them down.

Judge Lawrence G. Brooks ordered the restraining order reversed. When the children left the courtroom they waved happily to the big dog in the courthouse corridor.

"Streetcar" Best Picture Of 1951

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—"A Streetcar Named Desire" was chosen today by the New York Film Critics as the best picture of 1951.

Runner-up and very close in the final balloting of 8 to 7 was "The River."

Best director—Elia Kazan for "Streetcar"; runner-up — George Stevens for "A Place In The Sun."

Best actress—Vivien Leigh in "Streetcar"; runner-up — Shelley Winters in "A Place In The Sun."

Grunewald Once Investigator In Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Attorney General McGrath said today that Washington mystery man Henry (The Dutchman) Grunewald was once an investigator for the Justice Department and the Republican National Committee and also worked for the alien property office.

The attorney general cleared up some of the obscurity surrounding Grunewald in a letter to Senator Wiley (R-Wis) who has recently been criticizing the alien property office, which functions under McGrath.

Grunewald was called as a witness before the King House committee investigating tax scandals last week. He refused to answer all questions about his activities and government associations.

Wiley, who recently wrote a number of officials in the Justice Department for information on Grunewald, said in a public statement last Monday that he had learned that Grunewald once worked for the alien property custodian.

McGrath, in replying, said Grunewald was appointed a special assistant in that office in 1942 by the then-custodian, Leo T. Crowley, at a salary of $22.22 a day when actually working.

McGrath said that although carried on the rolls from Sept. 12, 1942 until February 27, 1943, he had received government compensation of only $222.20 because he worked only 10 days on a special assignment to Omaha, Neb.

To get the job, Grunewald supplied the names of seven "rather prominent citizens, some of them in public service," McGrath said. He added that he would not name them publicly because there was no evidence that they knew of the use of their names "or were asked for statements."

Special Group To Take Final Action Jan. 3

Truman Has Hopes Walkout Is Averted

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 27 (AP)—The steel union today called off a nationwide strike on New Year's Day but left the final decision on a work stoppage to a special convention Jan. 3.

The CIO United Steelworkers 170-man wage policy committee voted to direct the 650,000 USW members in the steel producing industry to stay on the job after their contracts expire at midnight Monday.

Meet At Atlantic City

The committee exphasizeed that the strike was put off only until the convention at Atlantic City, N. J., takes some action. The convention was called at the direction of the wage policy committee to map the union's future course in the stalemated steel contract talks.

President Truman had appealed to Philip Murray, head of both the CIO and the USW, to prevent a strike. He threatened to use whatever laws are on the books to keep steel mills open. The wage-policy committee said in a satement the formal answer to the President will be made by the convention.

Mr. Truman expressed happiness and hope when he heard the news at his Independence, Mo., home where he is spending the holidays. The President learned of the union action in a telephone call from Murray and made this volunteer statement:

"I am happy there will be no steel strike on Jan. 1 and I am hopeful there will be no strike at all."

The USW policymakers said the entire contract dispute with the steel industry is in the hands of the convention. They declared a work stoppage on New Year's Day—before the convention—would prejudge the issues.

At stake in the dispute is a whole new contract between the USW and all major steel producers. The union wants a 18½ cent hourly wage increase, a guranteed annual wage, union shop, improved premium and incentive pay and other concessions. The union says higher living costs and steel company profits justify bigger pay checks.

Made No Wage Offer

The industry has made no wage offer and says any increase will have to be accompanied by higher prices. Steel leaders maintain a pay hike would only add to inflationary pressure without giving the workers any real benefit.

Negotiations which began Nov. 27 stalled and the government stepped in. When federal mediators failed to make any progress, Mr. Truman turned the whole dispute over to the Wage Stabilization Board for a recommened settlement.

Times does not permit the WSB to study the tangled steel picture and come up with a recommended solution before the Jan. 1 deadline. Many observers expect the Atlantic City convention to decide to hold off a strike until the union gets a look at the WSB's idea of a settlement. That proposal will not be binding but public pressure might bring about its acceptance by both sides.

Wayne Top Money Maker

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27 (AP) — Straight-shooting, hard-riding John Wayne has again plugged his way to the top of the movie industry's money-makers.

For the second straight year, the action star captured the No. 1 spot in the Motion Picture Herald's poll of theater men. Wayne, who rose to his present position after 20 rugged years of movie making, was named the star who brought the most money through the box offices in 1951.

The skyrocketing team of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis placed second. Virtually unknown a couple of years ago, their zany comedy zoomed them to prominence on the screens of theaters as well as TV. They replaced the No. 2 star of last year, Bob Hope, who helped start them on their big-time careers.

Pals Hope and Bing Crosby, who placed second and third in 1950 and jockeyed for the top spot in previous years, dipped a few positions. Crosby is fifth and Hope sixth in this year's list.

No. 3 among the money-makers is Betty Grable, although she spent a large part of the year on suspension by her studio. The beauteous blonde is rounding out her 10th straight year on the list. Two other veterans, Abbott and Costello, placed fourth.

Rounding out the top 10 are Randolph Scott, Gary Cooper, Doris Day and Spencer Tracy, in that order.

Miners Picket Headquarters In Dispute With Union Heads

NORTON, Va., Dec. 27 (AP) — Placard-carrying coal diggers picketed District 28 headquarters of the United Mine Workers here today in a show of dissension rare in the coal union's history of internal solidarity.

A spokesman for the 300 pickets, all of whom were believed to be union miners, said they wanted the District 28 president and some other officers fired.

The trouble apparently started, or came to a head, the spokesman said when UMW field representative Charles Minton was fired about a month ago.

The miners said that in addition to the firing of district officers they wanted an explanation as to why Minton was relieved of his duties.

Some of the placards shouldered by the milling miners read:

"Throw the union scabs out of District 28."

"We want honest leaders—not tyrants and dictators."

"Down with (Alan) Condra and (George) Griffith."

"We want to elect our own officers."

The district president and secretary-treasurer are appointed by the national UMW headquarters in Washintgon and the field men, in this area, are named by the district president.

Alan Condra was appointed District of 28 president about nine months ago after William F. Minton retired. Griffiths has been secretary-treasurer for a number of years.

A spokesman for the pickets, who asked that his name not be used, said Minton "was forced to retire" and that Charles Minton, his son, was fired because of a "grudge and an attempt to get rid of all the Mintons."

The spokesman said the group had made an appeal to UMW president John L. Lewis and national headquarters but had received a reply they were being misled.

Weather Forecast
Cloudy and continued cold today. Somewhat warmer tomorrow.

STEEL UNION CALLS OFF STRIKE

Stassen Tosses Hat Into GOP Ring

Advocates Six Point Program For Candidacy

Third Republican To Enter In Race

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen tonight announced he will seek the 1952 Republican nomination for President of the United States—third GOP aspirant for the nation's highest post.

Previously, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Governor Earl Warren of California had announced their candidacies. All three had been nominated at the Republican convention in Philadelphia in 1948. Warren was the GOP vice presidential nominee that year, running mate for Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

The former governor of Minnesota and now president of the University of Pennsylvania said he would pursue this program:

1. Higher moral standard in Washington "with plain honesty in public employes."

Modern Gold Standard

2. A modern gold standard to prevent "runaway inflation."

3. "Full employment, excellent farm income, conservation of natural resources and a balanced budget."

4. Harmony between labor, farmers and employers "with less taxpaying and more profit-sharing plans with employes throughout American business."

5. "A new American foreign policy x x x to win the peace and gain expanding freedom for ourselves and for others."

6. "An administration that is not a 'one-man" band.' "

Stassen revealed his decision to run in an address at a dinner given here by the Friends of Stassen Committee.

Stassen's presidential plans may be a major blow to Republicans backing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The 44-year-old Penn president recently returned from Europe where he held private conferences with Eisenhower. It was reported that Stassen would have backed Eisenhower if the general had hinted he would run.

Mentions Eisenhower

In his speech, Stassen mentioned Eisenhower only once, stating he would confer with the Atlantic Pact commander "on the problems of Western Europe" because "his views are very sound and his ability is remarkable."

Stassen is anti-Taft. Only last month he said he was convinced that the "overwhelmingly majority" of the American people do not want Taft or Mr. Truman as president.

Stassen said he had "considered long and prayerfully" the decision on whether to run and agreed to make the race in order to present his own "humanitarian and liberal program" to the people.

Though striking hard at what he called the inadequacies of the country's domestic program, Stassen declared "the most serious failures of the present national administration have been failures of foreign policy."

To Consult Experts

To put his program into effect if elected Stassen said he would seek counsel from:

Gen. Douglas MacArthur — "On problems of the Western Pacfic and in devising military plans for that area."

Bernard Baruch—"on questions of financial and economic policy, domestic and foreign."

Gen. Eisenhower — "On problems

Own Blood Saves Soldier

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 (AP)—The young soldier needed a blood transfusion badly. His eyes really popped when he saw his own name on the bottle as the precious fluid flowed into his veins.

The story of the soldier who donated his blood—and then got it back—was told at Letterman General Hospital today.

The soldier is Pvt. Richard A. Norman, 23, Wapato, Wash.

Norman was a member of Battery B, 87th Armored Field Artillery Battalion at Camp Roberts.

He was on a kitchen police duty when a cook lit a lamp which exploded. The startled cook hurled the lamp away from himself, and it hit Norman's legs.

He was burned severly and needed a quick blood transfusion.

Hungary Again Delays Action On U. S. Fliers

Commie Delegation To Reply Today

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 27 (AP)—Communist Hungary tonight delayed again—at least until tomorrow—her answer on a U. S. offer to pay $120,000 in fines for the prompt release of four American airmen held since their plane was forced down there by Soviet fighters Nov. 19.

The Hungarian government asked George Abbott, U. S. legation charge d'affaires in Budapest, to call at the foreign office at 10 a. m. (4 a. m., EST) tomorrow to get the reply.

GOP CANDIDATE — Harold E. Stassen has become the third Republican aspirant for the nation's presidency after the announcement last night that he had tossed his hat into the 1952 race for the GOP nomination. Previously Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Governor Earl Warren of California had announced their candidacies.

Announcement Is False

An announcement by the Hungarian legation in Washington Wednesday night indicated the fliers would be released today, but this proved to be wrong. A legation spokesman said then that Hungary already had accepted the American offer, but that the men could not be released before today because of the Christmas holidays.

With the latest development, however, it seemed doubtful that the Hungarians would free the airmen before Abbott sees the foreign office officials.

American officials here, keyed up in expectation that the four would be set free, have waited fruitlessly for two days to learn whether Hungary would accept the American offer. Red officials in Hungary would give no reason for the delay other than that the matter was under consideration by judicial and financial authorities. This led Western officials to suspect that the Hungarians may have referred the matter to Moscow for a high Communist policy decision on what to do.

A Hungarian court in Budapest last Sunday convicted the four crewmen of a U. S. Air Force plane —forced down in Hungary by Soviet fighters—on charges of 'premeditated violation" of the Hungarian border, and fined them the equivalent of $30,000 each.

Plane Is Confiscated

The court said if the fines were not paid the men would have to spend three months in prison. It also ordered the confiscation of the C-47 transport plane which the men flew on an ill-fated trip from Germany toward Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Although some westerners termed the fines out-and-out ransom, the U. S. government said its first consideration was to gain the release of the men, and offered to pay the

McCarthy Probe Said Effort To Discredit Solon

Former Counsel Says Case Political Move

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—A former aide to a Senate elections subcommittee said today its inquiry into the conduct of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) is an effort to "discredit and destroy" the senator.

Daniel G. Buckley got out a statement saying that as assistant counsel to the subcommittee "I was expected to substantiate Senator Benton's charges and to discredit Senator McCarthy at the expense of the truth."

The subcommittee is looking into charges by Senator Benton (D-Conn) that McCarthy has committed perjury and fraud and engaged in "calculated deceit" of the American people, and should be ejected from the Senate.

May Question Buckley

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa), the subcommittee chairman, told a reporter that Buckley's accusation seems absolutely ridiculous." He said the group "may subpoena Buckley" for questioning under oath. Buckley, a former New York lawyer, served as assistant counsel of the committee from Oct. 16 to Dec. 8.

At the time Buckley left the job, Gillette indicated the subcommittee had released him. He said Buckley had been employed originally only in a "temporary capacity."

Buckley disclaimed any interest in McCarthy "as a person," but said he had reached the conclusion that "Benton's case is without foundation and politically motivated."

He said his first assignment by the subcommittee was to go into the Wheeling, W. Va., speech which was Senator McCarthy's opening public statement in his effort to prove there was Communist subversion in the state department.

Specifically, Buckley said, he was instructed to check whether Mc-

Interne Rapes Polio Victim Paralyzed In Hospital Ward

Blast Caused By Firecracker

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—One of the two mysterious blasts heard last night and today in this explosion-jittery city was only a firecracker.

Police Chief Herbert Warner of suburban Hialeah said a boom heard over a 25-block radius there last night was "an aerial bomb left over from the Fourth of July" which was set off by a honeymooning couple. He declined to give their names.

The Hialeah explosion and another heard four hours later in Coral Gables occurred two days after the death-bombing of a prominent Negro leader at Mims, a small community 40 miles south of Daytona Beach.

There have been three dynamite blasts at Carver Village, a Miami Negro housing project, and another at a Jewish synagogue since last June. Dynamite has been planted at six other Jewish and Catholic buildings but failed to go off.

Gov. Fuller Warren offered a $6,000 reward today for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the dynamiters and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People offered $5,000. That brought to $19,325 the amount of money offered by aroused communities and citizens.

Warren called the killing of T. Moore, 46-year-old Negro, "not only murder but terrorism."

The list includes a number of controversial issues on which the President and Prime Minister are expected to seek clear mutual understanding if they cannot actually resolve them.

Burglars Ransack Office, Get $2,000

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 27 (AP)—Burglars ransacked an office building closed for the Christmas holiday and walked off with more than $2,000 in cash and checks, city police said today.

Mayor Roscoe C. Rowe, an attorney, occupied one of the offices but reported nothing missing.

Quake Hits Ancona

ANCONA, Italy, Dec. 27 (AP)—A sharp earthquake shook this Adriatic city today.

The quake lasted from five to six seconds. The frightened population fled into the streets. There were no immediate reports of casualties or damage.

Children Testify To Help Save Life Of Neighbor's Dog

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 27 (AP) — Kurt, a three-year-old Doberman-Pinscher, won his freedom in district court today after two little girls — children of a complainant — testified they were not afraid of the animal.

Kurt's owner, Harold Cutter, sought reversal of a police order to "restrain, confine or kill" the dog. The police issued the order after Clyde MacDonald, a neighbor, complained the dog was vicious.

MacDonald's children, Jean, 7, and Nancy, 6, testified they played with the dog and were not afraid of him. Their father asserted Kurt had knocked them down.

Judge Lawrence G. Brooks ordered the restraining order reversed. When the children left the courtroom they waved happily to the big dog in the courthouse corridor.

"Streetcar" Best Picture Of 1951

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—"A Streetcar Named Desire" was chosen today by the New York Film Critics as the best picture of 1951.

Runner-up and very close in the final balloting of 8 to 7 was "The River."

The critics also chose:

Best director—Elia Kazan for "Streetcar"; runner-up — George Stevens for "A Place In The Sun."

Best actor—Arthur Kennedy as the blind veteran in "Bright Victory"; runner-up—Marlon Brando in "Streetcar."

Best actress—Vivien Leigh in "Streetcar"; runner-up — Shelley Winters in "A Place In The Sun."

Best foreign film—the Italian-made "Miracle In Milan"; runner-up—the Japanese-made "Rashomon."

Grunewald Once Investigator In Justice Dept.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Attorney General McGrath said today that Washington mystery man Henry (The Dutchman) Grunewald was once an investigator for the Justice Department and the Republican National Committee and also worked for the alien property office.

The attorney general cleared up some of the obscurity surrounding Grunewald in a letter to Senator Wiley (R-Wis) who has recently been criticizing the alien property office, which functions under McGrath.

Grunewald was called as a witness before the King House committee investigating tax scandals last week. He refused to answer all questions about his activities and government associations.

Wiley, who recently wrote a number of officials in the Justice Department for information on Grunewald, said in a public statement last Monday that he had learned that Grunewald once worked for the alien property custodian.

McGrath, in replying, said Grunewald was appointed a special assistant in that office in 1942 by the then-custodian, Leo T. Crowley, at a salary of $22.22 a day when actually working.

McGrath said that although carried on the rolls from Sept. 12, 1942 until February 27, 1943, he had received government compensation of only $222.20 because he worked only 10 days on a special assignment to Omaha, Neb.

To get the job, Grunewald supplied the names of seven "rather prominent citizens, some of them in public service," McGrath said. He added that he would not name them publicly because there was no evidence that they knew of the use of their names "or were asked for statements."

Miners Picket Headquarters In Dispute With Union Heads

NORTON, Va., Dec. 27 (AP) — Placard-carrying coal diggers picketed District 28 headquarters of the United Mine Workers here today in a show of dissension rare in the coal union's history of internal solidarity.

A spokesman for the 300 pickets, all of whom were believed to be union miners, said they wanted the District 28 president and some other officers fired.

The trouble apparently started, or came to a head, the spokesman said when UMW field representative Charles Minton was fired about a month ago.

The miners said that in addition to the firing of district officers they wanted an explanation as to why Minton was relieved of his duties.

Some of the placards shouldered by the milling miners read:

"Throw the union scabs out of District 28."

"We want honest leaders—not tyrants and dictators."

"Down with (Alan) Condra and (George) Griffith."

"We want to elect our own officers."

The district president and secretary-treasurer are appointed by the national UMW headquarters in Washintgon and the field men, in this area, are named by the district president.

Alan Condra was appointed District of 28 president about nine months ago after William F. Minton retired. Griffiths has been secretary-treasurer for a number of years.

A spokesman for the pickets, who asked that his name not be used, said Minton "was forced to retire" and that Charles Minton, his son, was fired because of a "grudge and an attempt to get rid of all the Mintons."

The spokesman said the group had made an appeal to UMW president John L. Lewis and national headquarters but had received a reply they were being misled.

Special Group To Take Final Action Jan. 3

Truman Has Hopes Walkout Is Averted

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 27 (AP)—The steel union today called off a nationwide strike on New Year's Day but left the final decision on a work stoppage to a special convention Jan. 3.

The CIO United Steelworkers 170-man wage policy committee voted to direct the 650,000 USW members in the steel producing industry to stay on the job after their contracts expire at midnight Monday.

Meet At Atlantic City

The committee exphasizeed that the strike was put off only until the convention at Atlantic City, N. J., takes some action. The convention was called at the direction of the wage policy committee to map the union's future course in the stalemated steel contract talks.

President Truman had appealed to Philip Murray, head of both the CIO and the USW, to prevent a strike. He threatened to use whatever laws are on the books to keep steel mills open. The wage-policy committee said in a satement the formal answer to the President will be made by the convention.

Mr. Truman expressed happiness and hope when he heard the news at his Independence, Mo., home where he is spending the holidays. The President learned of the union action in a telephone call from Murray and made this volunteer statement:

"I am happy there will be no steel strike on Jan. 1 and I am hopeful there will be no strike at all."

The USW policymakers said the entire contract dispute with the steel industry is in the hands of the convention. They declared a work stoppage on New Year's Day—before the convention—would prejudge the issues.

At stake in the dispute is a whole new contract between the USW and all major steel producers. The union wants a 18½ cent hourly wage increase, a guranteed annual wage, union shop, improved premium and incentive pay and other concessions. The union says higher living costs and steel company profits justify bigger pay checks.

Made No Wage Offer

The industry has made no wage offer and says any increase will have to be accompanied by higher prices. Steel leaders maintain a pay hike would only add to inflationary pressure without giving the workers any real benefit.

Negotiations which began Nov. 27 stalled and the government stepped in. When federal mediators failed to make any progress, Mr. Truman turned the whole dispute over to the Wage Stabilization Board for a recommened settlement.

Times does not permit the WSB to study the tangled steel picture and come up with a recommended solution before the Jan. 1 deadline. Many observers expect the Atlantic City convention to decide to hold off a strike until the union gets a look at the WSB's idea of a settlement. That proposal will not be binding but public pressure might bring about its acceptance by both sides.

Wayne Top Money Maker

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27 (AP) — Straight-shooting, hard-riding John Wayne has again plugged his way to the top of the movie industry's money-makers.

For the second straight year, the action star captured the No. 1 spot in the Motion Picture Herald's poll of theater men. Wayne, who rose to his present position after 20 rugged years of movie making, was named the star who brought the most money through the box offices in 1951.

The skyrocketing team of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis placed second. Virtually unknown a couple of years ago, their zany comedy zoomed them to prominence on the screens of theaters as well as TV. They replaced the No. 2 star of last year, Bob Hope, who helped start them on their big-time careers.

Pals Hope and Bing Crosby, who placed second and third in 1950 and jockeyed for the top spot in previous years, dipped a few positions. Crosby is fifth and Hope sixth in this year's list.

No. 3 among the money-makers is Betty Grable, although she spent a large part of the year on suspension by her studio. The beauteous blonde is rounding out her 10th straight year on the list. Two other veterans, Abbott and Costello, placed fourth.

Rounding out the top 10 are Randolph Scott, Gary Cooper, Doris Day and Spencer Tracy, in that order.

Kefauver Cited To Head Probe

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP) — Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, noted crime fighter, has been suggested to President Truman as a good choice to head a government housecleaning commission.

Senator O'Conor (D-Md) announced today he had wired the President urging that Kefauver be named chief investigator of charges of corruption and irregularities in government service.

(In Kansas City, a reporter told the President as he was leaving the Hotel Muehlebach that there was a report he had decided to appoint Kefauver to the job. Mr. Truman replied there was not a thing to that report.)

Kefauver was chairman of the Senate Crime Committee whose investigation absorbed the attention of television viewers and millions of others.

O'Conor, who also was a member of the crime committee, issued a statement saying no more capable or courageous person could be selected for the new task than the Tennessee Democrat.

Carthy in that speech claimed to have a list of 205 Communists in the State Department or whether, as Senator McCarthy maintained, he had said he had a list of 57 individuals either members of or loyal to the Communist party.

He said that in Wheeling he interviewed "a large number of witnesses who were in a position to know" what McCarthy actually said, and that all but one of them "supplied information which cast grave doubt and suspicion on Senator Benton's story, and substantially corroborated Senator McCarthy's account of the facts." Benton had charged that McCarthy deliberately deceived the Senate about the contents of that speech.

New Light .30-Cal. Rifle Is Demonstrated By Army

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Dec. 27 (AP)—The Army today showed a group of observers including British military men, why it believes its new .30 caliber experimental light rifle is better than the weapon Britain wants the Western Allies to adopt.

Two British officers watched demonstrations, took notes, then fired the rifles.

Asked how the American gun compared with the .280 calibre rifle urged by Prime Minister Churchill, who soon will come to Washington to talk about several items including rifle standarization, one Briton said,

"I can't compare the two rifles without giving away information that is classified by my government.

"I think this (the American rifle) is extremely impressive as compared with the M-1 (the present standard U. S. rifle) because it has a tremendous advantage in its light weight."

But whatever the opinion of the British, the United States army put itself on record today as "firmly opposed" to using any shoulder arm with less knock-down power than is delivered by the .30 caliber American gun or the 7.62 milimeter rifle used by Russia. Britain's .280 rifle reportedly has lower muzzle velocity and accordingly less shocking power than either the American or Soviet weapons.

U.S. ordnance officers emphasized that the American Army intends to retain the .30 caliber size for both standard infantry rifles and for new rifles in development.

They explained the purpose of the new light rifle project is to provide a weapon with all the power of the reliable M-1 with two added features: (1) full automatic fire (like a machine gun) as well as the semi-automatic fire of the M-1; (2) a reduction in weight from 9¾ pounds for the M-1 to about eight pounds for the light rifle. A third advantage is the reduction in size and weight of ammunition used for the new guns.

Couple Found Dead In Parked Auto

NIOBRARA, Nebr., Dec. 27 (AP)—No one in this northeast Nebraska town of 577 persons paid much attention to the auto parked for three days next to the railroad depot.

But late yesterday a railroad employe, sweeping the station platform, took a moment to look into the frost-covered car.

Inside it he found a dead woman, Miss Mavis Brandt, 17, and an unconscious man, Willard Nelson, 31, both of Niobrara. Nelson died early today at a Plainview, Nebr. hospital.

Help Each Other

DETROIT, Dec. 27 (AP) — Home owners and business men often aided by firemen had a chance today to return the favor. Fire Chief Edward J. Blohm asked them to help uncover hundreds of fire hydrants buried by snow.

Wordsworth and Edgar Allen Poe occasionally wrote the last stanzas of poems first. Two examples are We Are Seven and The Raven.

Family Of Six Dies When Train Hits Car

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—Six persons were crushed to death today when a Florida East Coast Railway freight crashed into their car at a crossing about four miles from here.

The car was registered in the name of Mack Cooner, 40, West Jacksonville, where neighbors told police the family had started for Miami this morning.

The neighbors said the family consisted of Cooner and his wife and their four children.

Hungary Is Accused Of Seizing Island

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP)—Yugoslavia formally accussed Hungary today of seizing a small frontier island by armed force. Immediate withdrawal of Hungarian troops was demanded.

Belgrade radio, in a broadcast monitored here, said a Yugoslav note warned the Budapest government the "forcible annexation of part of Yugoslav territory is calculated to provoke serious conflict."

Yugoslavia said a company of Hungarian troops occupied the island in the River Mura—which divides the two countries—on Dec. 20.

fines. But in its offer it demanded the immediate release of the men.

The four fliers are Capt. Dave H. Henderson of Shawnee, Okla., Capt. John J. Swift of Glens Falls, N. Y.; T/Sgt. Jess A. Duff of Spokane, Wash., and Sgt. James A. Elam of Kingsland, Ark.

New Light .30-Cal. Rifle Is Demonstrated By Army

ABERDEEN PROVING GROUND, Md., Dec. 27 (AP)—The Army today showed a group of observers including British military men, why it believes its new .30 caliber experimental light rifle is better than the weapon Britain wants the Western Allies to adopt.

Two British officers watched demonstrations, took notes, then fired the rifles.

Asked how the American gun compared with the .280 calibre rifle urged by Prime Minister Churchill, who soon will come to Washington to talk about several items including rifle standarization, one Briton said,

"I can't compare the two rifles without giving away information that is classified by my government.

"I think this (the American rifle) is extremely impressive as compared with the M-1 (the present standard U. S. rifle) because it has a tremendous advantage in its light weight."

But whatever the opinion of the British, the United States army put itself on record today as "firmly opposed" to using any shoulder arm with less knock-down power than is delivered by the .30 caliber American gun or the 7.62 milimeter rifle used by Russia. Britain's .280 rifle reportedly has lower muzzle velocity and accordingly less shocking power than either the American or Soviet weapons.

U.S. ordnance officers emphasized that the American Army intends to retain the .30 caliber size for both standard infantry rifles and for new rifles in development.

They explained the purpose of the new light rifle project is to provide a weapon with all the power of the reliable M-1 with two added features: (1) full automatic fire (like a machine gun) as well as the semi-automatic fire of the M-1; (2) a reduction in weight from 9¾ pounds for the M-1 to about eight pounds for the light rifle. A third advantage is the reduction in size and weight of ammunition used for the new guns.

Couple Found Dead In Parked Auto

NIOBRARA, Nebr., Dec. 27 (AP)—No one in this northeast Nebraska town of 577 persons paid much attention to the auto parked for three days next to the railroad depot.

But late yesterday a railroad employe, sweeping the station platform, took a moment to look into the frost-covered car.

Inside it he found a dead woman, Miss Mavis Brandt, 17, and an unconscious man, Willard Nelson, 31, both of Niobrara. Nelson died early today at a Plainview, Nebr. hospital.

Help Each Other

DETROIT, Dec. 27 (AP) — Home owners and business men often aided by firemen had a chance today to return the favor. Fire Chief Edward J. Blohm asked them to help uncover hundreds of fire hydrants buried by snow.

Wordsworth and Edgar Allen Poe occasionally wrote the last stanzas of poems first. Two examples are We Are Seven and The Raven.

Family Of Six Dies When Train Hits Car

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—Six persons were crushed to death today when a Florida East Coast Railway freight crashed into their car at a crossing about four miles from here.

The car was registered in the name of Mack Cooner, 40, West Jacksonville, where neighbors told police the family had started for Miami this morning.

The neighbors said the family consisted of Cooner and his wife and their four children.

Hungary Is Accused Of Seizing Island

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP)—Yugoslavia formally accussed Hungary today of seizing a small frontier island by armed force. Immediate withdrawal of Hungarian troops was demanded.

Belgrade radio, in a broadcast monitored here, said a Yugoslav note warned the Budapest government the "forcible annexation of part of Yugoslav territory is calculated to provoke serious conflict."

Yugoslavia said a company of Hungarian troops occupied the island in the River Mura—which divides the two countries—on Dec. 20.

Forster Named To High Post With Hercules

Albert E. Forster has been elected a vice president and member of the executive committee of Hercules Powder Company, the company announced yesterday. Paul Mayfield has been appointed general manager of the Naval Stores Department, succeeding Forester to that position.

The election of Forster to a vice presidency fills a vacancy created by the retirement last week of Petrus W. Meycringh because of ill health.

Forster first joined Hercules Powder Company in 1925 at San Francisco, Calif., as a technical service representative of the Explosives Department. From there, he was transferred to Wilmington for two years, and then returned to San Francisco.

He returned to the technical service division of Hercules Explosives Department in Wilmington in 1934. The following year he was named assistant superintendent of the dynamite plant at Carthage, Mo. In 1937, he was appointed assistant manager of the Birmingham, Ala., sales office, returning to Wilmington in 1939 as manager of Explosives service division. The following year he became assistant general manager of the Explosives Department.

Later in 1940, he transferred to the Naval Stores Department as assistant general manager, and a month later, became general manager of that department. He was elected to the board of directors in May, 1941.

The son of a railroad engineering executive, Forster was born in Cuernavaca, Mexico, his parents' temporary residence during construction of a railroad in Mexico. He received his early education in San Francisco. He graduated from Stanford University in California with a bachelor of arts degree in geology, and remained at the university an additional two years to earn a degree in mining engineering.

He is a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, the New York Uptown Club, Wilmington Club, Wilmington Country Club, Hercules Country Club, and is a member of the Stanford Associates.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster and their three children live in Westover Hills, Wilmington, Del.

Mayfield became associated with Hercules Powder Company in 1925 as a chemist at the company's experiment station, then located at Kenvil, N. J. The following year he transferred to the Parlin, N. J., plant as chemist.

In 1927, he moved to Wilmington as a member of the Cellulose Products Department sales staff. Four years later after a world-wide trip, he was assigned to the Chicago, Ill., office. In 1934, he was named manager of both naval stores and cellulose products sales in Chicago.

Mayfield returned to Wilmington in 1936 as assistant director of sales of the Naval Stores Department. Three years later, he became director of sales. He was appointed assistant general manager of the department in 1943.

A native of Little York, Indiana, Mayfield attended schools there and in Salem, Indiana. He earned a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry at Indiana University.

He is a member of the American Chemical Society, Wilmington Country Club, Hercules Country Club, Alpha Chi Sigma and Theta Chi fraternities. He is a vice president and director of the National Agricultural Chemicals Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayfield and their two children live at Beechwold, Weldin and Talley Roads, near Wilmington.

Former Resident Wins Fla. Trip

A former resident of Cumberland was recipient of a week's vacation trip to Daytona Beach, Fla., by air, with all expenses paid.

Mrs. Cathern, J. Shadwell, daughter of Mrs. A. A. McDonald, 311 Laing Avenue, received the trip sponsored by an Arlington, Va., department store. She spent the week of December 14-21 at the Florida resort enjoying swimming, fishing and boating.

In order to compete for the award, Mrs. Shadwell, an employe of the National Production Authority, filled out an entry blank and expressed her reason as to why she would like to spend the week in Daytona Beach.

She is a graduate of Allegany High School and has been employed by the government for the past three years.

Patrick Cain's Will Admitted To Probate

The will of Patrick J. Cain, 86, 624 Washington Street, who died November 2, was admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

In the document which was dated August 20, 1931, Cain left his widow, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Cain, a life interest in his entire estate with the right to sell and convey the same. At her death the estate is to be divided, share and share alike, among their three children, Mrs. Margaret G. Madden, Pittsburgh, Pa.; John Charles Cain, Baltimore, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Cain, this city.

The widow was named executrix of the estate under terms of the will but she renounced her claim. As a consequence the son was appointed administrator cta.

Length of the United States-Canadian boundary line is 3,898 miles.

Patrick Cain's Will Admitted To Probate

The will of Patrick J. Cain, 86, 624 Washington Street, who died November 2, was admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

In the document which was dated August 20, 1931, Cain left his widow, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Cain, a life interest in his entire estate with the right to sell and convey the same. At her death the estate is to be divided, share and share alike, among their three children, Mrs. Margaret G. Madden, Pittsburgh, Pa.; John Charles Cain, Baltimore, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Cain, this city.

The widow was named executrix of the estate under terms of the will but she renounced her claim. As a consequence the son was appointed administrator cta.

Length of the United States-Canadian boundary line is 3,898 miles.

Not In Bottles

A recent issue of a picture weekly tells about women in their 40s who have been fairly successful at looking as if they might still be in their 20s. Scanners of the picture weekly are led to believe that their exercises and their diets and so forth were good for their physical health. Certainly the glow of health is a great beautifier and rejuvenator.

No data are provided on the state of their mental health. The battle against middle age is a holding action at best, and as the hated enemy inexorably approaches closer the strain on feminine nerves must be heavy. It is easier, of course, to be one's age.

Many European visitors, the beggars, look upon the American cult of youth-worship with some amazement. Middle-age, they say, can be the best part of a woman's life. Why not relax and enjoy it? But this advice, if it is heard at all, is not heeded amid the clamor of the ads.

If the advertisers know what they are doing, the conclusion is inescapable that a woman's sole aim in life is to acquire the qualities adumbrated by that broadly mysterious Scots word, glamor. And the way to acquire it, according to the advertisers' consensus, is to fake it.

Put on more lipstick, conceal unsightly bulges with "girdles" (my, no, not corsets) bathe in carbolic acid, brush tusks with ammonia, mold the figure, reduce with pills and potions, anoint with lascivious scents. Glamour—ah!

A mite of paint and perfume and even clothing can make women more attractive. But glamour—or glamor—formerly was a good word and it meant something that cannot be faked. Good health and good muscle tone are part of it. A warm disposition and a sense of humor added will do more for a woman's looks than anything that ever came out of a bottle.

Anyway, looks aren't everything. That incorporated busybody who can be as wrong as anybody, George Gallup, reports that men put it well down on the list of qualities they want in a wife. They prefer—if Gallup can be believed this time—women who know their way around a home, women who are understanding, kind, easy to get along with.

Would it be outlandish to suggest that these qualities, whether the girls realize it or not, also have something to do with glamor?

Less Meat, More Bread

The government's final crop report of the old year confirmed reports that the corn crop was a disappointing one. Corn is the raw material for meat, milk and eggs. Thus recent predictions that meat prices would drop would seem to have been wishful consumer thinking.

The 1951 corn crop is now estimated at 2,941,423,000 bushels, a decline of 147,000,000 bushels from the estimate of a month ago, and 435,000,000 bushels short of the government's goal. The figure is well below the 10-year average.

Unless a sharply larger crop of corn is produced next year a cutback in livestock production may be looked for. Corn reserves will be dipped into deeply before the next harvest.

Despite the unsatisfactory corn crop, food production as a whole turned out rather favorable. The total farm crop volume was exceeded only in 1948 and 1949, according to Department of Agriculture figures.

On the heels of the government's corn crop estimate comes an optimistic forecast of the 1952 wheat crop, also by the government. The forecast indicates wheat production in 1952 may exceed 1,200,000 bushels to become the third largest crop on record. The reserve supply of wheat has declined from 427,000,000 bushels to approximately 335,000,000 bushels in two years because of heavy overseas shipments.

Wheat crop forecasts at this period are little more than guesses. Only winter wheat has been sown and weather or insect infestation could still play hob with that crop. But with reserves of livestock feed grains, as well as wheats, lower than at any time in several years, lower prices for meat butter, eggs and bread seem not to be in the cards, although supplies are expected to be ample.

100 Million Vehicles

As the auto makers join in a plea for better highways they continue to make cars long and wide. That leaves height as the only dimension on the decrease, to the enragement of those who still wear hats.

But it is the buyers, not the makers, who determine the kind of cars to be built. Americans want them big and roomy, as unlike European pushmobiles as possible. Restrictions in steel allotted the motor industry are showing up in fewer, not smaller, cars.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association knows people are going to continue to buy cars regardless of how slow and crowded many roads are becoming. So it is difficult to see selfish motives in their citing of some staggerng figures.

In 1930 there were 26,000,000 cars and trucks. Before long there will be 50,000,000. The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is quoted as estimating that "the highway traffic will double within the next 18 years." Double again, that is.

The cry in the twenties was "get out of the mud." Now one of the motor makers has produced a color movie entitled "Let's Get Out of the Muddle." No one knows better than the high-taxes motor industry the problem of financing new, fast, durable highways. And no group is better fitted to lead a new good roads movement in the United States.

That movement is getting under way, for toll roads as well as tax-built roads. The national safety and well-being depend as never before on highways.

Undodgeable Award

"Not for me," said Louis Poirier when told he had been chosen for France's most coveted literary award, the Goncourt prize. Not only does the 49-year-old novelist, playwright and history teacher disbelieve in literary prizes, but he has written a pamphlet attacking the idea. Readers should, in M. Poirier's opinion, determine the worth of his surrealistic novel, "The Bank of Quicksand."

Nothing like this has happened since Sinclair Lewis turned down something termed a "Pulitizer prize."

M. Poirier may well forego his prize, but the effect of the award cannot be escaped. It may be counted on to boost mightily the sales of his story of a 300-years' war.

How To Keep Well

Diabetes And The Pancreas

Insulin, used in the treatment of diabetes, must be administered hypodermically. This is a drawback and many wonder why the hormone cannot be taken by mouth. Researchers have been struggling with this problem for years but it is difficult to go against nature and I'll tell you why.

It is necessary to know the story of insulin to appreciate this remedy. The clew that the pancreas was involved in diabetes came when early medical pioneers discovered that the disease could be reproduced in animals by removing that organ. They also learned that the pancreas secreted a ferment directly into the intestine and it was only natural that this substance also should undergo investigation.

In the next series of experiments the tube that carries the intestinal secretions was tied off. To the investigators' amazement, diabetes failed to develop. Later it was found that when the gland was taken out and studied under the microscope certain cells were unaffected by this tying-off procedure. These cells (the islands of Langerhans) differed from those that manufacture the pancreatic juice released into the intestines and apparently are not involved in the process of digestion; but they do produce a hormone that goes directly into the blood. It remained for Banting and Best to isolate insulin and separate the chemical from the islands of Langerhans.

If nature had intended insulin to be absorbed from the intestinal tract, she might have incorporated it into the digestive juices. The setup exists, the tubes are in place, and all that is required is to open the faucet. However, nature thought better of it. Furthermore, there is no delay, dilution, or contamination when a substance bypasses the stomach and is absorbed directly into the blood. Nothing is impossible but this fact may explain why medical scientists have had so much trouble trying to make an insulin product that can be taken in tablet or capsule form.

Research workers have not limited their efforts to this problem. Some have taken it for granted that insulin must be injected and have spent their time improving and purifying the compound. It is possible, for example, for diabetics who need insulin to keep the disease under perfect control on only one injection a day. In the past these individuals were forced to use the hypodermic syringe before each meal. They were human pincushions and greatly handicapped so far as their activities were concerned. These insulins are mixed with other chemicals which delay their absorption and some remain active for 24 hours or more.

Not all diabetics require insulin. Many who develop the disturbance later in life are able to continue on a diet. The menus omit foods that are excessively high in starch such as cake, candy, pie, and ice cream. Bread and potato are eaten in moderation but the amounts of meat, fruit, and vegetables are essentially unchanged. Coffee is not prohibited and cream is allowed but not sugar.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses the weak-kneed.

SKIPPED BEAT

L. C. writes: What is the name of the condition where the heart seems to skip a beat when excited? I do not refer to palpitation.

REPLY

Love? You may refer to extrasystoles but this phenomenon is more common when the individual is quiet and the heart is beating slowly.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Mrs. E. writes: A friend of mine is going to marry a man with two children. She wants children of her own and wonders if they would look like their children or his children.

REPLY

If they all look like the papa, there should be a close resemblance.

MORE THAN A WEEK

L. O. writes: How long does a black eye last?

REPLY

Seven to 10 days.

THE GRUNTER

M. E. writes: I am always grunting audibly, so I'm told, even though I am unconscious of doing it. Is it nerves or old age?

REPLY

This is a nervous habit and probably has a little to do with both.

CHOCOLATE AND PIMPLES

L. W. writes: I love to drink hot chocolate at night before going to bed but it seems to cause pimples. Is there any way I can avoid this reaction?

REPLY

Chocolate is one of the most common offenders and the only way out is to stop taking it as often as you do. I say this because it has been found that some individuals can tolerate a small amount, say one cup every third night, without developing "hickeys."

Mystery Man Grunewald Has Friends In High Places; Crowley Banned Probe Of Grunewald's Past; Dutchman Remained In U. S. As An Alien

WASHINGTON—One of the most amazing things about "Mystery Man" Henry Grunewald is the way he has been able to ingratiate himself with those in high places.

Henry is able to slip in to see the Vice President, has a letter of thanks from President Truman for a campaign contribution, drops in to see GOP Senator Brewster of Maine who calls him "Henry," and got GOP Senator Bridges of New Hampshire to help him pull wires on a tax fraud case. He has three limousines, a winter house in Miami Beach, a summer house at Spring Lake, N. J., and uses the Washington Hotel apartment of former Secretary of War Harry Woodring.

How he manages all these contacts no one exactly knows, especially in view of the fact that he was unwilling to answer any questions about himself before the King Committee.

However, strangest of all connections was with the former alien property custodian, Leo Crowley—despite Crowley's denials. Grunewald had such a close friendship with Crowley that he was actually authorized to speak for him at stockholders' meeting of the big alien corporations in wartime.

Crowley now says: "I don't remember Grunewald." However, at the time he was hired, Crowley's office put a memo in the files showing his astonishing trust in "The Dutchman" by stopping any investigation of Grunewald's past.

Grunewald's Past

"The Office of the Custodian has investigated Mr. Grunewald," Crowley's office stated on Aug. 25, '42, "and because of the nature of the work to be performed by this man for the custodian, it is requested that the Civil Service Commission refrain from making any investigation of Mr. Grunewald. His record is entirely satisfactory to the custodian."

Perhaps what Crowley wanted to cover up was Grunewald's record as a government prohibition agent. This showed he was demoted from $4,000 to $1,800 a year on January 12, 1922, and finally was kicked out of the government on October 3, 1922, after being indicted by a New York grand jury in connection with the "illegal removal and disposition of liquor."

Later, in a job application, Grunewald gave this version of his indictment: "In October, 1922, while I was a general agent assigned to the New York prohibition office, I was indicted by a federal grand jury in the Southern District of New York for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law. The indictment named a number of individuals, including Mr. Roswell A. Saver and myself. The case against me was dismissed after a verdict was indicated to the jury by Federal Judge Winslow. . . .

50 Years An Alien

"In fairness to myself," Grunewald explained, "I believe that I should add that the whole indictment was a move in a political battle raging in New York at that time, and the prohibition unit was simply a pawn."

Here are some more things which the Mystery Man might have told the King Committee but didn't:

Grunewald was born May 19, 1892, at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, but neglected to become naturalized as an American citizen until February 3, 1942. This was two months after Pearl Harbor and after he went to work for the alien property custodian.

For years, as an alien, Grunewald worked for various branches of the government. He served in the U. S. Navy from 1909 to 1914, worked as a desk clerk at the Naval Young Men's Christian Association in Brooklyn, got a job in 1915 as a bookkeeper for Western Electric in New York City.

His first job as an investigator came in 1917, when he secured a temporary appointment with the old FBI. In 1919, he served as confidential investigator for the Republican National Committee at $6,000. In 1921 he got a $4,000-a-year job with the Commissioner of Prohibition which, ironically, came under the Internal Revenue Bureau. It was his relations with ex-Commissioner Schoeneman and ex-Counsel Oliphant of Internal Revenue which recently brought Grunewald into the limelight.

Grunewald has also developed some interesting contacts in the liquor business, and as late as 1944 he was under investigation by the Alcohol Tax Unit for alleged black-marketing in liquor.

Grunewald also spent from 1928 to 1942 as a personal, confidential investigator for Henry W. Marsh, the insurance mogul, at a stated salary of $12,000 to $18,000.

NOTE—In his tax returns Grunewald does not give the source of large chunks of income. This column is still mystified how, from such a relative modest salary and background, he was able to operate two homes, three limousines and developed so many high contacts.

Christmas Gifts

Graft scandals have made government officials so jittery that Christmas packages from business friends were scrutinized this year as never before.

Some officials returned anything looking like "influence" gifts without even opening the package to see what was inside. However, the wife of a Navy Department employe couldn't resist the temptation and opened a large, ornately wrapped box brought by the mailman.

Inside was a year's supply of Boy Scout calendars for her husband, an Arlington, Va., scoutmaster.

Merry-Go-Round

Holiday joke going the rounds at the hard-pressed Bureau of Internal Revenue: First Employe—"What are you giving your wife for Christmas?" Second Employe—"An Oliphant hide bag with shoes to match." . . . The volume of Christmas mail this year, including parcel post, set another all-time record, 30 per cent greater than last year. . . . P. O. officials estimated it was enough to fill a string of boxcars stretching from Washington to Chicago. . . . Happy Chandler, president of the International Baseball Congress, plans a baseball "Olympic" in the United States in which top American amateur teams would compete against teams from Japan, Western Germany, Mexico, Canada, Argentina and other countries. . . . Happy won't be unhappy if the big league owners who ousted him as baseball commissioner — and who outlaw American professional ballplayers that jump to Mexico—are on the spot by the good-will tournament.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If you were living in Moscow on Christmas Day and had been observing for some time the attitude of the Soviet government and the Russian people, what would your thoughts be and what advice would you pass on to your American friends?

A diplomat in Moscow sent to a personal friend in the United States a Christmas card with a note on it that reflects his observations on the passing scene. For reasons of discretion, the nationality of the diplomat cannot be divulged. His note reads as follows:

"Merry Christmas from merry Moscow.

"Last night I saw a performance of Tolstoy's "Resurrection" at the Moscow Art Theater, and walking home past the Kremlin walls and the Church of Basil, the Blest, through the snow and crowds of silent, surly people, I decided to reread the novel. There on the titlepage was Tolstoy's inscription from Matthew: 'Then came Peter to Him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, until seven times; but until 70 times seven.'

World Of Meaning

"And so, in spite of the incredible atmosphere of one-man-made hatred in which I live here (or maybe because of it), that perhaps is what I should say this Christmas.

"Of one thing, indeed, I am sure: The only way we can win in the battle against the Russians right now and in the end, is to make your country and ourselves (and particularly me) better, purer, truer."

This brief message contains a world of meaning. For basically the problem today is not to bring on more bloodshed if it can be avoided, because that would avail little in the long run, but to find a way to prove to 200,000,000 people in Russia that they can be masters of their own destiny. For the atom bomb by itself is harmless. It's the hand that can throw the atom bomb which has to be guided, so as to allow restraint and the strictures of a real conscience to govern the behavior of that hand.

Unless the minds of the Russian people can be won, there cannot be peace. But to win those minds, the United States and its allies cannot expect mere broadcasts of boasts and pride, tales of American armed superiority and theoretical plans to bomb Russian cities to be the theme of the Voice of America. The Russian mind can be won only if it perceives that the American mind is truly unselfish and actually devoid of the impurities which beset a prosperous and powerful nation.

The true Voice is a voice of truth and decency. It is not typified by tax scandals or by the sinfulness of a political system which is eating away at the virtues of the nation like a cancer and causing its tissues of prestige to deteriorate before the world.

Looked Upon As Bribes.

The dollars that America sends abroad are not in themselves a voice of truth or of purity. They are acts of generosity but they are also looked upon in other countries as designed to influence, if not bribe, other nations into adopting policies they should desire of their own initiative to adopt without regard to materialistic considerations.

There are lots of things that not only the United States but Britain and France and Germany and Spain and Italy will have to do as nations to develop in the world the kind of moral spirit that can attract allies from behind the iron curtain. But in that great crusade for a better world, there is not much that can be achieved unless a purge of sinfulness penetrates all the nations that seek but perhaps do not yet deserve freedom from worry and tension.

The message from the diplomat in Moscow in reality counsels patience. It is not a counsel of nonresistance or pacifism. It is a counsel that points to moral as well as physical vigor. Once the combination is achieved, the people of Russia will some day learn to distinguish between sincerity and insincerity, trust and distrust, hypocrisy and genuine faith. For only by the power of example can great victories be won in the realm of human behavior.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Stock-Jobbing Propaganda

It is not often that I read advertisements of stock-jobbers, but when one bore the title, "Eisenhower as a market influence," it caught the eye.

Poor Ike! How his friends abuse him! Arthur Wiesenberger and Company first announced that their pamphlet "Eisenhower as a Market Influence" is described as "must" by eminent authorities, names, of course, not given. It is also stated that this learned document is available for $2.50, which seems a lot of money for a four-page affair, even though with it comes the aforesaid company's investment report for 1952, which I have not yet read.

I receive such published matter from banks, brokerage houses and similar institutions, free of charge, daily to the amount of several large waste paper basketsful. Sometimes one is excellent, but I figure that $2.50 is an outside price for this one, equivalent to a mink coat bought wholesale, comparatively.

So, I got the thing, read it in three minutes flat, and was no wiser after I encountered Arthur Wiesenberger and Company than before. Seven palpable reasons, none of them different from anything that you might have seen in a dozen or two newspaper articles, are given to explain why Ike Eisenhower would be "an ideal candidate." The foremost reason is:

"1. An apparent minimum of political commitments."

Precisely what the writer means by that is not clear. If he means that General Eisenhower has taken no stand on the important political issues affected the American people, it is not quite true. General Eisenhower has definitely supported the foreign policy of the Truman administration, avoiding, however, any serious discussion of current domestic affairs. He did once make a speech in favor of private enterprise.

If, however, the writer of this special supplement means that General Eisenhower has avoided commitments of a personal nature, he is altogether wrong, for the General is definitely tied in with three groups:

1. The Dewey-Duff-Morse combination of Republicans to whom are joined Senators Lodge and Saltonstall, who are captives of the CIO because of the political conditions in the State of Massachusetts. This is a formidable group in the Republican party and cannot be ignored by General Eisenhower's opponents, nor is it believable that such practical men would walk out on a limb without some commitment from the General. They have been successful in their own operations and would not readily take risks that could eliminate them from any voice in the affairs of their party.

2. A select group of businessmen have been commuting between New York and Paris, ostensibly to inform themselves on General Eisenhower but actually to build a relationship to him. Some of the businessmen have been gathering a pre-convention campaign fund on General Eisenhower's behalf. It is impossible to believe that these substantial and practical businessmen would undertake such an operation without known what they are doing. Most of them are the same men who put over Wendell Willkie.

3. There is an anti-Truman group within the administration who hope that General Eisenhower might be the Republican candidate, so that, come what may, they will continue in office. This group and their journalistic associates, included the publishers of some magazines of national circulation, are risking their all on the Eisenhower candidacy.

As things go politically, all this involves commitments, the Wiesenberger statement to the contrary notwithstanding.

Finally, it is doubtful whether it would be sound to put any real money on the following sage advice from the aforesaid Wiesenberger:

"And what about the market? Would Dwight Eisenhower's election send the market to the traditional three per cent peak yield basis (500 + DOW?) Not immediately, of course Eventually.

"A deep underlying cause of distrust, fear and timidity on the part of the investor lies in the feeling that we are drifting, perhaps quite unconsciously, toward a socialistic state with all that may mean in the way of indefinite continuance of huge government expenditures, high taxes, controls and the inevitable interference with free markets.

"The nomination alone of Eisenhower could send to the stock market a large volume of idle funds awaiting a favorable occasion, his election even more."

Hold your horses, fellow citizens! There is nothing more uncertain than cause and effect in the stock market, as Bernard Baruch always advises the suckers. Certainly the cause and effect indicated here is not an 8-5 bet. Why are financiers such incompetent politicians?

Matter Of Fact

By STEWART ALSOP

Summing Up: Europe Breathes More Easily

WASHINGTON

There has been during the past year a change in the whole atmosphere in Europe. This change, deep but difficult to define precisely, is one of the most lasting impressions left by this reporter's recent trip abroad. The difference is essentially this. A year ago, most European leaders believed that Soviet military aggression in Europe might very well be imminent. Now they no longer believe so.

To a considerable extent, this change is a matter more of instinct than of hard evidence. Last week, Winston Churchill warned that war might come, but added, "I do not think it will come." Some time previously, in a talk with an intimate, Churchill drew the parallel between the world situation today and the situation after Hitler had come to power. He pointed out the obvious similarities, and said that from the moment Hitler came to power he had "felt in his bones" that war was coming. But, he said, he did not "feel it in his bones" now.

The change in atmosphere is not entirely, of course, a matter of the feeling in the bones of European leaders like Churchill. For one thing, for reasons already reported in this space, the Soviets cannot now launch a surprise attack in Europe. To make ready an assault on the strengthened forces under General Dwight D. Eisenhower would require at least two months of preparations. And there are no signs that these preparations are being made.

Soviet Propaganda Changing

Military intelligence reports no slackening of the great Soviet rearmament effort which has been going on since the war. Yet the reported Soviet military dispositions at least look defensive in nature, which was not the case a year ago. Moreover, a subtle change in recent Soviet propaganda and pronouncements points in the same direction.

The tone of the October revolution speeches this year, for example, was far more defensive than at any time since the war, full of reminders of the terrible fate which has overtaken invaders of Russia. The reminders were hardly necessary, in view of the immense Soviet manpower superiority. But these and other pronouncements do suggest that the men in the Kremlin are beginning genuinely to respect the power of the West.

Finally, of course, there is Korea, and the simple fact that the failures of the aggression in Korea is not likely to encourage the Kremlin to attempt aggression elsewhere. For all these reasons, the fear of a Soviet preventive attack, designed to nip Western rearmament in the bud, is very much less alive today than it was a year ago. And the growing belief that an attack is not imminent has in turn influenced the military planning of the Western alliance.

This belief accounts in part for the so-called "Ottawa revolt." At Ottawa, the Europeans strongly resisted NATO plans calling for well over 100 divisions by the end of 1954. It was finally agreed that W. Averell Harriman, Britain's Sir Edward Plowden and France's Jean Monnet should re-examine the whole problem. But there was also a tacit agreement to scale down the whole effort somewhat and to extend the time schedule. This agreement was reached because the European leaders and most American officials had begun to come to the same conclusion as Churchill. On the whole, they did not think war would come.

War Remains Possible

This guarded optimism in the West derives directly, of course, from the growing strength of the West. The stronger the West becomes, the less likely a preventive attack by the Soviets also becomes. Some scaling down of the Western defense effort may now be justifiable and necessary. Yet any real slackening will invite a Soviet attack in the period which lies not more than a year or two ahead—the period when the Soviets have built a really formidable stockpile of atomic weapons.

Moreover, as Churchill himself warned, war remains at any time entirely possible. There is some evidence, including the construction of the rail and canal by-passes around the city, that the Soviets have at least been toying with the notion of a second Berlin blockade. Although fear of a satellite attack on Yugoslavia has decreased, fear of a Chinese assault on Indo-China is now definitely increasing. In short, the European leaders may be dead wrong, and the danger of world war may actually be greater than it was a year ago.

The change in atmosphere in Europe, the sense of breathing a little more easily, is nevertheless worth reporting. It reflects a real net gain in military strength in the West. But this should give no grounds for complacency. If the danger of direct Soviet aggression seems to be less, the danger of internal disintegration within the Western alliance is if anything greater than before. The central danger is an internal crumbling away of the Western position on the flanks, and above all in the Middle East. This is the danger to which the United States, as leader of the free world, must now address itself, with the same determination and force which General Dwight D. Eisenhower has brought to strengthening the military position of the Western world.

Not In Bottles

A recent issue of a picture weekly tells about women in their 40s who have been fairly successful at looking as if they might still be in their 20s. Scanners of the picture weekly are led to believe that their exercises and their diets and so forth were good for their physical health. Certainly the glow of health is a great beautifier and rejuvenator.

No data are provided on the state of their mental health. The battle against middle age is a holding action at best, and as the hated enemy inexorably approaches closer the strain on feminine nerves must be heavy. It is easier, of course, to be one's age.

Many European visitors, the beggars, look upon the American cult of youth-worship with some amazement. Middle-age, they say, can be the best part of a woman's life. Why not relax and enjoy it? But this advice, if it is heard at all, is not heeded amid the clamor of the ads.

If the advertisers know what they are doing, the conclusion is inescapable that a woman's sole aim in life is to acquire the qualities adumbrated by that broadly mysterious Scots word, glamor. And the way to acquire it, according to the advertisers' consensus, is to fake it.

Put on more lipstick, conceal unsightly bulges with "girdles" (my, no, not corsets) bathe in carbolic acid, brush tusks with ammonia, mold the figure, reduce with pills and potions, anoint with lascivious scents. Glamour—ah!

A mite of paint and perfume and even clothing can make women more attractive. But glamour—or glamor—formerly was a good word and it meant something that cannot be faked. Good health and good muscle tone are part of it. A warm disposition and a sense of humor added will do more for a woman's looks than anything that ever came out of a bottle.

Anyway, looks aren't everything. That incorporated busybody who can be as wrong as anybody, George Gallup, reports that men put it well down on the list of qualities they want in a wife. They prefer—if Gallup can be believed this time—women who know their way around a home, women who are understanding, kind, easy to get along with.

Would it be outlandish to suggest that these qualities, whether the girls realize it or not, also have something to do with glamor?

Less Meat, More Bread

The government's final crop report of the old year confirmed reports that the corn crop was a disappointing one. Corn is the raw material for meat, milk and eggs. Thus recent predictions that meat prices would drop would seem to have been wishful consumer thinking.

The 1951 corn crop is now estimated at 2,941,423,000 bushels, a decline of 147,000,000 bushels from the estimate of a month ago, and 435,000,000 bushels short of the government's goal. The figure is well below the 10-year average.

Unless a sharply larger crop of corn is produced next year a cutback in livestock production may be looked for. Corn reserves will be dipped into deeply before the next harvest.

Despite the unsatisfactory corn crop, food production as a whole turned out rather favorable. The total farm crop volume was exceeded only in 1948 and 1949, according to Department of Agriculture figures.

On the heels of the government's corn crop estimate comes an optimistic forecast of the 1952 wheat crop, also by the government. The forecast indicates wheat production in 1952 may exceed 1,200,000 bushels to become the third largest crop on record. The reserve supply of wheat has declined from 427,000,000 bushels to approximately 335,000,000 bushels in two years because of heavy overseas shipments.

Wheat crop forecasts at this period are little more than guesses. Only winter wheat has been sown and weather or insect infestation could still play hob with that crop. But with reserves of livestock feed grains, as well as wheats, lower than at any time in several years, lower prices for meat butter, eggs and bread seem not to be in the cards, although supplies are expected to be ample.

100 Million Vehicles

As the auto makers join in a plea for better highways they continue to make cars long and wide. That leaves height as the only dimension on the decrease, to the enragement of those who still wear hats.

But it is the buyers, not the makers, who determine the kind of cars to be built. Americans want them big and roomy, as unlike European pushmobiles as possible. Restrictions in steel allotted the motor industry are showing up in fewer, not smaller, cars.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association knows people are going to continue to buy cars regardless of how slow and crowded many roads are becoming. So it is difficult to see selfish motives in their citing of some staggerng figures.

In 1930 there were 26,000,000 cars and trucks. Before long there will be 50,000,000. The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is quoted as estimating that "the highway traffic will double within the next 18 years." Double again, that is.

The cry in the twenties was "get out of the mud." Now one of the motor makers has produced a color movie entitled "Let's Get Out of the Muddle." No one knows better than the high-taxes motor industry the problem of financing new, fast, durable highways. And no group is better fitted to lead a new good roads movement in the United States.

That movement is getting under way, for toll roads as well as tax-built roads. The national safety and well-being depend as never before on highways.

Undodgeable Award

"Not for me," said Louis Poirier when told he had been chosen for France's most coveted literary award, the Goncourt prize. Not only does the 49-year-old novelist, playwright and history teacher disbelieve in literary prizes, but he has written a pamphlet attacking the idea. Readers should, in M. Poirier's opinion, determine the worth of his surrealistic novel, "The Bank of Quicksand."

Nothing like this has happened since Sinclair Lewis turned down something termed a "Pulitizer prize."

M. Poirier may well forego his prize, but the effect of the award cannot be escaped. It may be counted on to boost mightily the sales of his story of a 300-years' war.

How To Keep Well

Diabetes And The Pancreas

Insulin, used in the treatment of diabetes, must be administered hypodermically. This is a drawback and many wonder why the hormone cannot be taken by mouth. Researchers have been struggling with this problem for years but it is difficult to go against nature and I'll tell you why.

It is necessary to know the story of insulin to appreciate this remedy. The clew that the pancreas was involved in diabetes came when early medical pioneers discovered that the disease could be reproduced in animals by removing that organ. They also learned that the pancreas secreted a ferment directly into the intestine and it was only natural that this substance also should undergo investigation.

In the next series of experiments the tube that carries the intestinal secretions was tied off. To the investigators' amazement, diabetes failed to develop. Later it was found that when the gland was taken out and studied under the microscope certain cells were unaffected by this tying-off procedure. These cells (the islands of Langerhans) differed from those that manufacture the pancreatic juice released into the intestines and apparently are not involved in the process of digestion; but they do produce a hormone that goes directly into the blood. It remained for Banting and Best to isolate insulin and separate the chemical from the islands of Langerhans.

If nature had intended insulin to be absorbed from the intestinal tract, she might have incorporated it into the digestive juices. The setup exists, the tubes are in place, and all that is required is to open the faucet. However, nature thought better of it. Furthermore, there is no delay, dilution, or contamination when a substance bypasses the stomach and is absorbed directly into the blood. Nothing is impossible but this fact may explain why medical scientists have had so much trouble trying to make an insulin product that can be taken in tablet or capsule form.

Research workers have not limited their efforts to this problem. Some have taken it for granted that insulin must be injected and have spent their time improving and purifying the compound. It is possible, for example, for diabetics who need insulin to keep the disease under perfect control on only one injection a day. In the past these individuals were forced to use the hypodermic syringe before each meal. They were human pincushions and greatly handicapped so far as their activities were concerned. These insulins are mixed with other chemicals which delay their absorption and some remain active for 24 hours or more.

Not all diabetics require insulin. Many who develop the disturbance later in life are able to continue on a diet. The menus omit foods that are excessively high in starch such as cake, candy, pie, and ice cream. Bread and potato are eaten in moderation but the amounts of meat, fruit, and vegetables are essentially unchanged. Coffee is not prohibited and cream is allowed but not sugar.

SKIPPED BEAT

L. C. writes: What is the name of the condition where the heart seems to skip a beat when excited? I do not refer to palpitation.

REPLY

Love? You may refer to extrasystoles but this phenomenon is more common when the individual is quiet and the heart is beating slowly.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Mrs. E. writes: A friend of mine is going to marry a man with two children. She wants children of her own and wonders if they would look like their children or his children.

REPLY

If they all look like the papa, there should be a close resemblance.

MORE THAN A WEEK

L. O. writes: How long does a black eye last?

REPLY

Seven to 10 days.

THE GRUNTER

M. E. writes: I am always grunting audibly, so I'm told, even though I am unconscious of doing it. Is it nerves or old age?

REPLY

This is a nervous habit and probably has a little to do with both.

CHOCOLATE AND PIMPLES

L. W. writes: I love to drink hot chocolate at night before going to bed but it seems to cause pimples. Is there any way I can avoid this reaction?

REPLY

Chocolate is one of the most common offenders and the only way out is to stop taking it as often as you do. I say this because it has been found that some individuals can tolerate a small amount, say one cup every third night, without developing "hickeys."

Mystery Man Grunewald Has Friends In High Places; Crowley Banned Probe Of Grunewald's Past; Dutchman Remained In U. S. As An Alien

WASHINGTON—One of the most amazing things about "Mystery Man" Henry Grunewald is the way he has been able to ingratiate himself with those in high places.

Henry is able to slip in to see the Vice President, has a letter of thanks from President Truman for a campaign contribution, drops in to see GOP Senator Brewster of Maine who calls him "Henry," and got GOP Senator Bridges of New Hampshire to help him pull wires on a tax fraud case. He has three limousines, a winter house in Miami Beach, a summer house at Spring Lake, N. J., and uses the Washington Hotel apartment of former Secretary of War Harry Woodring.

How he manages all these contacts no one exactly knows, especially in view of the fact that he was unwilling to answer any questions about himself before the King Committee.

However, strangest of all connections was with the former alien property custodian, Leo Crowley—despite Crowley's denials. Grunewald had such a close friendship with Crowley that he was actually authorized to speak for him at stockholders' meeting of the big alien corporations in wartime.

Crowley now says: "I don't remember Grunewald." However, at the time he was hired, Crowley's office put a memo in the files showing his astonishing trust in "The Dutchman" by stopping any investigation of Grunewald's past.

Grunewald's Past

"The Office of the Custodian has investigated Mr. Grunewald," Crowley's office stated on Aug. 25, '42, "and because of the nature of the work to be performed by this man for the custodian, it is requested that the Civil Service Commission refrain from making any investigation of Mr. Grunewald. His record is entirely satisfactory to the custodian."

Perhaps what Crowley wanted to cover up was Grunewald's record as a government prohibition agent. This showed he was demoted from $4,000 to $1,800 a year on January 12, 1922, and finally was kicked out of the government on October 3, 1922, after being indicted by a New York grand jury in connection with the "illegal removal and disposition of liquor."

Later, in a job application, Grunewald gave this version of his indictment: "In October, 1922, while I was a general agent assigned to the New York prohibition office, I was indicted by a federal grand jury in the Southern District of New York for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law. The indictment named a number of individuals, including Mr. Roswell A. Saver and myself. The case against me was dismissed after a verdict was indicated to the jury by Federal Judge Winslow. . . .

50 Years An Alien

"In fairness to myself," Grunewald explained, "I believe that I should add that the whole indictment was a move in a political battle raging in New York at that time, and the prohibition unit was simply a pawn."

Here are some more things which the Mystery Man might have told the King Committee but didn't:

Grunewald was born May 19, 1892, at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, but neglected to become naturalized as an American citizen until February 3, 1942. This was two months after Pearl Harbor and after he went to work for the alien property custodian.

For years, as an alien, Grunewald worked for various branches of the government. He served in the U. S. Navy from 1909 to 1914, worked as a desk clerk at the Naval Young Men's Christian Association in Brooklyn, got a job in 1915 as a bookkeeper for Western Electric in New York City.

His first job as an investigator came in 1917, when he secured a temporary appointment with the old FBI. In 1919, he served as confidential investigator for the Republican National Committee at $6,000. In 1921 he got a $4,000-a-year job with the Commissioner of Prohibition which, ironically, came under the Internal Revenue Bureau. It was his relations with ex-Commissioner Schoeneman and ex-Counsel Oliphant of Internal Revenue which recently brought Grunewald into the limelight.

Grunewald has also developed some interesting contacts in the liquor business, and as late as 1944 he was under investigation by the Alcohol Tax Unit for alleged blackmarketing in liquor.

Grunewald also spent from 1928 to 1942 as a personal, confidential investigator for Henry W. Marsh, the insurance mogul, at a stated salary of $12,000 to $18,000.

NOTE—In his tax returns Grunewald does not give the source of large chunks of income. This column is still mystified how, from such a relative modest salary and background, he was able to operate two homes, three limousines and developed so many high contacts.

Christmas Gifts

Graft scandals have made government officials so jittery that Christmas packages from business friends were scrutinized this year as never before.

Some officials returned anything looking like "influence" gifts without even opening the package to see what was inside. However, the wife of a Navy Department employe couldn't resist the temptation and opened a large, ornately wrapped box brought by the mailman.

Inside was a year's supply of Boy Scout calendars for her husband, an Arlington, Va., scoutmaster.

Merry-Go-Round

Holiday joke going the rounds at the hard-pressed Bureau of Internal Revenue: First Employe—"What are you giving your wife for Christmas?" Second Employe—"An Oliphant hide bag with shoes to match." . . . The volume of Christmas mail this year, including parcel post, set another all-time record, 30 per cent greater than last year. . . . P. O. officials estimated it was enough to fill a string of boxcars stretching from Washington to Chicago. . . . Happy Chandler, president of the International Baseball Congress, plans a baseball "Olympic" in the United States in which top American amateur teams would compete against teams from Japan, Western Germany, Mexico, Canada, Argentina and other countries. . . . Happy won't be unhappy if the big league owners who ousted him as baseball commissioner — and who outlaw American professional ballplayers that jump to Mexico—are on the spot by the good-will tournament.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If you were living in Moscow on Christmas Day and had been observing for some time the attitude of the Soviet government and the Russian people, what would your thoughts be and what advice would you pass on to your American friends?

A diplomat in Moscow sent to a personal friend in the United States a Christmas card with a note on it that reflects his observations on the passing scene. For reasons of discretion, the nationality of the diplomat cannot be divulged. His note reads as follows:

"Merry Christmas from merry Moscow.

"Last night I saw a performance of Tolstoy's "Resurrection" at the Moscow Art Theater, and walking home past the Kremlin walls and the Church of Basil, the Blest, through the snow and crowds of silent, surly people, I decided to reread the novel. There on the titlepage was Tolstoy's inscription from Matthew: 'Then came Peter to Him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, until seven times; but until 70 times seven.'

World Of Meaning

"And so, in spite of the incredible atmosphere of one-man-made hatred in which I live here (or maybe because of it), that perhaps is what I should say this Christmas.

"Of one thing, indeed, I am sure: The only way we can win in the battle against the Russians right now and in the end, is to make your country and ourselves (and particularly me) better, purer, truer."

This brief message contains a world of meaning. For basically the problem today is not to bring on more bloodshed if it can be avoided, because that would avail little in the long run, but to find a way to prove to 200,000,000 people in Russia that they can be masters of their own destiny. For the atom bomb by itself is harmless. It's the hand that can throw the atom bomb which has to be guided, so as to allow restraint and the strictures of a real conscience to govern the behavior of that hand.

Unless the minds of the Russian people can be won, there cannot be peace. But to win those minds, the United States and its allies cannot expect mere broadcasts of boasts and pride, tales of American armed superiority and theoretical plans to bomb Russian cities to be the theme of the Voice of America. The Russian mind can be won only if it perceives that the American mind is truly unselfish and actually devoid of the impurities which beset a prosperous and powerful nation.

The true Voice is a voice of truth and decency. It is not typified by tax scandals or by the sinfulness of a political system which is eating away at the virtues of the nation like a cancer and causing its tissues of prestige to deteriorate before the world.

Looked Upon As Bribes

The dollars that America sends abroad are not in themselves a voice of truth or of purity. They are acts of generosity but they are also looked upon in other countries as designed to influence, if not bribe, other nations into adopting policies they should desire of their own initiative to adopt without regard to materialistic considerations.

There are lots of things that not only the United States but Britain and France and Germany and Spain and Italy will have to do as nations to develop in the world the kind of moral spirit that can attract allies from behind the iron curtain. But in that great crusade for a better world, there is not much that can be achieved unless a purge of sinfulness penetrates all the nations that seek but perhaps do not yet deserve freedom from worry and tension.

The message from the diplomat in Moscow in reality counsels patience. It is not a counsel of nonresistance or pacifism. It is a counsel that points to moral as well as physical vigor. Once the combination is achieved, the people of Russia will some day learn to distinguish between sincerity and insincerity, trust and distrust, hypocrisy and genuine faith. For only by the power of example can great victories be won in the realm of human behavior.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Stock-Jobbing Propaganda

It is not often that I read advertisements of stock-jobbers, but when one bore the title, "Eisenhower as a market influence," it caught the eye.

Poor Ike! How his friends abuse him! Arthur Wiesenberger and Company first announced that their pamphlet "Eisenhower as a Market Influence" is described as "must" by eminent authorities, names, of course, not given. It is also stated that this learned document is available for $2.50, which seems a lot of money for a four-page affair, even though with it comes the aforesaid company's investment report for 1952, which I have not yet read.

I receive such published matter from banks, brokerage houses and similar institutions, free of charge, daily to the amount of several large waste paper basketsful. Sometimes one is excellent, but I figure that $2.50 is an outside price for this one, equivalent to a mink coat bought wholesale, comparatively.

So, I got the thing, read it in three minutes flat, and was no wiser after I encountered Arthur Wiesenberger and Company than before. Seven palpable reasons, none of them different from anything that you might have seen in a dozen or two newspaper articles, are given to explain why Ike Eisenhower would be "an ideal candidate." The foremost reason is:

"1. An apparent minimum of political commitments."

Precisely what the writer means by that is not clear. If he means that General Eisenhower has taken no stand on the important political issues affected the American people, it is not quite true. General Eisenhower has definitely supported the foreign policy of the Truman administration, avoiding, however, any serious discussion of current domestic affairs. He did once make a speech in favor of private enterprise.

If, however, the writer of this special supplement means that General Eisenhower has avoided commitments of a personal nature, he is altogether wrong, for the General is definitely tied in with three groups:

1. The Dewey-Duff-Morse combination of Republicans to whom are joined Senators Lodge and Saltonstall, who are captives of the CIO because of the political conditions in the State of Massachusetts. This is a formidable group in the Republican party and cannot be ignored by General Eisenhower's opponents, nor is it believable that such practical men would walk out on a limb without some commitment from the General. They have been successful in their own operations and would not readily take risks that could eliminate them from any voice in the affairs of their party.

2. A select group of businessmen have been commuting between New York and Paris, ostensibly to inform themselves on General Eisenhower but actually to build a relationship to him. Some of the businessmen have been gathering a pre-convention campaign fund on General Eisenhower's behalf. It is impossible to believe that these substantial and practical businessmen would undertake such an operation without known what they are doing. Most of them are the same men who put over Wendell Willkie.

3. There is an anti-Truman group within the administration who hope that General Eisenhower might be the Republican candidate, so that, come what may, they will continue in office. This group and their journalistic associates, included the publishers of some magazines of national circulation, are risking their all on the Eisenhower candidacy.

As things go politically, all this involves commitments, the Wiesenberger statement to the contrary notwithstanding.

Finally, it is doubtful whether it would be sound to put any real money on the following sage advice from the aforesaid Wiesenberger:

"And what about the market? Would Dwight Eisenhower's election send the market to the traditional three per cent peak yield basis (500 + DOW?) Not immediately, of course Eventually.

"A deep underlying cause of distrust, fear and timidity on the part of the investor lies in the feeling that we are drifting, perhaps quite unconsciously, toward a socialistic state with all that may mean in the way of indefinite continuance of huge government expenditures, high taxes, controls and the inevitable interference with free markets.

"The nomination alone of Eisenhower could send to the stock market a large volume of idle funds awaiting a favorable occasion, his election even more."

Hold your horses, fellow citizens! There is nothing more uncertain than cause and effect in the stock market, as Bernard Baruch always advises the suckers. Certainly the cause and effect indicated here is not an 8-5 bet. Why are financiers such incompetent politicians?

Matter Of Fact

WASHINGTON

There has been during the past year a change in the whole atmosphere in Europe. This change, deep but difficult to define precisely, is one of the most lasting impressions left by this reporter's recent trip abroad. The difference is essentially this. A year ago, most European leaders believed that Soviet military aggression in Europe might very well be imminent. Now they no longer believe so.

To a considerable extent, this change is a matter more of instinct than of hard evidence. Last week, Winston Churchill warned that war might come, but added, "I do not think it will come." Some time previously, in a talk with an intimate, Churchill drew the parallel between the world situation today and the situation after Hitler had come to power. He pointed out the obvious similarities, and said that from the moment Hitler came to power he had "felt in his bones" that war was coming. But, he said, he did not "feel it in his bones" now.

The change in atmosphere is not entirely, of course, a matter of the feeling in the bones of European leaders like Churchill. For one thing, for reasons already reported in this space, the Soviets cannot now launch a surprise attack in Europe. To make ready an assault on the strengthened forces under General Dwight D. Eisenhower would require at least two months of preparations. And there are no signs that these preparations are being made.

Soviet Propaganda Changing

Military intelligence reports no slackening of the great Soviet rearmament effort which has been going on since the war. Yet the reported Soviet military dispositions at least look defensive in nature, which was not the case a year ago. Moreover, a subtle change in recent Soviet propaganda and pronouncements points in the same direction.

The tone of the October revolution speeches this year, for example, was far more defensive than at any time since the war, full of reminders of the terrible fate which has overtaken invaders of Russia. The reminders were hardly necessary, in view of the immense Soviet manpower superiority. But these and other pronouncements do suggest that the men in the Kremlin are beginning genuinely to respect the power of the West.

Finally, of course, there is Korea, and the simple fact that the failures of the aggression in Korea is not likely to encourage the Kremlin to attempt aggression elsewhere. For all these reasons, the fear of a Soviet preventive attack, designed to nip Western rearmament in the bud, is very much less alive today than it was a year ago. And the growing belief that an attack is not imminent has in turn influenced the military planning of the Western alliance.

This belief accounts in part for the so-called "Ottawa revolt." At Ottawa, the Europeans strongly resisted NATO plans calling for well over 100 divisions by the end of 1954. It was finally agreed that W. Averell Harriman, Britain's Sir Edward Plowden and France's Jean Monnet should re-examine the whole problem. But there was also a tacit agreement to scale down the whole effort somewhat and to extend the time schedule. This agreement was reached because the European leaders and most American officials had begun to come to the same conclusion as Churchill. On the whole, they did not think war would come.

War Remains Possible

This guarded optimism in the West derives directly, of course, from the growing strength of the West. The stronger the West becomes, the less likely a preventive attack by the Soviets also becomes. Some scaling down of the Western defense effort may now be justifiable and necessary. Yet any real slackening will invite a Soviet attack in the period which lies not more than a year or two ahead—the period when the Soviets have built a really formidable stockpile of atomic weapons.

Moreover, as Churchill himself warned, war remains at any time entirely possible. There is some evidence, including the construction of the rail and canal by-passes around the city, that the Soviets have at least been toying with the notion of a second Berlin blockade. Although fear of a satellite attack on Yugoslavia has decreased, fear of a Chinese assault on Indo-China is now definitely increasing. In short, the European leaders may be dead wrong, and the danger of world war may actually be greater than it was a year ago.

The change in atmosphere in Europe, the sense of breathing a little more easily, is nevertheless worth reporting. It reflects a real net gain in military strength in the West. But this should give no grounds for complacency. If the danger of direct Soviet aggression seems to be less, the danger of internal disintegration within the Western alliance is if anything greater than before. The central danger is an internal crumbling away of the Western position on the flanks, and above all in the Middle East. This is the danger to which the United States, as leader of the free world, must now address itself, with the same determination and force which General Dwight D. Eisenhower has brought to strengthening the military position of the Western world.

No data are provided on the state of their mental health. The battle against middle age is a holding action at best, and as the hated enemy inexorably approaches closer the strain on feminine nerves must be heavy. It is easier, of course, to be one's age.

Many European visitors, the beggars, look upon the American cult of youth-worship with some amazement. Middle-age, they say, can be the best part of a woman's life. Why not relax and enjoy it? But this advice, if it is heard at all, is not heeded amid the clamor of the ads.

If the advertisers know what they are doing, the conclusion is inescapable that a woman's sole aim in life is to acquire the qualities adumbrated by that broadly mysterious Scots word, glamor. And the way to acquire it, according to the advertisers' consensus, is to fake it.

Put on more lipstick, conceal unsightly bulges with "girdles" (my, no, not corsets) bathe in carbolic acid, brush tusks with ammonia, mold the figure, reduce with pills and potions, anoint with lascivious scents. Glamour—ah!

A mite of paint and perfume and even clothing can make women more attractive. But glamour—or glamor—formerly was a good word and it meant something that cannot be faked. Good health and good muscle tone are part of it. A warm disposition and a sense of humor added will do more for a woman's looks than anything that ever came out of a bottle.

Anyway, looks aren't everything. That incorporated busybody who can be as wrong as anybody, George Gallup, reports that men put it well down on the list of qualities they want in a wife. They prefer—if Gallup can be believed this time—women who know their way around a home, women who are understanding, kind, easy to get along with.

Would it be outlandish to suggest that these qualities, whether the girls realize it or not, also have something to do with glamor?

Less Meat, More Bread

The government's final crop report of the old year confirmed reports that the corn crop was a disappointing one. Corn is the raw material for meat, milk and eggs. Thus recent predictions that meat prices would drop would seem to have been wishful consumer thinking.

The 1951 corn crop is now estimated at 2,941,423,000 bushels, a decline of 147,000,000 bushels from the estimate of a month ago, and 435,000,000 bushels short of the government's goal. The figure is well below the 10-year average.

Unless a sharply larger crop of corn is produced next year a cutback in livestock production may be looked for. Corn reserves will be dipped into deeply before the next harvest.

Despite the unsatisfactory corn crop, food production as a whole turned out rather favorable. The total farm crop volume was exceeded only in 1948 and 1949, according to Department of Agriculture figures.

On the heels of the government's corn crop estimate comes an optimistic forecast of the 1952 wheat crop, also by the government. The forecast indicates wheat production in 1952 may exceed 1,200,000 bushels to become the third largest crop on record. The reserve supply of wheat has declined from 427,000,000 bushels to approximately 335,000,000 bushels in two years because of heavy overseas shipments.

Wheat crop forecasts at this period are little more than guesses. Only winter wheat has been sown and weather or insect infestation could still play hob with that crop. But with reserves of livestock feed grains, as well as wheats, lower than at any time in several years, lower prices for meat butter, eggs and bread seem not to be in the cards, although supplies are expected to be ample.

100 Million Vehicles

As the auto makers join in a plea for better highways they continue to make cars long and wide. That leaves height as the only dimension on the decrease, to the enragement of those who still wear hats.

But it is the buyers, not the makers, who determine the kind of cars to be built. Americans want them big and roomy, as unlike European pushmobiles as possible. Restrictions in steel allotted the motor industry are showing up in fewer, not smaller, cars.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association knows people are going to continue to buy cars regardless of how slow and crowded many roads are becoming. So it is difficult to see selfish motives in their citing of some staggerng figures.

In 1930 there were 26,000,000 cars and trucks. Before long there will be 50,000,000. The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is quoted as estimating that "the highway traffic will double within the next 18 years." Double again, that is.

The cry in the twenties was "get out of the mud." Now one of the motor makers has produced a color movie entitled "Let's Get Out of the Muddle." No one knows better than the high-taxes motor industry the problem of financing new, fast, durable highways. And no group is better fitted to lead a new good roads movement in the United States.

That movement is getting under way, for toll roads as well as tax-built roads. The national safety and well-being depend as never before on highways.

Undodgeable Award

"Not for me," said Louis Poirier when told he had been chosen for France's most coveted literary award, the Goncourt prize. Not only does the 49-year-old novelist, playwright and history teacher disbelieve in literary prizes, but he has written a pamphlet attacking the idea. Readers should, in M. Poirier's opinion, determine the worth of his surrealistic novel, "The Bank of Quicksand."

Nothing like this has happened since Sinclair Lewis turned down something termed a "Pulitizer prize."

M. Poirier may well forego his prize, but the effect of the award cannot be escaped. It may be counted on to boost mightily the sales of his story of a 300-years' war.

How To Keep Well

Diabetes And The Pancreas

Insulin, used in the treatment of diabetes, must be administered hypodermically. This is a drawback and many wonder why the hormone cannot be taken by mouth. Researchers have been struggling with this problem for years but it is difficult to go against nature and I'll tell you why.

It is necessary to know the story of insulin to appreciate this remedy. The clew that the pancreas was involved in diabetes came when early medical pioneers discovered that the disease could be reproduced in animals by removing that organ. They also learned that the pancreas secreted a ferment directly into the intestine and it was only natural that this substance also should undergo investigation.

In the next series of experiments the tube that carries the intestinal secretions was tied off. To the investigators' amazement, diabetes failed to develop. Later it was found that when the gland was taken out and studied under the microscope certain cells were unaffected by this tying-off procedure. These cells (the islands of Langerhans) differed from those that manufacture the pancreatic juice released into the intestines and apparently are not involved in the process of digestion; but they do produce a hormone that goes directly into the blood. It remained for Banting and Best to isolate insulin and separate the chemical from the islands of Langerhans.

If nature had intended insulin to be absorbed from the intestinal tract, she might have incorporated it into the digestive juices. The setup exists, the tubes are in place, and all that is required is to open the faucet. However, nature thought better of it. Furthermore, there is no delay, dilution, or contamination when a substance bypasses the stomach and is absorbed directly into the blood. Nothing is impossible but this fact may explain why medical scientists have had so much trouble trying to make an insulin product that can be taken in tablet or capsule form.

Research workers have not limited their efforts to this problem. Some have taken it for granted that insulin must be injected and have spent their time improving and purifying the compound. It is possible, for example, for diabetics who need insulin to keep the disease under perfect control on only one injection a day. In the past these individuals were forced to use the hypodermic syringe before each meal. They were human pincushions and greatly handicapped so far as their activities were concerned. These insulins are mixed with other chemicals which delay their absorption and some remain active for 24 hours or more.

Not all diabetics require insulin. Many who develop the disturbance later in life are able to continue on a diet. The menus omit foods that are excessively high in starch such as cake, candy, pie, and ice cream. Bread and potato are eaten in moderation but the amounts of meat, fruit, and vegetables are essentially unchanged. Coffee is not prohibited and cream is allowed but not sugar.

SKIPPED BEAT

L. C. writes: What is the name of the condition where the heart seems to skip a beat when excited? I do not refer to palpitation.

REPLY

Love? You may refer to extrasystoles but this phenomenon is more common when the individual is quiet and the heart is beating slowly.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Mrs. E. writes: A friend of mine is going to marry a man with two children. She wants children of her own and wonders if they would look like their children or his children.

REPLY

If they all look like the papa, there should be a close resemblance.

MORE THAN A WEEK

L. O. writes: How long does a black eye last?

REPLY

Seven to 10 days.

THE GRUNTER

M. E. writes: I am always grunting audibly, so I'm told, even though I am unconscious of doing it. Is it nerves or old age?

REPLY

This is a nervous habit and probably has a little to do with both.

CHOCOLATE AND PIMPLES

L. W. writes: I love to drink hot chocolate at night before going to bed but it seems to cause pimples. Is there any way I can avoid this reaction?

REPLY

Chocolate is one of the most common offenders and the only way out is to stop taking it as often as you do. I say this because it has been found that some individuals can tolerate a small amount, say one cup every third night, without developing "hickeys."

Mystery Man Grunewald Has Friends In High Places; Crowley Banned Probe Of Grunewald's Past; Dutchman Remained In U. S. As An Alien

WASHINGTON—One of the most amazing things about "Mystery Man" Henry Grunewald is the way he has been able to ingratiate himself with those in high places.

Henry is able to slip in to see the Vice President, has a letter of thanks from President Truman for a campaign contribution, drops in to see GOP Senator Brewster of Maine who calls him "Henry," and got GOP Senator Bridges of New Hampshire to help him pull wires on a tax fraud case. He has three limousines, a winter house in Miami Beach, a summer house at Spring Lake, N. J., and uses the Washington Hotel apartment of former Secretary of War Harry Woodring.

How he manages all these contacts no one exactly knows, especially in view of the fact that he was unwilling to answer any questions about himself before the King Committee.

However, strangest of all connections was with the former alien property custodian, Leo Crowley—despite Crowley's denials. Grunewald had such a close friendship with Crowley that he was actually authorized to speak for him at stockholders' meeting of the big alien corporations in wartime.

Crowley now says: "I don't remember Grunewald." However, at the time he was hired, Crowley's office put a memo in the files showing his astonishing trust in "The Dutchman" by stopping any investigation of Grunewald's past.

Grunewald's Past

"The Office of the Custodian has investigated Mr. Grunewald," Crowley's office stated on Aug. 25, '42, "and because of the nature of the work to be performed by this man for the custodian, it is requested that the Civil Service Commission refrain from making any investigation of Mr. Grunewald. His record is entirely satisfactory to the custodian."

Perhaps what Crowley wanted to cover up was Grunewald's record as a government prohibition agent. This showed he was demoted from $4,000 to $1,800 a year on January 12, 1922, and finally was kicked out of the government on October 3, 1922, after being indicted by a New York grand jury in connection with the "illegal removal and disposition of liquor."

Later, in a job application, Grunewald gave this version of his indictment: "In October, 1922, while I was a general agent assigned to the New York prohibition office, I was indicted by a federal grand jury in the Southern District of New York for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law. The indictment named a number of individuals, including Mr. Roswell A. Saver and myself. The case against me was dismissed after a verdict was indicated to the jury by Federal Judge Winslow. . . .

50 Years An Alien

"In fairness to myself," Grunewald explained, "I believe that I should add that the whole indictment was a move in a political battle raging in New York at that time, and the prohibition unit was simply a pawn."

Here are some more things which the Mystery Man might have told the King Committee but didn't:

Grunewald was born May 19, 1892, at Port Elizabeth, South Africa, but neglected to become naturalized as an American citizen until February 3, 1942. This was two months after Pearl Harbor and after he went to work for the alien property custodian.

For years, as an alien, Grunewald worked for various branches of the government. He served in the U. S. Navy from 1909 to 1914, worked as a desk clerk at the Naval Young Men's Christian Association in Brooklyn, got a job in 1915 as a bookkeeper for Western Electric in New York City.

His first job as an investigator came in 1917, when he secured a temporary appointment with the old FBI. In 1919, he served as confidential investigator for the Republican National Committee at $6,000. In 1921 he got a $4,000-a-year job with the Commissioner of Prohibition which, ironically, came under the Internal Revenue Bureau. It was his relations with ex-Commissioner Schoeneman and ex-Counsel Oliphant of Internal Revenue which recently brought Grunewald into the limelight.

Grunewald has also developed some interesting contacts in the liquor business, and as late as 1944 he was under investigation by the Alcohol Tax Unit for alleged black-marketing in liquor.

Grunewald also spent from 1928 to 1942 as a personal, confidential investigator for Henry W. Marsh, the insurance mogul, at a stated salary of $12,000 to $18,000.

NOTE—In his tax returns Grunewald does not give the source of large chunks of income. This column is still mystified how, from such a relative modest salary and background, he was able to operate two homes, three limousines and developed so many high contacts.

Christmas Gifts

Graft scandals have made government officials so jittery that Christmas packages from business friends were scrutinized this year as never before.

Some officials returned anything looking like "influence" gifts without even opening the package to see what was inside. However, the wife of a Navy Department employe couldn't resist the temptation and opened a large, ornately wrapped box brought by the mailman.

Inside was a year's supply of Boy Scout calendars for her husband, an Arlington, Va., scoutmaster.

Merry-Go-Round

Holiday joke going the rounds at the hard-pressed Bureau of Internal Revenue: First Employe—"What are you giving your wife for Christmas?" Second Employe—"An Oliphant hide bag with shoes to match." . . . The volume of Christmas mail this year, including parcel post, set another all-time record, 30 per cent greater than last year. . . . P. O. officials estimated it was enough to fill a string of boxcars stretching from Washington to Chicago. . . . Happy Chandler, president of the International Baseball Congress, plans a baseball "Olympic" in the United States in which top American amateur teams would compete against teams from Japan, Western Germany, Mexico, Canada, Argentina and other countries. . . . Happy won't be unhappy if the big league owners who ousted him as baseball commissioner — and who outlaw American professional ballplayers that jump to Mexico—are on the spot by the good-will tournament.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If you were living in Moscow on Christmas Day and had been observing for some time the attitude of the Soviet government and the Russian people, what would your thoughts be and what advice would you pass on to your American friends?

A diplomat in Moscow sent to a personal friend in the United States a Christmas card with a note on it that reflects his observations on the passing scene. For reasons of discretion, the nationality of the diplomat cannot be divulged. His note reads as follows:

"Merry Christmas from merry Moscow.

"Last night I saw a performance of Tolstoy's "Resurrection" at the Moscow Art Theater, and walking home past the Kremlin walls and the Church of Basil, the Blest, through the snow and crowds of silent, surly people, I decided to reread the novel. There on the titlepage was Tolstoy's inscription from Matthew: 'Then came Peter to Him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, until seven times; but until 70 times seven.'

World Of Meaning

"And so, in spite of the incredible atmosphere of one-man-made hatred in which I live here (or maybe because of it), that perhaps is what I should say this Christmas.

"Of one thing, indeed, I am sure: The only way we can win in the battle against the Russians right now and in the end, is to make your country and ourselves (and particularly me) better, purer, truer."

This brief message contains a world of meaning. For basically the problem today is not to bring on more bloodshed if it can be avoided, because that would avail little in the long run, but to find a way to prove to 200,000,000 people in Russia that they can be masters of their own destiny. For the atom bomb by itself is harmless. It's the hand that can throw the atom bomb which has to be guided, so as to allow restraint and the strictures of a real conscience to govern the behavior of that hand.

Unless the minds of the Russian people can be won, there cannot be peace. But to win those minds, the United States and its allies cannot expect mere broadcasts of boasts and pride, tales of American armed superiority and theoretical plans to bomb Russian cities to be the theme of the Voice of America. The Russian mind can be won only if it perceives that the American mind is truly unselfish and actually devoid of the impurities which beset a prosperous and powerful nation.

The true Voice is a voice of truth and decency. It is not typified by tax scandals or by the sinfulness of a political system which is eating away at the virtues of the nation like a cancer and causing its tissues of prestige to deteriorate before the world.

Looked Upon As Bribes

The dollars that America sends abroad are not in themselves a voice of truth or of purity. They are acts of generosity but they are also looked upon in other countries as designed to influence, if not bribe, other nations into adopting policies they should desire of their own initiative to adopt without regard to materialistic considerations.

There are lots of things that not only the United States but Britain and France and Germany and Spain and Italy will have to do as nations to develop in the world the kind of moral spirit that can attract allies from behind the iron curtain. But in that great crusade for a better world, there is not much that can be achieved unless a purge of sinfulness penetrates all the nations that seek but perhaps do not yet deserve freedom from worry and tension.

The message from the diplomat in Moscow in reality counsels patience. It is not a counsel of nonresistance or pacifism. It is a counsel that points to moral as well as physical vigor. Once the combination is achieved, the people of Russia will some day learn to distinguish between sincerity and insincerity, trust and distrust, hypocrisy and genuine faith. For only by the power of example can great victories be won in the realm of human behavior.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Stock-Jobbing Propaganda

It is not often that I read advertisements of stock-jobbers, but when one bore the title, "Eisenhower as a market influence," it caught the eye.

Poor Ike! How his friends abuse him! Arthur Wiesenberger and Company first announced that their pamphlet "Eisenhower as a Market Influence" is described as "must" by eminent authorities, names, of course, not given. It is also stated that this learned document is available for $2.50, which seems a lot of money for a four-page affair, even though with it comes the aforesaid company's investment report for 1952, which I have not yet read.

I receive such published matter from banks, brokerage houses and similar institutions, free of charge, daily to the amount of several large waste paper basketsful. Sometimes one is excellent, but I figure that $2.50 is an outside price for this one, equivalent to a mink coat bought wholesale, comparatively.

So, I got the thing, read it in three minutes flat, and was no wiser after I encountered Arthur Wiesenberger and Company than before. Seven palpable reasons, none of them different from anything that you might have seen in a dozen or two newspaper articles, are given to explain why Ike Eisenhower would be "an ideal candidate." The foremost reason is:

"1. An apparent minimum of political commitments."

Precisely what the writer means by that is not clear. If he means that General Eisenhower has taken no stand on the important political issues affected the American people, it is not quite true. General Eisenhower has definitely supported the foreign policy of the Truman administration, avoiding, however, any serious discussion of current domestic affairs. He did once make a speech in favor of private enterprise.

If, however, the writer of this special supplement means that General Eisenhower has avoided commitments of a personal nature, he is altogether wrong, for the General is definitely tied in with three groups:

1. The Dewey-Duff-Morse combination of Republicans to whom are joined Senators Lodge and Saltonstall, who are captives of the CIO because of the political conditions in the State of Massachusetts. This is a formidable group in the Republican party and cannot be ignored by General Eisenhower's opponents, nor is it believable that such practical men would walk out on a limb without some commitment from the General. They have been successful in their own operations and would not readily take risks that could eliminate them from any voice in the affairs of their party.

2. A select group of businessmen have been commuting between New York and Paris, ostensibly to inform themselves on General Eisenhower but actually to build a relationship to him. Some of the businessmen have been gathering a pre-convention campaign fund on General Eisenhower's behalf. It is impossible to believe that these substantial and practical businessmen would undertake such an operation without known what they are doing. Most of them are the same men who put over Wendell Willkie.

3. There is an anti-Truman group within the administration who hope that General Eisenhower might be the Republican candidate, so that, come what may, they will continue in office. This group and their journalistic associates, included the publishers of some magazines of national circulation, are risking their all on the Eisenhower candidacy.

As things go politically, all this involves commitments, the Wiesenberger statement to the contrary notwithstanding.

Finally, it is doubtful whether it would be sound to put any real money on the following sage advice from the aforesaid Wiesenberger:

"And what about the market? Would Dwight Eisenhower's election send the market to the traditional three per cent peak yield basis (500 + DOW?) Not immediately, of course Eventually.

"A deep underlying cause of distrust, fear and timidity on the part of the investor lies in the feeling that we are drifting, perhaps quite unconsciously, toward a socialistic state with all that may mean in the way of indefinite continuance of huge government expenditures, high taxes, controls and the inevitable interference with free markets.

"The nomination alone of Eisenhower could send to the stock market a large volume of idle funds awaiting a favorable occasion, his election even more."

Hold your horses, fellow citizens! There is nothing more uncertain than cause and effect in the stock market, as Bernard Baruch always advises the suckers. Certainly the cause and effect indicated here is not an 8-5 bet. Why are financiers such incompetent politicians?

Matter Of Fact

WASHINGTON

There has been during the past year a change in the whole atmosphere in Europe. This change, deep but difficult to define precisely, is one of the most lasting impressions left by this reporter's recent trip abroad. The difference is essentially this. A year ago, most European leaders believed that Soviet military aggression in Europe might very well be imminent. Now they no longer believe so.

To a considerable extent, this change is a matter more of instinct than of hard evidence. Last week, Winston Churchill warned that war might come, but added, "I do not think it will come." Some time previously, in a talk with an intimate, Churchill drew the parallel between the world situation today and the situation after Hitler had come to power. He pointed out the obvious similarities, and said that from the moment Hitler came to power he had "felt in his bones" that war was coming. But, he said, he did not "feel it in his bones" now.

The change in atmosphere is not entirely, of course, a matter of the feeling in the bones of European leaders like Churchill. For one thing, for reasons already reported in this space, the Soviets cannot now launch a surprise attack in Europe. To make ready an assault on the strengthened forces under General Dwight D. Eisenhower would require at least two months of preparations. And there are no signs that these preparations are being made.

Soviet Propaganda Changing

Military intelligence reports no slackening of the great Soviet rearmament effort which has been going on since the war. Yet the reported Soviet military dispositions at least look defensive in nature, which was not the case a year ago. Moreover, a subtle change in recent Soviet propaganda and pronouncements points in the same direction.

The tone of the October revolution speeches this year, for example, was far more defensive than at any time since the war, full of reminders of the terrible fate which has overtaken invaders of Russia. The reminders were hardly necessary, in view of the immense Soviet manpower superiority. But these and other pronouncements do suggest that the men in the Kremlin are beginning genuinely to respect the power of the West.

Finally, of course, there is Korea, and the simple fact that the failures of the aggression in Korea is not likely to encourage the Kremlin to attempt aggression elsewhere. For all these reasons, the fear of a Soviet preventive attack, designed to nip Western rearmament in the bud, is very much less alive today than it was a year ago. And the growing belief that an attack is not imminent has in turn influenced the military planning of the Western alliance.

This belief accounts in part for the so-called "Ottawa revolt." At Ottawa, the Europeans strongly resisted NATO plans calling for well over 100 divisions by the end of 1954. It was finally agreed that W. Averell Harriman, Britain's Sir Edward Plowden and France's Jean Monnet should re-examine the whole problem. But there was also a tacit agreement to scale down the whole effort somewhat and to extend the time schedule. This agreement was reached because the European leaders and most American officials had begun to come to the same conclusion as Churchill. On the whole, they did not think war would come.

War Remains Possible

This guarded optimism in the West derives directly, of course, from the growing strength of the West. The stronger the West becomes, the less likely a preventive attack by the Soviets also becomes. Some scaling down of the Western defense effort may now be justifiable and necessary. Yet any real slackening will invite a Soviet attack in the period which lies not more than a year or two ahead—the period when the Soviets have built a really formidable stockpile of atomic weapons.

Moreover, as Churchill himself warned, war remains at any time entirely possible. There is some evidence, including the construction of the rail and canal by-passes around the city, that the Soviets have at least been toying with the notion of a second Berlin blockade. Although fear of a satellite attack on Yugoslavia has decreased, fear of a Chinese assault on Indo-China is now definitely increasing. In short, the European leaders may be dead wrong, and the danger of world war may actually be greater than it was a year ago.

The change in atmosphere in Europe, the sense of breathing a little more easily, is nevertheless worth reporting. It reflects a real net gain in military strength in the West. But this should give no grounds for complacency. If the danger of direct Soviet aggression seems to be less, the danger of internal disintegration within the Western alliance is if anything greater than before. The central danger is an internal crumbling away of the Western position on the flanks, and above all in the Middle East. This is the danger to which the United States, as leader of the free world, must now address itself, with the same determination and force which General Dwight D. Eisenhower has brought to strengthening the military position of the Western world.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—When I was a messenger boy in the U. S. Public Health Service — just after dear father went bust bucking the house at the Red Dog Saloon, Yukon — the going price for talent of my sort was $600 per annum.

I thought even at that tender age the government could afford to pay more for my labors. The end of each week found me stoney, partially because I had formed the habit of eating, though still quite young, and partially because two or three days a week I'd have to take a cab from the Union Station in Washington to the rickety old "temporary" building which housed the Public Health Service down on the Mall, to beat the relentless time clock.

After eight years of service I rose, with a speed which caused startled expletives among the less talented members of my set, to the post of clerk in the State Department. There were only two black marks against my record. As a messenger I had lost Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings' annual report to Secretary of Treasury Andrew Mellon, somewhere during a bicycle trip between these two agencies of the government. As a clerk I had devised a new and revolutionary system of filing the records of the London Naval Conference of 1930. As I understand it, nobody was ever able to find those files — not even Alger Hiss, who came to the department a bit later.

My salary as a State Department clerk (senior grade, mind you) was $1,680 a year. On the day I announced that I was quitting, a threadbare old gentleman who ran our department said, by gum, he was going to see to it that I got a $60 a year raise if I stayed on. As I recall, I shot him there in his tracks.

The reason for this wholly uncalled for sideglance at a meteoric government career is a piece in the January Cosmopolitan magazine by Sylvia F. Porter entitled "How To Put Brains in Government." Sylvia thinks as I did, 'way back down the corridors of time: Taxpayers could save money in the long run if they made the salaries of government employes more attractive. To wit:

"If you and I don't look out, our government in Washington may be taken over by a two-million-man army of second-raters. In fact, if we the citizen-taxpayers of America, don't arouse ourselves we may wake up one day to find that our government in Washington has been taken over by a four-million-man army of twenty-second raters."

As a former bona fide, dues-paying, mail-bag-toting, typist, document-filing second rater, I was astounded to see — in a chart comparing current government salaries with those of comparable jobs in industry — that Uncle Sam's messengers now make $2,190 a year, and his assistant clerks (sometimes known as "clarks" in the State Department) make $2,955. Maybe was too hasty, bursting as I was with the effervescence of youth.

But Miss Porter's not too concerned with the lower echelons. Her figures in the upper reaches of authority, government vs. industry, give a vivid clue to why a vast majority of bright people coming out of college shun working for their government.

For illustration, Edward F. Bartelt, fiscal assistant secretary of the U. S. Treasury, makes $15,000 a year. Frederick G. Donner, who has pretty much the same job with General Motors, received $121,070 in salary last year, plus $269,251 in bonuses.

The U. S. government is the biggest and most complicated business in history. It now employs 2,500,000 people (enough to populate Philadelphia) and its payroll is up to $8.3 billion a year.

"As members of the board of directors of America," Miss Porter states, "we show a shocking lack of interest in the type of people who run our government....We stint miserably on salaries of officials who administer these huge sums — completely missing the compelling fact that how well this money is put to use depends on the men who manage it."

Strong, thought-provoking piece, and one that has needed to be said ever since, well, since I was dipping $600 a year out of Mr Coolidge's pork barrel.

Crosley Cuts TV Prices

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Price cuts ranging from $20 to $60 on Crosley television sets were announced by Avco Manufacturing Corporation's division yesterday.

Two hundred seventy-five thousand, six hundred signals and 160,000 telephones safeguard passenger traffic on British railways.

Scientist Says:

A-Program Gets Manpower At Expense Of Other Fields

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—A leading scientist declares that the nation's atomic program is such a "glamour child" in the scientific world that it is getting plenty of manpower at the expense of other fields.

Dr. Howard Meyerhoff, administrative secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, said that if this condition continues, the country could find itself without the raw materials needed to feed the atomic machine.

Meyerhoff said the "major problem—in science—is getting manpower." He reported:

"The situation is acute in the medical field, grave in engineering and prospectively serious in nearly every other field. As far as national defense is concerned, it will be disastrous if we don't have what we need when we need it.

"The atomic program is the glamour program. It is attracting people and getting manpower while other fields are suffering. This country is using raw materials much more rapidly than any of the others."

Meyerhoff said that a new generation of geologists is needed to find new sources of uranium for the atomic plants, or to discover ways to use American uranium which "we are fairly sure is a low-grade ore."

He reported that geology, which is his own field, is one which is very short of recruits and he added, "without the raw materials, where do you go?"

Meyerhoff explained that after World War II "GIs went in for science but now we are running out of GIs and fewer young people are coming in—science has not sold itself to education and education is not selling science."

He said that a larger percentage of college students in Europe major in science than in this country "while we need a larger number just to maintain our own pace."

The geologist said that all "visible supplies" of atomic materials are now being developed.

NEW YORK—(INS)—When I was a messenger boy in the U. S. Public Health Service — just after dear father went bust bucking the house at the Red Dog Saloon, Yukon — the going price for talent of my sort was $600 per annum.

I thought even at that tender age the government could afford to pay more for my labors. The end of each week found me stoney, partially because I had formed the habit of eating, though still quite young, and partially because two or three days a week I'd have to take a cab from the Union Station in Washington to the rickety old "temporary" building which housed the Public Health Service down on the Mall, to beat the relentless time clock.

After eight years of service I rose, with a speed which caused startled expletives among the less talented members of my set, to the post of clerk in the State Department. There were only two black marks against my record. As a messenger I had lost Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings' annual report to Secretary of Treasury Andrew Mellon, somewhere during a bicycle trip between these two agencies of the government. As a clerk I had devised a new and revolutionary system of filing the records of the London Naval Conference of 1930. As I understand it, nobody was ever able to find those files — not even Alger Hiss, who came to the department a bit later.

My salary as a State Department clerk (senior grade, mind you) was $1,680 a year. On the day I announced that I was quitting, a threadbare old gentleman who ran our department said, by gum, he was going to see to it that I got a $60 a year raise if I stayed on. As I recall, I shot him there in his tracks.

The reason for this wholly uncalled for sideglance at a meteoric government career is a piece in the January Cosmopolitan magazine by Sylvia F. Porter entitled "How To Put Brains in Government." Sylvia thinks as I did, 'way back down the corridors of time: Taxpayers could save money in the long run if they made the salaries of government employes more attractive. To wit:

"If you and I don't look out, our government in Washington may be taken over by a two-million-man army of second-raters. In fact, if we the citizen-taxpayers of America, don't arouse ourselves we may wake up one day to find that our government in Washington has been taken over by a four-million-man army of twenty-second raters."

As a former bona fide, dues-paying, mail-bag-toting, typist, document-filing second rater, I was astounded to see — in a chart comparing current government salaries with those of comparable jobs in industry — that Uncle Sam's messengers now make $2,190 a year, and his assistant clerks (sometimes known as "clarks" in the State Department) make $2,955. Maybe was too hasty, bursting as I was with the effervescence of youth.

But Miss Porter's not too concerned with the lower echelons. Her figures in the upper reaches of authority, government vs. industry, give a vivid clue to why a vast majority of bright people coming out of college shun working for their government.

For illustration, Edward F. Bartelt, fiscal assistant secretary of the U. S. Treasury, makes $15,000 a year. Frederick G. Donner, who has pretty much the same job with General Motors, received $121,070 in salary last year, plus $269,251 in bonuses.

The U. S. government is the biggest and most complicated business in history. It now employs 2,500,000 people (enough to populate Philadelphia) and its payroll is up to $8.3 billion a year.

"As members of the board of directors of America," Miss Porter states, "we show a shocking lack of interest in the type of people who run our government....We stint miserably on salaries of officials who administer these huge sums — completely missing the compelling fact that how well this money is put to use depends on the men who manage it."

Strong, thought-provoking piece, and one that has needed to be said ever since, well, since I was dipping $600 a year out of Mr Coolidge's pork barrel.

A-Program Gets Manpower At Expense Of Other Fields

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—A leading scientist declares that the nation's atomic program is such a "glamour child" in the scientific world that it is getting plenty of manpower at the expense of other fields.

Dr. Howard Meyerhoff, administrative secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, said that if this condition continues, the country could find itself without the raw materials needed to feed the atomic machine.

Meyerhoff said the "major problem—in science—is getting manpower." He reported:

"The situation is acute in the medical field, grave in engineering and prospectively serious in nearly every other field. As far as national defense is concerned, it will be disastrous if we don't have what we need when we need it.

"The atomic program is the glamour program. It is attracting people and getting manpower while other fields are suffering. This country is using raw materials much more rapidly than any of the others."

Greta M. McNemar Becomes Bride Of Eugene Nines, ATAF

Mr. and Mrs. Lester McNemar, 112 West Fairview Street, Piedmont, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Greta Mae McNemar, to Eugene Nines, ATAF, United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nines, 1314 Virginia Avenue, this city.

The candlelight wedding ceremony was solemnized at 7 p. m., December 26 in the First Presbyterian Church, Piedmont, with Rev. Robert Campbell officiating. Mrs. Joseph Rinard was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant, while Kenneth Brant, city, served as Mr. Nines' best man.

Christmas flowers and pine decorated the church and Mrs. Reta McCabe, city, was vocalist. She sang, "My Happiness," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Miss Madelyn Knott, Keyser, who also played the traditional marches.

The bride was attired in a gray suit with which she wore a dusty pink hat and accessories and a white orchid corsage completed her costume. Her attendant wore a plumb colored suit with black accessories and had a white rosebud corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Piedmont High School and of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1951. The bridegroom is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1947 and was employed as assistant manager of the G. C. Murphy Company, prior to his enlistment in the Navy. He is stationed at the Naval Air Base, Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. McNemar entertained with a reception for their daughter and her bridal party, at their home following the ceremony. An arrangement of white flowers and candelbra of tall white tapers centered the table. The bridal motif was carried out in the tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Tony Greco, who cut the cake; and Miss Audrey Fisher, city, serving punch.

For their wedding trip by motor, the bride wore a gray suit with black accessories, a red top coat and a corsage of red rosebuds completed her costume.

For the present the bride will reside at the home of her parents. The bridegroom is to report to Memphis January 7.

Employes Entertained

Arthur Friedland entertained employes of the Cumberland Laundry with an eggnog party, Christmas Eve. It was held at the laundry and was from 3:30 until 5 o'clock.

The office staff assisted the host in entertaining.

Each employe was presented with a gift and the afternoon was spent informally.

Christmas decorations were used and were centered with a large tree, for which each employe brought an ornament.

Couple Marks 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Pomeroy entertained with an open house in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary last evening. It was held at their home, 1201 Michigan Avenue, from 7 until midnight.

The former Miss Berna Viora Yeagy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Yeagy, became the bride of Mr. Pomeroy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Zack Pomeroy, December 27, 1926. The ceremony was solemnized in the Evangelical Church, Hagerstown, with Rev. J. Olie Biggs officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy are the parents of two children, Miss Ruth Elizabeth Pomeroy, at home and Pvt. Raymond Richard Pomeroy, Fort Meade. Mr. Pomeroy is employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and is a member of the International Association of Machinists, No. 212. Mrs. Pomeroy is a member of the Ladies Auxiliary to the IA of M Lodge, 283.

The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations with white roses centering the table and a tiered wedding cake adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. A gift of yellow chrysanthemums were also used in the decorations.

Mrs. Wilmer Brown and Mrs. Charles Seaders assisted the hostess in serving.

Tri-Hi-Y To Hold Annual Tea Today

The annual Tri-Hi-Y Alumni Tea sponsored for the alumni girls of Allegany High School will be held this afternoon. It will be in the club rooms at Central YMCA, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Joan Rice, chairman, has announced that a brief program has been planned and that tea will be served. Girls who have been members of the club have been invited to participate. Donna Cochenour is president of the Allegany club this year.

An annual event, the tea is planned as a general reunion for the former members of the Tri-Hi-Y, an affiliate of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Council of Cumberland Central YMCA.

Another activity of the holiday season, was the annual "Big-Little Sister Party" for the younger girls in the community. This year 28 girls were guests of the club. During the program traditional carols were sung, gifts exchanged, games played and refreshments served. The club rooms at the Y, where the party was held, were in traditional holiday decorations.

Serving on the committee were Sue Harmon, Doris Long, Lucy Krichbaum, Margaret Bastian, Joan Bastian, Gloria Frazier and Joan Walker.

The wedding ring is placed on the third finger, left hand because legend has it that it is the finger whose arteries connect directly with the heart.

Memorial Auxiliary To Have Party, 29

Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will have its annual party January 29. This year it is to be a games party and will be held at the Masonic Temple.

Every kind of game is to be in play, including checkers, bridge, 500, set back, canasta or any other game. A prize will be awarded high score at each table.

Proceeds are for the auxiliary's activities, which include the usual Christmas treats for the patients and children in the pediatrics department, a new table for the X-ray department this year and the recreational program for the nurses on which the auxiliary is consentrating this year. For the program the auxiliary had the usual dance in the fall, has subscribed to magazines, given tickets for the Barter theater productions and bought a ping pong table for the recreation room. Since the nurses cannot all attend each function the auxiliary is trying to have a rounded out program, based on advice from the Student Council, Mrs. H. T. Robinson, president, said last evening.

Mrs. Edgar A. Kendall is chairman for the party and is being assisted by Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum, Ways and Means chairman.

Rap-O-Ram Elects Smith

The Rap-O-Ram Club, LaSalle Class of 1941 elected officers and planned a summer reunion at the annual Christmas get-together, held Christmas Eve at the Queen City Brewery recreation room. Brooke Fradiska presided.

William Smith was elected president; Eugene Zembower, vice president and Mr. Fradiska, secretary-treasurer.

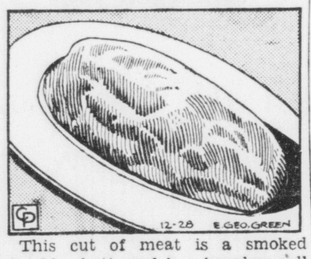
Other members attending were Jack McPartland, George Rossworm, John Doerner, Eugene Blake, John McGady, Francis Shaffer, Lino Frachi, Edward McGraw, Richard Boyle and Fred Dodrill.

Personals

Dr. Richard Trevaskis, Jr., has returned from a month's visit in Mexico City, where he attended the International Mental Health Congress.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fresh, The Dingle, have returned home after spending the Christmas holidays with their son, Rev. James H. Fresh, and his family in Princeton, Ill.

WIFE PRESERVERS



This cut of meat is a smoked shoulder butt, and is a boneless roll which weighs from 3 to 5 pounds. It may be cooked in liquid on top of the stove or roasted. Slices may also be cut from it and panfried. It is an economical buy.

MARK GOLDEN WEDDING—Mr. and Mrs. James Webster Trenton, Allegany Grove, were honor guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert N. Billings, at an open house December 8. It was held at their home, 420 South Allegany Street. Mr. Trenton and the former Miss Maria Estella Kalbaugh were married December 8, 1901, in the Methodist parsonage, Piedmont W. Va., by Rev. E. T. Mowbray. Mr. and Mrs. Trenton are the parents of two children, Mrs. Billings and Joseph K. Trenton. They have four grandchildren and one great grandchild. A former employe of the Western Maryland Railway, Mr. Trenton retired from the Kelly Springfield Tire Company in 1943.

Bride-Elect Entertained At Shower

Mrs. Colleen Lapp entertained with a surprise miscellaneous shower in complement to Miss Norma Davis, recently at the home of Mrs. R. H. Lapp, East Oldtown Road.

Miss Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Davis, 716 Yale Street, is to become the bride of George Wilbert Lapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Lapp 716 East Oldtown Road, next month.

The bride-elect followed hints contained in original verses in the treasure hunt for the gifts.

The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations of all white flowers and the miniature bride with her attendants, centering the refreshment table.

The evening was spent informally.

Social Chart

The Navy Mothers' Club will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 tonight at the VFW home. Following the business session a pie social is being held.

Manhattan Temple No. 8, Pythian Sisters will hold a games party at 1:30 this afternoon at the Junior Order hall.

District 16, Firemen and Ladies Auxiliary will hold a free community party and square dance at 7:30 tonight at the fire hall.

Cumberland Chapter OES will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Masonic Temple.

Edith Cavell, the English nurse, was executed by the Germans in 1915, charged with aiding Allied prisoners to escape.

Warren M. George To Wed Miss Eleanor Pyncheon

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pyncheon, Coatesville, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Pyncheon, to Warren M. George, son of Mrs. Hannah George, Wilmington, Del., former residents of LaVale, and the late McComas George.

Miss Pyncheon is a graduate of Scott High School, Coatesville, Pa., and is employed by the Bell Telephone Company.

Mr. George is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1940, and is a veteran of World War II. He now is associated with the DuPont Company of Wilmington, Del.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Dinner Given For Employes

The employes of Barton's Dairy were entertained with a Christmas dinner and party recently at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

The tables were elaborately decorated with pointsettias, pine, miniature choir boys, Santa's sleigh, Christmas bells and candles.

After dinner, Downey Price entertained with several vocal solos, and William Hay, Jr., local magician, presented a program of tricks. Concluding the evening Christmas bonus were presented to all present, after which carols were sung.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. John Barton, Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Nelson, Miss Alma Lee Briner, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Klopfenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Chester McGill, Mr. and Mrs. Ferman Helmstetter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thorne, Miss Edith Darnling and David Lichty.

Albert C. Luteman Weds Buelah June Eastrige

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Buelah June Eastrige, daughter of Mrs. Basham Eastrige, 215 Myers Avenue, Morgantown, W. Va., and the late Lee Eastrige, to Albert Christopher Luteman, son of Mrs. Mary Luteman, Morgantown, and grandson of Mrs. Florence Luteman, Cash Valley Road.

Wedding vows were exchanged at 4 p.m., November 22, in a single ring ceremony read by Rev. C. E. Walker, pastor of the Memorial Baptist Church, Morgantown, in the home of the bride's brother, Elden Eastrige, Myers Avenue.

Mrs. Mason Eastrige was her sister-in-law's matron of honor and only attendant. While Mason Eastrige, brother of the bride, served as Mr. Luteman's best man. Intimate friends and relatives attended.

Given in marriage by her brother, Wesley Eastrige, the bride was attired in a blue taffeta dress, with which she wore black accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds.

Her matron of honor wore a black dress, trimmed in gold, with black accessories and had a corsage of red rosebuds.

The bride is a graduate of Woodrow Wilson High School, class of 1949, where she was a member of the Y Teen Club. She now is a premedical student at the University of West Virginia.

The bridegroom attended St. Francis High School, Morgantown, where he was president of his class for three consecutive years. During World War II, he served three and one half years in the Navy and now is a journalism major at the University of West Virginia.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The table, covered with a white lace cloth, was centered with a tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Since returning from their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Luteman are residing in Morgantown.

Greta M. McNemar Becomes Bride Of Eugene Nines, ATAF

Mr. and Mrs. Lester McNemar, 112 West Fairview Street, Piedmont, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Greta Mae McNemar, to Eugene Nines, ATAF, United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nines, 1314 Virginia Avenue, this city.

The candlelight wedding ceremony was solemnized at 7 p. m., December 26 in the First Presbyterian Church, Piedmont, with Rev. Robert Campbell officiating. Mrs. Joseph Rinard was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant, while Kenneth Brant, city, served as Mr. Nines' best man.

Christmas flowers and pine decorated the church and Mrs. Reta McCabe, city, was vocalist. She sang, "My Happiness," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Miss Madelyn Knott, Keyser, who also played the traditional marches.

The bride was attired in a gray suit with which she wore a dusty pink hat and accessories and a white orchid corsage completed her costume. Her attendant wore a plumb colored suit with black accessories and had a white rosebud corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Piedmont High School and of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1951. The bridegroom is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1947 and was employed as assistant manager of the G. C. Murphy Company, prior to his enlistment in the Navy. He is stationed at the Naval Air Base, Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. McNemar entertained with a reception for their daughter and her bridal party, at their home following the ceremony. An arrangement of white flowers and candelbra of tall white tapers centered the table. The bridal motif was carried out in the tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Tony Greco, who cut the cake; and Miss Audrey Fisher, city, serving punch.

For their wedding trip by motor, the bride wore a gray suit with black accessories, a red top coat and a corsage of red rosebuds completed her costume.

For the present the bride will reside at the home of her parents. The bridegroom is to report to Memphis January 7.

Mrs. Wilmer Brown and Mrs. Charles Seaders assisted the hostess in serving.

Tri-Hi-Y To Hold Annual Tea Today

The annual Tri-Hi-Y Alumni Tea sponsored for the alumni girls of Allegany High School will be held this afternoon. It will be in the club rooms at Central YMCA, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Joan Rice, chairman, has announced that a brief program has been planned and that tea will be served. Girls who have been members of the club have been invited to participate. Donna Cochenour is president of the Allegany club this year.

An annual event, the tea is planned as a general reunion for the former members of the Tri-Hi-Y, an affiliate of the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Council of Cumberland Central YMCA.

Another activity of the holiday season, was the annual "Big-Little Sister Party" for the younger girls in the community. This year 28 girls were guests of the club. During the program traditional carols were sung, gifts exchanged, games played and refreshments served. The club rooms at the Y, where the party was held, were in traditional holiday decorations.

Serving on the committee were Sue Harmon, Doris Long, Lucy Krichbaum, Margaret Bastian, Joan Bastian, Gloria Frazier and Joan Walker.

The wedding ring is placed on the third finger, left hand because legend has it that it is the finger whose arteries connect directly with the heart.

Memorial Auxiliary To Have Party, 29

Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will have its annual party January 29. This year it is to be a games party and will be held at the Masonic Temple.

Every kind of game is to be in play, including checkers, bridge, 500, set back, canasta or any other game. A prize will be awarded high score at each table.

Proceeds are for the auxiliary's activities, which include the usual Christmas treats for the patients and children in the pediatrics department, a new table for the X-ray department this year and the recreational program for the nurses on which the auxiliary is consentrating this year. For the program the auxiliary had the usual dance in the fall, has subscribed to magazines, given tickets for the Barter theater productions and bought a ping pong table for the recreation room. Since the nurses cannot all attend each function the auxiliary is trying to have a rounded out program, based on advice from the Student Council, Mrs. H. T. Robinson, president, said last evening.

Mrs. Edgar A. Kendall is chairman for the party and is being assisted by Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum, Ways and Means chairman.

Rap-O-Ram Elects Smith

The Rap-O-Ram Club, LaSalle Class of 1941 elected officers and planned a summer reunion at the annual Christmas get-to-gether, held Christmas Eve at the Queen City Brewery recreation room. Brooke Fradiska presided.

William Smith was elected president; Eugene Zembower, vice president and Mr. Fradiska, secretary-treasurer.

Other members attending were Jack McPartland, George Rossworm, John Doerner, Eugene Blake, John McGady, Francis Shaffer, Lino Frachi, Edward McGraw, Richard Boyle and Fred Dodrill.

Personals

Dr. Richard Trevaskis, Jr., has returned from a month's visit in Mexico City, where he attended the International Mental Health Congress.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fresh, The Dingle, have returned home after spending the Christmas holidays with their son, Rev. James H. Fresh, and his family in Princeton, Ill.

NEW YORK—Well men, it's 1939 all over again and the lights are going out again all over the world. All I can suggest mournfully is that you pay up your insurance, get your affairs in order and make for the nearest bomb shelter.

This melancholia is inspired in me by the word I just have received by carrier pigeon that you no longer can go over to Hoboken for a drink at 6 o'clck on Sunday morning.

Hoboken is a small city across the Hudson River from New York It is one mile square and it contains a population of, roughly, 50,000 souls, this being a population that through the years has been decreasing sharply.

It also contains a college called Stevens Institute of Technology, but its chief industry, according to general opinion, is maintenance of saloons.

I was born in Hoboken, or, specifically, in an adjunct named West Hoboken, which I believe no longer exists under that name. I was proud of Hoboken, too, although my mother always claimed we left there when I was six mnths old because it was becoming too dangerous walk down the street, for fear of bottles flying thrugh open windows and hitting one.

They used to make all sorts of vaudeville jokes about Hoboken, just as they did abut Yonkers, another city where I spent portions of my dissolute youth, and I would just sneer comfortably. "Laugh," I used to say. "Go ahead and laugh. Where else in all these United States can you get a drink at 6 in the a. m. on Sunday?"

• — • — •

Now, however, as it must to all men, sobriety has come to Hoboken. The city commissioners sat down the other day, studied a strong complaint from a number of clerics and high-minded men and women, and then voted unanimously to amend the city ordinance allowing saloons to open at the just and reasonable hour of 6 a. m. on Sundays. They set a new hour of 1 p. m.

Thus, after 18 years—or ever since Prohibition was repealed—a way of life comes to an end in the last outpost of drunkenness.

Of course, before repeal you could get a drink any time of day or night in Hoboken. However, in 1933 the city become respectable and genteel, it decided the saloons should shut down for an hour or two, to permit the barkeeps to sweep the places out and rearrange the bottles behind the bar so the cop on the beat would have a little harder time spotting and reaching for the best Scotch.

• — • — •

This means a sharp change in New York's way of life, too Heretofore when Manhattan's bars shut down at 3 a. m. on Sunday — and how can any gentleman get drunk by 3 without gulping?—one simply took the ferry to Hoboken, waited patiently for the day bartender to re-open the doors that just had been shut, and then resumed one's foot-on-the-rail stance as before.

In effect, this new thing is making solitary drinkers of us all. We now have no place to go at 3 a. m. on Sunday but home. This is a novel state of affairs but it sounds a little dangerous.

It was interesting to note that Rev. John A. Weisbrod, the Hoboken priest who led the clamor for the new law, is no genuine blue-nose.

"I was tempted to appear with a little bottle of Kentucky-bred bourbon and to offer the commissioners a snort," he said. This, he said, would have been to point out that, just like such a gesture at a public hearing, it is out of order for saloons to be open on Sunday morning.

Key your New Year's Eve appearance to the glitter of winter stars or the enchanting promise of spring!

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Among males, the feminine capacity for resilience will always be one of the world's wonders. Here it is just a mite beyond one of the biggest celebrations of the year, yet every mother's daughter is already planning the splash she'll make on another night, before even a week has passed! When New Year's Eve arrives, she'll look as sparkling fresh as the slate Father Time hands out at midnight. And every mother's son will be amazed all over again.

To Spark Your Looks

Whether your celebration is to be a ball or a canasta game, your appearance will be an assured success if you accept your dress with accessories that glitter like the winter stars or go to another extreme with springy touches that give a promise of April in January. After you decide which costume in your wardrobe will fit your kind of celebration, cast about for a new accessory that will spark the works.

So numerous and fascinating are the accessories available right now that this space can provide only a few clues to prod your imagination.

If yours is to be an informal evening, give your costume a glitter shot: To dinner slacks and a pullover, add "diamond" brooches in a button-like row; to your "dress" separates, a multi-colored sequin belt, sash or apron; to a soft wool dress a gold-studded stole; to a short dinner dress or suit, a jeweled stocking. Gala? You bet!

For achieving the spring touch at a party in your own home, forego the glitter; fill the house with daffodils and stick a bunch in your belt. Your guests will be convinced in a glance that the evening and the New Year augurs well!

Prophetic Fashions

Formal evening wear will respond to the same tactics—sequin gloves, sparklers in your hair, or spring flowers pinned to a fan. Of course, if you are splurging on a new for-

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—Well men, it's 1939 all over again and the lights are going out again all over the world. All I can suggest mournfully is that you pay up your insurance, get your affairs in order and make for the nearest bomb shelter.

This melancholia is inspired in me by the word I just have received by carrier pigeon that you no longer can go over to Hoboken for a drink at 6 o'clck on Sunday morning.

Hoboken is a small city across the Hudson River from New York It is one mile square and it contains a population of, roughly, 50,000 souls, this being a population that through the years has been decreasing sharply.

It also contains a college called Stevens Institute of Technology, but its chief industry, according to general opinion, is maintenance of saloons.

I was born in Hoboken, or, specifically, in an adjunct named West Hoboken, which I believe no longer exists under that name. Auto Insurance Rates May Be Boosted In Maryland

Maryland car owners may soon be paying some 24 per cent more for insurance on fire, theft, collision and so-called comprehensive coverage in the counties outside Baltimore.

The higher cost of repairing damaged vehicles is given as the main reason for the prospective rate hike.

The state insurance commissioner said Wednesday that the National Automobile Underwriters Association has been discussing the matter with him.

No Liability Change

No change is seen in rates on liability insurance to cover property damage done or persons injured by your car. Last June these schedules were raised about 20 per cent.

The possible increase on such insurance as fire and theft is somewhat less than the 24 per cent figure for motorists in Baltimore City. They already pay higher rates than in the counties.

Such a schedule will await final analysis of 1951 claim figures and further discussion with the Maryland authorities as to whether higher rates would be equitable.

Last April, fire, theft, collision and comprehensive rates in Baltimore city were reduced 9 per cent, and in the counties by 15 per cent. In April, 1950, there was an overall reduction of 6.5 per cent in these rates.

What increase may occur here early in 1952 might restore Maryland rates to about where they were almost two years ago a representative of the insurance commissioner's office said.

Major reason for a rise in automobile insurance rates is due to the increasing costs of repairs. In New York city and in certain counties of New York state, there has been an excessively large number of claims.

Rates on liability insurance are not being increased at this time in New York. They were raised last June at the same time such rates were boosted in Maryland.

Premiums on comprehensive insurance, which cover any type of damage to private passenger automobiles, will go up an average of 30.8 per cent in the Manhattan Borough of New York city, and by a lesser amount in other boroughs.

Collision rates, which cover damage but not liability, will rise 19.9 per cent in Manhattan.

Comprehensive rates in counties outside of New York city will be reduced 1.1 per cent and collision rates will be raised 8.3 per cent. In both city and counties, an overall 8 per cent, boost will be made in fire and theft insurance.

In certain areas of New York, some companies have restricted coverage due to high costs of repair parts and labor coupled with the huge number of claims.

Auto Insurance Rates May Be Boosted In Maryland

Maryland car owners may soon be paying some 24 per cent more for insurance on fire, theft, collision and so-called comprehensive coverage in the counties outside Baltimore.

The higher cost of repairing damaged vehicles is given as the main reason for the prospective rate hike.

The state insurance commissioner said Wednesday that the National Automobile Underwriters Association has been discussing the matter with him.

No Liability Change

No change is seen in rates on liability insurance to cover property damage done or persons injured by your car. Last June these schedules were raised about 20 per cent.

The possible increase on such insurance as fire and theft is somewhat less than the 24 per cent figure for motorists in Baltimore City. They already pay higher rates than in the counties.

Such a schedule will await final analysis of 1951 claim figures and further discussion with the Maryland authorities as to whether higher rates would be equitable.

Last April, fire, theft, collision and comprehensive rates in Baltimore city were reduced 9 per cent, and in the counties by 15 per cent. In April, 1950, there was an overall reduction of 6.5 per cent in these rates.

What increase may occur here early in 1952 might restore Maryland rates to about where they were almost two years ago a representative of the insurance commissioner's office said.

Major reason for a rise in automobile insurance rates is due to the increasing costs of repairs. In New York city and in certain counties of New York state, there has been an excessively large number of claims.

Rates on liability insurance are not being increased at this time in New York. They were raised last June at the same time such rates were boosted in Maryland.

Premiums on comprehensive insurance, which cover any type of damage to private passenger automobiles, will go up an average of 30.8 per cent in the Manhattan Borough of New York city, and by a lesser amount in other boroughs.

Collision rates, which cover damage but not liability, will rise 19.9 per cent in Manhattan.

Comprehensive rates in counties outside of New York city will be reduced 1.1 per cent and collision rates will be raised 8.3 per cent. In both city and counties, an overall 8 per cent, boost will be made in fire and theft insurance.

In certain areas of New York, some companies have restricted coverage due to high costs of repair parts and labor coupled with the huge number of claims.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Winter Social Set Warms Up

PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—George Pattullo, the old-time war correspondent and sportsman, said to me six weeks ago,

John Wheeler

"How would you like to go sailfishing in December?"

It seemed like a good idea, although I have nothing against sailfish, and sometimes I pull for them to win from the man on the other end of the pole, or rod—I beg your pardon. All you need for this sport is a boat you can rent for about $65 a day with a captain who gives you a lot of boloney about the prospects, sunburn lotion, dark glasses, and a strong stomach.

We cruised around the Gulf Stream all day, and I dragged a line between doses of dramamine while the craft floundered in the sun and the swells. Finally one of our party hooked what we were trolling for, and the victim struggled and jumped, until with the help of expert kibitzers he was brought alongside and cracked on the head with a baseball bat. Then we ran up a small boastful white flag which looked like one of the alleged garments worn by Lili St. Cyr, the strip-teaser. If you turn the sailfish loose, a red G string is displayed.

Farwell Perry, the son of John Perry, the newspaper publisher, has an outfit with goggles and a tank which permits him to stay under water for a half hour or so. He shoots fish with a blow gun. One day he was exploring the bottom of the inlet near the jetty where the folks who live on the other side of the tracks and can't afford boats, fish. Before going down he scribbled a note on a piece of paper which said "You're using the wrong bait." He found a line, fastened the message to the hook, and then gave it a jerk. Naturally the nimrod was pretty startled getting this bulletin from the denizens of the deep. Later when the young man appeared on the surface without warning in his strange makeup, one woman mistook him for a sea monster and fell overboard. He rescued her.

Since our maiden voyage, we have not been out which is all right with me, because the weather has been too bad. California papers please copy. According to the first-page headlines in Miami and here yesterday, practically everyone north of the Mason Dixon line had been frozen to death or living on pemmican, delivered by dog sled.

The social season here is just beginning to warm up and may not get so hot at that with higher taxes and shrinking dividends. Yesterday I went to the house of some prosperous friends of mine for cocktails as they say. The living room is a toll call from end to end. After a bit of gossip about local celebrities, the talk got around to politics. One gentleman present assured us General MacArthur would be the next President of the United States, and his election would mean the salvation of the country. Just to throw a monkey wrench into the machinery, I began to make some favorable remarks about Truman, although I think, if he returns to the White House again, we will all go down the drain to socialism. I pretty nearly got thrown out and so shut up.

Mr. Pattullo was a top correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post and wrote the story of Sergeant York, the great hero. Among others attending the first World War as reporters were Westbrook Pegler and Ring Lardner. The former borrowed $20 from Pat one day at the front and later gave it to Lardner to take back to Paris to pay my current host. He called at the hotel, and Pattullo was out so his wife, a Red Cross worker, went down to see his visitor in the lobby. She reported to him when he returned sarcastically as follows:

"Two of your friends stopped today, one named Lardner. Both had been drinking. He was very polite and pretty straight and stiff. He said solemnly,

"'I just wanted to tell you I owe your husband twenty dollars, and I haven't got it.'

"He then turned on his heel without another word and walked out."

Later a check came through the mail.

Well, tomorrow if the wind and sea quiet down, we are going fishing for the big ones, and I must remember to spit on the bait.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

The Winter Social Set Warms Up

PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—George Pattullo, the old-time war correspondent and sportsman, said to me six weeks ago,

John Wheeler

"How would you like to go sailfishing in December?"

It seemed like a good idea, although I have nothing against sailfish, and sometimes I pull for them to win from the man on the other end of the pole, or rod—I beg your pardon. All you need for this sport is a boat you can rent for about $65 a day with a captain who gives you a lot of boloney about the prospects, sunburn lotion, dark glasses, and a strong stomach.

We cruised around the Gulf Stream all day, and I dragged a line between doses of dramamine while the craft floundered in the sun and the swells. Finally one of our party hooked what we were trolling for, and the victim struggled and jumped, until with the help of expert kibitzers he was brought alongside and cracked on the head with a baseball bat. Then we ran up a small boastful white flag which looked like one of the alleged garments worn by Lili St. Cyr, the strip-teaser. If you turn the sailfish loose, a red G string is displayed.

Farwell Perry, the son of John Perry, the newspaper publisher, has an outfit with goggles and a tank which permits him to stay under water for a half hour or so. He shoots fish with a blow gun. One day he was exploring the bottom of the inlet near the jetty where the folks who live on the other side of the tracks and can't afford boats, fish. Before going down he scribbled a note on a piece of paper which said "You're using the wrong bait." He found a line, fastened the message to the hook, and then gave it a jerk. Naturally the nimrod was pretty startled getting this bulletin from the denizens of the deep. Later when the young man appeared on the surface without warning in his strange makeup, one woman mistook him for a sea monster and fell overboard. He rescued her.

Since our maiden voyage, we have not been out which is all right with me, because the weather has been too bad. California papers please copy. According to the first-page headlines in Miami and here yesterday, practically everyone north of the Mason Dixon line had been frozen to death or living on pemmican, delivered by dog sled.

The social season here is just beginning to warm up and may not get so hot at that with higher taxes and shrinking dividends. Yesterday I went to the house of some prosperous friends of mine for cocktails as they say. The living room is a toll call from end to end. After a bit of gossip about local celebrities, the talk got around to politics. One gentleman present assured us General MacArthur would be the next President of the United States, and his election would mean the salvation of the country. Just to throw a monkey wrench into the machinery, I began to make some favorable remarks about Truman, although I think, if he returns to the White House again, we will all go down the drain to socialism. I pretty nearly got thrown out and so shut up.

Mr. Pattullo was a top correspondent for the Saturday Evening Post and wrote the story of Sergeant York, the great hero. Among others attending the first World War as reporters were Westbrook Pegler and Ring Lardner. The former borrowed $20 from Pat one day at the front and later gave it to Lardner to take back to Paris to pay my current host. He called at the hotel, and Pattullo was out so his wife, a Red Cross worker, went down to see his visitor in the lobby. She reported to him when he returned sarcastically as follows:

"Two of your friends stopped today, one named Lardner. Both had been drinking. He was very polite and pretty straight and stiff. He said solemnly,

"'I just wanted to tell you I owe your husband twenty dollars, and I haven't got it.'

"He then turned on his heel without another word and walked out."

Later a check came through the mail.

Well, tomorrow if the wind and sea quiet down, we are going fishing for the big ones, and I must remember to spit on the bait.

MOTHER'S OATS—a product of THE QUAKER OATS COMPANY

Halibut Supperettes

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons minced onion
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2½ cups milk
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 cup diced, cooked celery
- 1 pound cooked halibut

Melt butter, add onion and cook over low heat until tender but not brown. Blend in flour and seasonings; stir in milk and cook until mixture boils and thickens, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice and celery; fold in flaked fish. Serve hot over split Cheese Biscuits. Serves 6.

Holiday Crullers

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- 5 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 cake fresh yeast
- ¼ cup lukewarm water
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¾ teaspoon cinnamon
- ⅛ teaspoon powered cloves
- 3¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- ½ 7-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate tidbits
- Confectioners' sugar

Combine sugar, salt, shortening and milk. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in egg. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water; add to milk mixture. Add lemon rind. Sift together spices and flour. Stir half this mixture into milk mixture. Add remaining flour mixture, and mix to make soft, smooth dough. Knead on floured bread board 5 min. Place in greased bowl; brush top with melted fat. Cover with clean towel, and let rise in a warm place (80 degrees to 85 degrees F.) for 1 hr., or until almost double in bulk. Punch down, and allow to rise 1 hr. longer, or until double in bulk. Then divide dough in half. Work chopped nuts into one half and chocolate tidbits into other. Then cut each mixture into 18 equal pieces. Shape pieces into round strips about 10" long. Double the strips; twist several times, and pinch ends together. Cover, and allow to rise on greased baking sheet until light — about 1 hr. Fry until brown in deep fat or salad oil heated to 370 degrees F., or hot enough to brown a cube of day-old bread in 60 sec. Drain on crumpled paper toweling. When cool, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Makes 3 doz.

For a delicious topping to go over plain cake, cupcakes, biscuits, pancakes, or waffles, you might like to try this cranberry sauce recipe. Add 2 tablespoons of butter and 2 tablespoons of brown sugar to a cup of whole cranberry sauce. Heat the mixture to boiling and serve hot.

Holiday Candies

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- 5 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 cup canned sweetened condensed milk
- 2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Food colorings
- Extracts
- Packaged chocolate shot
- Walnut halves
- Canned moist shredded coconut
- Candied cherries

Stir sugar and milk and vanilla until mixed. Knead on board, sprinkled with confectioners' sugar, until smooth and creamy. Divide mixture into 3 parts. To one part add enough red food coloring and almond extract, and to a second part enough green and mint extract, to tint and flavor delicately. Then knead until mixed. Leave third part white. Form some into ½" balls. Then press half a walnut on each side Roll other ¾" balls in coconut and chocolate shot. For still others, make a cross in top of cherry without cutting through. Press back petals, and fill center with small ball of fondant.

Spaghetti, Clam-Anchovy Sauce

1 large onion, chopped; 1 minced, peeled clove garlic; ¼ cup oil or bacon drippings; 1 No. 2½ can solid-pack tomatoes (3½ cups); 1 6-oz. can tomato paste; 1 2-oz. can anchovy flat fillets; ½ teasp. sugar; ½ teasp. salt; ⅛ teasp. pepper ⅛ teasp. dried marjoram or thyme or both; 1 7-oz. can minced clams; ¾ lb. broken spaghetti or shell macaroni; ¼ lb. grated American Cheddar cheese (1 cup); Parsley garnish; Parmesan cheese.

Simmer onion and garlic in oil in large skillet 5 to 7 min., until golden. Add tomatoes and ½ paste; stir to break up tomatoes. Add ½ anchovies, drained and coarsely chopped. Cover; simmer 10 min. Add rest of paste, anchovies, next 4 ingredients, and juice from clams. Cover; simmer 25 to 30 min., stirring occasionally. Add clams; heat slowly. Cook spaghetti in three qts. boiling salted water 10 to 15 min., or until tender (the shells take 30 min.); drain. Add most of Cheddar cheese; toss with fork and spoon. At once arrange alternate layers of spaghetti and sauce, in 3-q. casserole; sprinkle with rest of cheese. Provide bowl of grated Parmesan for sprinkling on individual servings. Makes 8 servings.

Flavor And Color Accent

Vegetable-potato salad is a favorite when mixed vegetables are combined with potato salad. Drain a small can of mixed vegetables and add sharp French dressing to them. Chill for at least an hour before adding to the potato salad.

Gold Nugget Beans

Sausage and the rich fruity flavor of apricots are pleasing additions to pork and beans. You simply fix these this way: Shape about ¼ pound of bulk sausage into small patties and brown in a skillet. Add these and ½ to 1 cup of chopped cooked apricots to 2 cans of pork and beans. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degree F.) until heated through about ½ hour. Makes 6 servings.

Get Lovely CHINA IN MOTHER'S OATS

Popular "Wild Rose" Pattern in Soft Gray-Blue on Ivory!

No waiting—no coupons—no money to send for these premiums! They're inside every big square package of Mother's Oats. Take your choice of this China, Aluminum Ware, "Fire-King" Cup and Saucer, or Carnival Ware.

You get double value! Money can't buy a finer quality, more nourishing oatmeal than Mother's Oats. It's the delicious hot, creamy oatmeal your family loves. Get it today!

MOTHER'S OATS—a product of THE QUAKER OATS COMPANY

Halibut Supperettes

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons minced onion
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2½ cups milk
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 cup diced, cooked celery
- 1 pound cooked halibut

Melt butter, add onion and cook over low heat until tender but not brown. Blend in flour and seasonings; stir in milk and cook until mixture boils and thickens, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice and celery; fold in flaked fish. Serve hot over split Cheese Biscuits. Serves 6.

Holiday Crullers

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- 5 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 1 cup milk, scalded
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 cake fresh yeast
- ¼ cup lukewarm water
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¾ teaspoon cinnamon
- ⅛ teaspoon powered cloves
- 3¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- ½ 7-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate tidbits

Confectioners' sugar

Combine sugar, salt, shortening and milk. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in egg. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water; add to milk mixture. Add lemon rind. Sift together spices and flour. Stir half this mixture into milk mixture. Add remaining flour mixture, and mix to make soft, smooth dough. Knead on floured bread board 5 min. Place in greased bowl; brush top with melted fat. Cover with clean towel, and let rise in a warm place (80 degrees to 85 degrees F.) for 1 hr., or until almost double in bulk. Punch down, and allow to rise 1 hr. longer, or until double in bulk. Then divide dough in half. Work chopped nuts into one half and chocolate tidbits into other. Then cut each mixture into 18 equal pieces. Shape pieces into round strips about 10" long. Double the strips; twist several times, and pinch ends together. Cover, and allow to rise on greased baking sheet until light — about 1 hr. Fry until brown in deep fat or salad oil heated to 370 degrees F., or hot enough to brown a cube of day-old bread in 60 sec. Drain on crumpled paper toweling. When cool, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Makes 3 doz.

For a delicious topping to go over plain cake, cupcakes, biscuits, pancakes, or waffles, you might like to try this cranberry sauce recipe. Add 2 tablespoons of butter and 2 tablespoons of brown sugar to a cup of whole cranberry sauce. Heat the mixture to boiling and serve hot.

Holiday Candies

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- 5 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 cup canned sweetened condensed milk
- 2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Food colorings
- Extracts
- Packaged chocolate shot
- Walnut halves
- Canned moist shredded coconut
- Candied cherries

Stir sugar and milk and vanilla until mixed. Knead on board, sprinkled with confectioners' sugar, until smooth and creamy. Divide mixture into 3 parts. To one part add enough red food coloring and almond extract, and to a second part enough green and mint extract, to tint and flavor delicately. Then knead until mixed. Leave third part white. Form some into ½" balls. Then press half a walnut on each side Roll other ¾" balls in coconut and chocolate shot. For still others, make a cross in top of cherry without cutting through. Press back petals, and fill center with small ball of fondant.

Spaghetti, Clam-Anchovy Sauce

1 large onion, chopped; 1 minced, peeled clove garlic; ¼ cup oil or bacon drippings; 1 No. 2½ can solid-pack tomatoes (3½ cups); 1 6-oz. can tomato paste; 1 2-oz. can anchovy flat fillets; ½ teasp. sugar; ½teasp. salt; ⅛ teasp. pepper ⅛ teasp. dried marjoram or thyme or both; 1 7-oz. can minced clams; ¾ lb. broken spaghetti or shell macaroni; ¼ lb. grated American Cheddar cheese (1 cup); Parsley garnish; Pamesan cheese.

Simmer onion and garlic in oil in large skillet 5 to 7 min:. until golden. Add tomatoes and ½ paste; stir to break up tomatoes. Add ½ anchovies, drained and coarsely chopped. Cover; simmer 10 min. Add rest of paste, anchovies, next 4 ingredients, and juice from clams. Cover; simmer 25 to 30 min., stirring occasionally. Add clams; heat slowly. Cook spaghetti in three qts. boiling salted water 10 to 15 min., or until tender (the shells take 30 min.); drain. Add most of Cheddar cheese; toss with fork and spoon. At once arrange alternate layers of spaghetti and sauce, in 3-q. casserole; sprinkle with rest of cheese. Provide bowl of grated Parmesan for sprinkling on individual servings. Makes 8 servings.

Flavor And Color Accent

Vegetable-potato salad is a favorite when mixed vegetables are combined with potato salad. Drain a small can of mixed vegetables and add sharp French dressing to them. Chill for at least an hour before adding to the potato salad.

Gold Nugget Beans

Sausage and the rich fruity flavor of apricots are pleasing additions to pork and beans. You simply fix these this way: Shape about ¼ pound of bulk sausage into small patties and brown in a skillet. Add these and ½ to 1 cup of chopped cooked apricots to 2 cans of pork and beans. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degree F.) until heated through about ½ hour. Makes 6 servings.

Then divide dough in half. Work chopped nuts into one half and chocolate tidbits into other. Then cut each mixture into 18 equal pieces. Shape pieces into round strips about 10" long. Double the strips; twist several times, and pinch ends together. Cover, and allow to rise on greased baking sheet until light — about 1 hr. Fry until brown in deep fat or salad oil heated to 370 degrees F., or hot enough to brown a cube of day-old bread in 60 sec. Drain on crumpled paper toweling. When cool, sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Makes 3 doz.

For a delicious topping to go over plain cake, cupcakes, biscuits, pancakes, or waffles, you might like to try this cranberry sauce recipe. Add 2 tablespoons of butter and 2 tablespoons of brown sugar to a cup of whole cranberry sauce. Heat the mixture to boiling and serve hot.

Holiday Candies

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- 5 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 cup canned sweetened condensed milk
- 2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Food colorings
- Extracts
- Packaged chocolate shot
- Walnut halves
- Canned moist shredded coconut
- Candied cherries

Stir sugar and milk and vanilla until mixed. Knead on board, sprinkled with confectioners' sugar, until smooth and creamy. Divide mixture into 3 parts. To one part add enough red food coloring and almond extract, and to a second part enough green and mint extract, to tint and flavor delicately. Then knead until mixed. Leave third part white. Form some into ½" balls. Then press half a walnut on each side Roll other ¾" balls in coconut and chocolate shot. For still others, make a cross in top of cherry without cutting through. Press back petals, and fill center with small ball of fondant.

Spaghetti, Clam-Anchovy Sauce

1 large onion, chopped; 1 minced, peeled clove garlic; ¼ cup oil or bacon drippings; 1 No. 2½ can solid-pack tomatoes (3½ cups); 1 6-oz. can tomato paste; 1 2-oz. can anchovy flat fillets; ½ teasp. sugar; ½ teasp. salt; ⅛ teasp. pepper ⅛ teasp. dried marjoram or thyme or both; 1 7-oz. can minced clams; ¾ lb. broken spaghetti or shell macaroni; ¼ lb. grated American Cheddar cheese (1 cup); Parsley garnish; Pamesan cheese.

Simmer onion and garlic in oil in large skillet 5 to 7 min:. until golden. Add tomatoes and ½ paste; stir to break up tomatoes. Add ½ anchovies, drained and coarsely chopped. Cover; simmer 10 min. Add rest of paste, anchovies, next 4 ingredients, and juice from clams. Cover; simmer 25 to 30 min., stirring occasionally. Add clams; heat slowly. Cook spaghetti in three qts. boiling salted water 10 to 15 min., or until tender (the shells take 30 min.); drain. Add most of Cheddar cheese; toss with fork and spoon. At once arrange alternate layers of spaghetti and sauce, in 3-q. casserole; sprinkle with rest of cheese. Provide bowl of grated Parmesan for sprinkling on individual servings. Makes 8 servings.

Flavor And Color Accent

Vegetable-potato salad is a favorite when mixed vegetables are combined with potato salad. Drain a small can of mixed vegetables and add sharp French dressing to them. Chill for at least an hour before adding to the potato salad.

Gold Nugget Beans

Sausage and the rich fruity flavor of apricots are pleasing additions to pork and beans. You simply fix these this way: Shape about ¼ pound of bulk sausage into small patties and brown in a skillet. Add these and ½ to 1 cup of chopped cooked apricots to 2 cans of pork and beans. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degree F.) until heated through about ½ hour. Makes 6 servings.

Williamsburg Wassail For 12

Stir ¼ teaspoon ground ginger, ¼ teaspoon all-spice, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 1/6 teaspoon ground cloves, and ⅛ teaspoon mace or nutmeg in ¼ cup hot water. Add to 1 bottle dry red wine and heat mixture slowly. Add 1 cup sugar and stir till dissolved. Separate 5 eggs. Fold beaten yolks into beaten whites and pour into punch bowl. Add the heated wine and whip until frothy. To keep the wassail tradition intact, you may add to the bowl 5 hot baked apples. Serve with chopped-ginger cookies and pfeffernusse. Excellent versions of both can be bought by the package.

Holiday Punch For 15

Blend together 1/5 quart rye or blended whiskey, 1½ ounces grenadine, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, and 1 cup orange juice. Allow to stand overnight. An hour before serving, pour over a cake of ice in punch bowl. Finally, add 1 quart sparkling water. Serve tea sandwiches—watercress, mushroom, cucumber.

Kentucky Egg Nog For 12

Stir 12 egg yolks with 12 tablespoonfuls of sugar until smooth. Slowly stir in one pint bourbon whiskey and one pint unwhipped double cream. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of 12 eggs. Stir in an additional half-pint of bourbon. Chill until serving time. Then fold in one pint whipped double cream. Sprinkle with cinnamon or nutmeg Serve paper-thin slices of Virginia ham between beaten biscuit, or evryday ham on buttered, tiny, hot baking-powder biscuits.

Glog For 15

Mix in a large casserole ¾ cup sugar, 2 ounces Angostura bitters, 1 pint claret, 1 pint sherry, ½ pint brandy. Heat until piping hot. A flameproof casserole over a spirit lamp is a good combination for keeping the mixture hot while the party goes on. Put 1 large raisin and 1 unsalted almond in each mug or china punch cup and fill the cup ¾ full. You may use heavy glass mugs or old-fashioned glasses, but put a spoon in the glass before pouring so heat won't crack glass. Serve with almond cookies.

Champagne Punch For 20

Peel and crush three ripe pineapples. Place in a large glass or china bowl, cover with 1 pound sugar and let stand for an hour. Add 1 pint strained lemon juice, 4 ounces Curacao, 4 ounces maraschino, 1 pint cognac, and 1 pint Jamaica rum. To color this red, add 2 tablespoons grenadine. Stir and let stand overnight. Before serving, pour over a block of ice in punch bowl. Finally, add 4 quarts champagne. With this, caviar on melba toast and smoked turkey on thin rounds of white bread.

Tom And Jerry For 20

Separate 12 eggs. Beat whites stiff, sifting in 2 cups sugar. Beat yolks till light yellow, sprinkling with 1 teaspoon each ground cinnamon and cloves. Gradually add 4 ounces Jamaica rum. Pour into whites in a large bowl and beat together. Into each earthenware Tom-and-Jerry mug go 2 tablespoons of this batter, 2 ounces of bourbon and boiling hot water or hot milk to fill the mug. (Cut this serving in half if you're using china punch cups.) There are those who float 1 teaspoon of cognac on top and then dust with nutmeg. This set-up calls for a device to keep milk or water hot. A spirit lamp is decorative. Serve with lebkuchen and wine sticks. You can buy these packaged.

Hot Buttered Rum

Allow 1 teaspoon brown sugar and 1 heaping teaspoon butter to a customer. Cream butter and sugar with ¼ teaspoon mixed ground spices. Spoon 1 full tablespoon of this batter into each mug. Add ½ jigger light or dark rum and ½ jigger brandy. Fill mug with hot water, stir, dust with nutmeg or ground cinnamon. Long sticks of cinnamon may be served as stirrers. Good to eat with this are any of the spicy Christmas cookies and unsweetened, waffle-like wafers called butter gaufrettes, all of which can be bought by the package.

Teetotal Punch For Fifty

This is a standard fruit punch good all year round. Make a syrup by boiling 1¼ cups water and 2½ cups sugar together for 10 minutes. Add to this and allow to stand for an hour, 1 cup lemon juice, 2 cups orange juice, 1 cup strong tea, 2 cups white grape juice, 2 cups commercial raspberry syrup, and 1 cup chopped maraschino cherries and their juice. Add to this enough ice water to make about 2 gallons of liquid. A quart of charged water, added just before serving time, may be substituted for a quart of the ice water. Pour over block of ice in punch bowl. Serve with tea sandwiches and petits fours.

Add dried mint flakes to a French dressing to make a change in flavor.

QUEEN CITY BREWING COMPANY CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND

Williamsburg Wassail For 12

Stir ¼ teaspoon ground ginger, ¼ teaspoon all-spice, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 1/6 teaspoon ground cloves, and ¼ teaspoon mace or nutmeg in ¼ cup hot water. Add to 1 bottle dry red wine and heat mixture slowly. Add 1 cup sugar and stir till dissolved. Separate 5 eggs. Fold beaten yolks into beaten whites and pour into punch bowl. Add the heated wine and whip until frothy. To keep the wassail tradition intact, you may add to the bowl 5 hot baked apples. Serve with chopped-ginger cookies and pfeffernusse. Excellent versions of both can be bought by the package.

Holiday Punch For 15

Blend together 1/5 quart rye or blended whiskey, 1½ ounces grenadine, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, and 1 cup orange juice. Allow to stand overnight. An hour before serving, pour over a cake of ice in punch bowl. Finally, add 1 quart sparkling water. Serve tea sandwiches—watercress, mushroom, cucumber.

Kentucky Egg Nog For 12

Stir 12 egg yolks with 12 tablespoonfuls of sugar until smooth. Slowly stir in one pint bourbon whiskey and one pint unwhipped double cream. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of 12 eggs. Stir in an additional half-pint of bourbon. Chill until serving time. Then fold in one pint whipped double cream. Sprinkle with cinnamon or nutmeg Serve paper-thin slices of Virginia ham between beaten biscuit, or evryday ham on buttered, tiny, hot baking-powder biscuits.

Glog For 15

Mix in a large casserole ¾ cup sugar, 2 ounces Angostura bitters, 1 pint claret, 1 pint sherry, ½ pint brandy. Heat until piping hot. A flameproof casserole over a spirit lamp is a good combination for keeping the mixture hot while the party goes on. Put 1 large raisin and 1 unsalted almond in each mug or china punch cup and fill the cup ¾ full. You may use heavy glass mugs or old-fashioned glasses, but put a spoon in the glass before pouring so heat won't crack glass. Serve with almond cookies.

Champagne Punch For 20

Peel and crush three ripe pineapples. Place in a large glass or china bowl, cover with 1 pound sugar and let stand for an hour. Add 1 pint strained lemon juice, 4 ounces Curacao, 4 ounces maraschino, 1 pint cognac, and 1 pint Jamaica rum. To color this red, add 2 tablespoons grenadine. Stir and let stand overnight. Before serving, pour over a block of ice in punch bowl. Finally, add 4 quarts champagne. With this, caviar on melba toast and smoked turkey on thin rounds of white bread.

Tom And Jerry For 20

Separate 12 eggs. Beat whites stiff, sifting in 2 cups sugar. Beat yolks till light yellow, sprinkling with 1 teaspoon each ground cinnamon and cloves. Gradually add 4 ounces Jamaica rum. Pour into whites in a large bowl and beat together. Into each earthenware Tom-and-Jerry mug go 2 tablespoons of this batter, 2 ounces of bourbon and boiling hot water or hot milk to fill the mug. (Cut this serving in half if you're using china punch cups.) There are those who float 1 teaspoon of cognac on top and then dust with nutmeg. This set-up calls for a device to keep milk or water hot. A spirit lamp is decorative. Serve with lebkuchen and wine sticks. You can buy these packaged.

Hot Buttered Rum

Allow 1 teaspoon brown sugar and 1 heaping teaspoon butter to a customer. Cream butter and sugar with ¼ teaspoon mixed ground spices. Spoon 1 full tablespoon of this batter into each mug. Add ½ jigger light or dark rum and ½ jigger brandy. Fill mug with hot water, stir, dust with nutmeg or ground cinnamon. Long sticks of cinnamon may be served as stirrers. Good to eat with this are any of the spicy Christmas cookies and unsweetened, waffle-like wafers called butter gaufrettes, all of which can be bought by the package.

Teetotal Punch For Fifty

This is a standard fruit punch good all year round. Make a syrup by boiling 1¼ cups water and 2½ cups sugar together for 10 minutes. Add to this and allow to stand for an hour, 1 cup lemon juice, 2 cups orange juice, 1 cup strong tea, 2 cups white grape juice, 2 cups commercial raspberry syrup, and 1 cup chopped maraschino cherries and their juice. Add to this enough ice water to make about 2 gallons of liquid. A quart of charged water, added just before serving time, may be substituted for a quart of the ice water. Pour over block of ice in punch bowl. Serve with tea sandwiches and petits fours.

Add dried mint flakes to a French dressing to make a change in flavor.

Gas Situation Termed Good In Cumberland

The natural gas situation in the Cumberland vicinity was termed good so far this winter, by Carl C. Robbins, manager of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company.

Robbins pointed out that during the past year the local branch of the company has spent $700,000 in improving the system in Cumberland.

He said that most of this was accounted for in the enlargement or replacement of main lines. Other funds were spent in extensions from the mains.

Pumping Station Built

Much of the natural gas consumed here comes from Texas through the "Big and Little Inch" pipelines.

A large pumping station has just been completed by the Texas firm, the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, several miles north of here in Bedford Valley.

An Associated Press dispatch Thursday reported that the Federal Power Company has authorized the Tennessee company to increase its wholesale natural gas rates by about 11½ million dollars a year.

The Houston firm had asked an 18 million dollar increase.

Not Many Wholesale Users

The Tennessee wholesales gas to distributing companies and other customers in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, New York and New England.

Robbins said there are not many industrial users here who obtain the gas wholesale. He added that he did not know whether this power commission authorization would have any effect on the rates locally.

The industrial users are Celanese Corporation, Big Savage Refractories, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Cumberland Glass Company and several other smaller firms, Robbins explained.

The commission in its order said evidence shows Tennessee is "reasonably entitled to the $11,400,000 increase in order to provide revenue to meet its cost of service and realize a six per cent rate of return."

To File Schedule

The increase was recommended by the commission's staff.

The commission's order permits Tennessee to file the new rate schedules on or before January 11, 1952, to be effective as of December 17, 1951.

Tennessee's rate schedules under the proposed $18,000,000 increase were suspended by the commission last July and August.

A hearing will be held January 8, at which Tennessee will submit to its customers and other interested parties the new rates which are to be filed by January 11.

Some of Tennessee's customers already have asked the commission to hike their rates—the ones paid by those who use gas for cooking, to heat water and their houses and apartments.

Report Shows Over 1,000 Are Enrolled In 4-H Clubs

The report of the Extension Service workers in Allegany county for the period between November 1, 1950 and November 1, 1951 shows there are more than 1,000 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H clubs.

Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, and Miss Thelma Allin, assistant home demonstration agent for Allegany county, are in charge of the club members and projects. There are 469 boys and 708 girls in the various 4-H clubs. Practically all of the 4-H members are attending school.

Various Activities

A breakdown of the report shows 244 members of 4-H clubs received training in judging, 353 gave demonstrations during the year, 350 took part in music appreciation programs, 131 took training in health programs, 460 were trained in fire prevention, 160 were enrolled in the wildlife conservation program, 14 had projects whereby they kept personal accounts and 450 were enrolled in the soil conservation program.

In the older rural youth programs the report lists 59 men and 73 women. Of this group, 35 are married men and 40 are married women. Most of the group are 21 years old or more.

In the programs which were headed by Miss Maude A. Bean, who retired as home demonstration agent recently, and Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, there were a great many farmers and their families aided in various projects.

Four families were assisted in remodeling dwellings, two with installation of sewage systems, three in installation of heating systems, 81 in providing needed storage space, 239 in rearranging and improving kitchens, 166 in improving other rooms, 427 in repairing or refinishing furniture, 97 in selecting household furniture other than electric appliances, 402 in improving housekeeping methods, 97 with laundry arrangements, 62 in the use of screening and other control methods, 290 in improving home grounds, 177 in improving diets, 661 with food preparation, 822 in improving food supply by making changes in home food production, five with home butchering and meat cutting or curing, 21 with butter or cheese making, 61 with canning, 121 with freezing foods, three with drying food, six with food storage problems, 22 in child-feeding problems, 187 in health problems.

Proposal Made For Electing Magistrates

BALTIMORE—(AP)—The Sobeloff Commission on the stream-lining of Maryland's state government has before it a proposal that trial magistrates throughout the state be elected instead of appointed.

They now are named by the Governor, for four-year terms.

The idea was proposed by Samuel Schenker, young Annapolis attorney who is a substitute trial magistrate for Anne Arundel county.

He made his suggestion to Governor McKeldin and the Governor's office relayed it to the Sobeloff Commission.

Schenker wrote the Governor that election of trial magistrates would tend to take them out of politics. He said:

"The magistrates handle the vast bulk of judicial work in this state; but, outside of Baltimore, the great majority of magistrates are not lawyers.

"Some of the magistrates operate out of their homes, others from garages, and some without clerical help.

"There seems to be very little uniformity, as each county handles magistrate business in a different manner.

"Anytime someone gets a ticket who can put some political pressure on the magistrate it puts the magistrate in a poor position to resist such pressure as a result of the short tenure and the small economic return."

Schenker said he would submit legislation under which magistrates would be elected for 15-year terms like circuit judges.

Fluoridation Planned

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Fluoride will be added today to the water supply of more than 300,000 nearby Maryland residents in an effort to give children better teeth.

BALTIMORE—(AP)—The Sobeloff Commission on the stream-lining of Maryland's state government has before it a proposal that trial magistrates throughout the state be elected instead of appointed.

They now are named by the Governor, for four-year terms.

The idea was proposed by Samuel Schenker, young Annapolis attorney who is a substitute trial magistrate for Anne Arundel county.

He made his suggestion to Governor McKeldin and the Governor's office relayed it to the Sobeloff Commission.

Schenker wrote the Governor that election of trial magistrates would tend to take them out of politics. He said:

"The magistrates handle the vast bulk of judicial work in this state; but, outside of Baltimore, the great majority of magistrates are not lawyers.

"Some of the magistrates operate out of their homes, others from garages, and some without clerical help.

"There seems to be very little uniformity, as each county handles magistrate business in a different manner.

"Anytime someone gets a ticket who can put some political pressure on the magistrate it puts the magistrate in a poor position to resist such pressure as a result of the short tenure and the small economic return."

Schenker said he would submit legislation under which magistrates would be elected for 15-year terms like circuit judges.

Gas Situation Termed Good In Cumberland

The natural gas situation in the Cumberland vicinity was termed good so far this winter, by Carl C. Robbins, manager of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company.

Robbins pointed out that during the past year the local branch of the company has spent $700,000 in improving the system in Cumberland.

He said that most of this was accounted for in the enlargement or replacement of main lines. Other funds were spent in extensions from the mains.

Pumping Station Built

Much of the natural gas consumed here comes from Texas through the "Big and Little Inch" pipelines.

A large pumping station has just been completed by the Texas firm, the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, several miles north of here in Bedford Valley.

An Associated Press dispatch Thursday reported that the Federal Power Company has authorized the Tennessee company to increase its wholesale natural gas rates by about 11½ million dollars a year.

The Houston firm had asked an 18 million dollar increase.

Not Many Wholesale Users

The Tennessee wholesales gas to distributing companies and other customers in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, New York and New England.

Robbins said there are not many industrial users here who obtain the gas wholesale. He added that he did not know whether this power commission authorization would have any effect on the rates locally.

The industrial users are Celanese Corporation, Big Savage Refractories, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Cumberland Glass Company and several other smaller firms, Robbins explained.

The commission in its order said evidence shows Tennessee is "reasonably entitled to the $11,400,000 increase in order to provide revenue to meet its cost of service and realize a six per cent rate of return."

To File Schedule

The increase was recommended by the commission's staff.

The commission's order permits Tennessee to file the new rate schedules on or before January 11, 1952, to be effective as of December 17, 1951.

Tennessee's rate schedules under the proposed $18,000,000 increase were suspended by the commission last July and August.

A hearing will be held January 8, at which Tennessee will submit to its customers and other interested parties the new rates which are to be filed by January 11.

Some of Tennessee's customers already have asked the commission to hike their rates—the ones paid by those who use gas for cooking, to heat water and their houses and apartments.

Report Shows Over 1,000 Are Enrolled In 4-H Clubs

The report of the Extension Service workers in Allegany county for the period between November 1, 1950 and November 1, 1951 shows there are more than 1,000 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H clubs.

Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, and Miss Thelma Allin, assistant home demonstration agent for Allegany county, are in charge of the club members and projects. There are 469 boys and 708 girls in the various 4-H clubs. Practically all of the 4-H members are attending school.

Various Activities

A breakdown of the report shows 244 members of 4-H clubs received training in judging, 353 gave demonstrations during the year, 350 took part in music appreciation programs, 131 took training in health programs, 460 were trained in fire prevention, 160 were enrolled in the wildlife conservation program, 14 had projects whereby they kept personal accounts and 450 were enrolled in the soil conservation program.

In the older rural youth programs the report lists 59 men and 73 women. Of this group, 35 are married men and 40 are married women. Most of the group are 21 years old or more.

In the programs which were headed by Miss Maude A. Bean, who retired as home demonstration agent recently, and Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, there were a great many farmers and their families aided in various projects.

Four families were assisted in remodeling dwellings, two with installation of sewage systems, three in installation of heating systems, 81 in providing needed storage space, 239 in rearranging and improving kitchens, 166 in improving other rooms, 427 in repairing or refinishing furniture, 97 in selecting household furniture other than electric appliances, 402 in improving housekeeping methods, 97 with laundry arrangements, 62 in the use of screening and other control methods, 290 in improving home grounds, 177 in improving diets, 661 with food preparation, 822 in improving food supply by making changes in home food production, five with home butchering and meat cutting or curing, 21 with butter or cheese making, 61 with canning, 121 with freezing foods, three with drying food, six with food storage problems, 22 in child-feeding problems, 187 in health problems.

Explorers Win Extra Period Tilt At Bruce

Rickey Harris' Goal Decides Game; Six Ejected On Fouls

WESTERNPORT, Dec. 27—LaSalle High School's Explorers won a hair-raising overtime contest from Bruce High School here tonight on Rickey Harris' field goal after the teams had battled to a 43-43 draw in regulation time. The final score was 45-44.

At the end of the first period the score was knotted at 11-11 and at intermission Coach Augie Eichhorn's warriors were in front, 24-21. LaSalle grabbed the long end of a 40-30 score in the third quarter but was outscored 13 to 3 in the final stanza.

Bruce scored a foul goal in the extra period.

The home team outscored LaSalle 17 to 15 in field goals but the Cumberlanders held a 15-10 edge in foul goals.

Twenty-eight personal fouls were plastered on Bruce and 22 on LaSalle. Six players were ejected, namely, Nofsinger, Wilson, Ferguson and Berry of Bruce and Shuck and Christ of LaSalle.

Paul Ackerman and Marty Mullaney scored 14 and 11 points to pace the LaSalle scorers. Wilson and Nofsinger lead the losers with 11 and 10 tallies.

Schroeder Leads In Tennis Match

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 (AP) — California's big Ted Schroeder, fighting to keep the U. S. in the Davis Cup play, won the first set from Mervyn Rose at Sydney, Australia, 6-4, an Australian broadcast said tonight.

Schroeder came from behind to win the set. Rose broke Schroeder's service and went into a 3-1 lead. But the Californian, fighting gamely, twice cracked through Rose's service and won the first set of this crucial match.

It was an amazing return to form for Schroeder, who wilted in yesterday's doubles match.

Lindsay Suffers Injury To Hand

Ridgeleyite May Miss Bowl Game

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 27 (AP) — Paul Lindsay, starting end of the Maryland football team, broke a bone in his left hand in practice today and may be lost for the Sugar Bowl game with Tennessee next Tuesday.

Paul Lindsay

The 19 - year - old sophomore from Ridgeley, W. Va., suffered the injury when he fell on his hand during an afternoon practice session. He was sent to a hospital for X-rays.

Doctors said they could not tell immediately whether the injury could be repaired to enable him to play. The bone was a small one at the fork of the thumb and index finger.

Lindsay, an outstanding three-sport high school athlete, had caught nine passes for 244 yards and three touchdowns this season for the unbeaten Terrapins.

Sentinels Win Over Scrappy Alumni Quint

McGregor Scores 14 Points, Hilltoppers Notch 3rd Victory

Fort Hill High School's basketeers defeated the Alumni last night on the local school court but they had their hands full in disposing of a scrappy aggregation of grads by the score of 42 to 39.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's floormen led at the quarter, 13-5, and also at halftime, 20-16, but the grads deadlocked the count at 30-30 at the end of the third period. The Alumni forged to the front in the final heat but was unable to hold the lead.

The victory was Fort Hill's third against two setbacks.

Twenty-three players participated—13 for the Alumni and 10 for the school team.

High point honors went to George McGregor who collected 14 markers for the winners. Poling was the runner-up with nine. Schley Lyons with six points and Hardinger, Null and Bratt had five each.

Two players were ejected via the personal fouls route, Shore making his exit in the third period and Hardinger going out in the final stanza.

Terps Can't Make Mistakes And Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW ORLENAS, Dec. 27 (AP)—A former Tennessee football captain, now an assistant coach in the enemy camp, said today Maryland must find an answer to the Volunteers' depth and slashing offense if it is to win in the Sugar Bowl.

"Some times I feel pretty confident about the game," said Denver Crawford, a tackle in the Tennessee class of '48. "Then I remember we're playing the General (Coach Bob Neyland) and I get goose-pimples."

The young Kingsport, Tenn., product, who scouted his alma mater in the Kentucky and Vanderbilt games, said he is sure the Terrapins can match the Vols in size and speed.

"We are bigger, perhaps," he added, "but Tennessee's offensive line is better and they have more depth. It is certainly one of Neyland's greatest teams."

Can't Make Mistakes

Crawford said he figured Maryland would have a more diversified attack but playing from the intricate Split-T formation, would be more inclined to make mistakes.

"You can't make mistakes against Tennessee and expect to win," he added.

Tennessee, the nation's top-ranking eleven, and Maryland, No. 3, whipped through double-deck practice sessions at widely separated camps in a rush to reach peak form for next Tuesday's battle of unbeaten giants.

The Volunteers set up preliminary house-keeping at Baton Rouge, La., home of Louisiana State University 80 miles from here. Maryland went through its paces at Biloxi, Miss., a resort town 90 miles away under young Coach Jim Tatum.

Thus the principals in perhaps the top bowl game of the last two decades are shielded from the bustle and excitement that's already beginning to grip this historic port city.

Hotels Are Packed

Hotels are packed. Tickets to the 82,000-capacity stadium are at a premium. Canal Street and the famous French quarter teem with the invading holiday throng.

A chill wind and 40-to-60 degree temperatures blew into the area today on the tail of a rainstorm and provided almost perfect weather for the muscle-flexing activities of the antagonists.

It was welcomed since bad conditions and the Christmas holidays had interrupted training schedules. Maryland's drill today, for instance, was the first solid contact work since Nov. 24.

Violets Run Wild

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP) — New York University's unbeaten basketball team rolled up the highest point total in Madison Square Garden's 18-year-old cage history tonight, crushing Arizona 103-76, in the second game of a college doubleheader.

A crowd of 14,194 watched the Violets breeze to their 12th straight triumph.

Keyser-Allegany, LaSalle-Paw Paw To Meet Tonight

Allegany High School's basketball team will play host to Keyser High School tonight at 8 o'clock on the Campobello court.

Bill Hahn and Joe Stanislawczyk will officiate.

It will be the third game for the Campers who are now playing .500 ball. Keyser edged Elk Garden, 37-35, in its only start.

Keyser and Allegany Reserves will play in the preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

LaSalle plays Paw Paw High School tonight on the West Virginians' court at 8 o'clock.

Romney, Central High of Lonaconing and Davis (W. Va.) High play hosts to Alumni quints tonight.

Stadium Inn Boosts Lead

Frostburg Shufflers Beat Local VFW, 3-0

Stadium Inn, Frostburg, took a lead of 2½ games over the idle Cumberland Knights of Columbus in the Men's County Shuffleboard League race last night by winning three games from the Cumberland VFW.

The sweep gave Stadium Inn a 30-6 record. The Knights trail with 26-7. The K. of C.-W.O.W. match set for last night was postponed.

Bill Day led Stadium Inn with 31 points. "Sonny" Bujac headed the Vets with 17.

Other results were:

Fisher and Robinette 2, Frostburg Legion 1; Purple Heart 3, Mt. Savage VFW 0; Amvets 3, Viaduct Inn 0; Century Club, Frostburg 3, Goodfellowship Club 0. The Frostburg K. of C.-Alhambra Club match was postponed.

High scorers: Smith, Fisher & Robinette 21; Atkinson, Frostburg Legion, 21; Burkey, Purple Heart, 25; Murray, Mt. Savage, 20; Beaulieu and Clay Ingram, Amvets, tied at 23; Strosnider, Viaduct, 15; H. Robeson, Century, 27; J. Lewis, Goodfellowship 25.

Schroeder Leads In Tennis Match

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 (AP) — California's big Ted Schroeder, fighting to keep the U. S. in the Davis Cup play, won the first set from Mervyn Rose at Sydney, Australia, 6-4, an Australian broadcast said tonight.

Schroeder came from behind to win the set. Rose broke Schroeder's service and went into a 3-1 lead. But the Californian, fighting gamely, twice cracked through Rose's service and won the first set of this crucial match.

It was an amazing return to form for Schroeder, who wilted in yesterday's doubles match.

Lindsay Suffers Injury To Hand

Ridgeleyite May Miss Bowl Game

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 27 (AP) — Paul Lindsay, starting end of the Maryland football team, broke a bone in his left hand in practice today and may be lost for the Sugar Bowl game with Tennessee next Tuesday.

Paul Lindsay

The 19 - year - old sophomore from Ridgeley, W. Va., suffered the injury when he fell on his hand during an afternoon practice session. He was sent to a hospital for X-rays.

Doctors said they could not tell immediately whether the injury could be repaired to enable him to play. The bone was a small one at the fork of the thumb and index finger.

Lindsay, an outstanding three-sport high school athlete, had caught nine passes for 244 yards and three touchdowns this season for the unbeaten Terrapins.

Sentinels Win Over Scrappy Alumni Quint

McGregor Scores 14 Points, Hilltoppers Notch 3rd Victory

Fort Hill High School's basketeers defeated the Alumni last night on the local school court but they had their hands full in disposing of a scrappy aggregation of grads by the score of 42 to 39.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's floormen led at the quarter, 13-5, and also at halftime, 20-16, but the grads deadlocked the count at 30-30 at the end of the third period. The Alumni forged to the front in the final heat but was unable to hold the lead.

The victory was Fort Hill's third against two setbacks.

Twenty-three players participated —13 for the Alumni and 10 for the school team.

High point honors went to George McGregor who collected 14 markers for the winners. Poling was the runner-up with nine. Schley Lyons with six points and Hardinger, Null and Bratt had five each.

Two players were ejected via the personal fouls route, Shore making his exit in the third period and Hardinger going out in the final stanza.

Schroeder Leads In Tennis Match

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 (AP) — California's big Ted Schroeder, fighting to keep the U. S. in the Davis Cup play, won the first set from Mervyn Rose at Sydney, Australia, 6-4, an Australian broadcast said tonight.

Schroeder came from behind to win the set. Rose broke Schroeder's service and went into a 3-1 lead. But the Californian, fighting gamely, twice cracked through Rose's service and won the first set of this crucial match.

It was an amazing return to form for Schroeder, who wilted in yesterday's doubles match.

Lindsay Suffers Injury To Hand

Ridgeleyite May Miss Bowl Game

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 27 (AP) — Paul Lindsay, starting end of the Maryland football team, broke a bone in his left hand in practice today and may be lost for the Sugar Bowl game with Tennessee next Tuesday.

Paul Lindsay

The 19-year-old sophomore from Ridgeley, W. Va., suffered the injury when he fell on his hand during an afternoon practice session. He was sent to a hospital for X-rays.

Doctors said they could not tell immediately whether the injury could be repaired to enable him to play. The bone was a small one at the fork of the thumb and index finger.

Lindsay, an outstanding three-sport high school athlete, had caught nine passes for 244 yards and three touchdowns this season for the unbeaten Terrapins.

Sentinels Win Over Scrappy Alumni Quint

McGregor Scores 14 Points, Hilltoppers Notch 3rd Victory

Fort Hill High School's basketeers defeated the Alumni last night on the local school court but they had their hands full in disposing of a scrappy aggregation of grads by the score of 42 to 39.

Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's floormen led at the quarter, 13-5, and also at halftime, 20-16, but the grads deadlocked the count at 30-30 at the end of the third period. The Alumni forged to the front in the final heat but was unable to hold the lead.

The victory was Fort Hill's third against two setbacks.

Twenty-three players participated—13 for the Alumni and 10 for the school team.

High point honors went to George McGregor who collected 14 markers for the winners. Poling was the runner-up with nine. Schley Lyons with six points and Hardinger, Null and Bratt had five each.

Two players were ejected via the personal fouls route, Shore making his exit in the third period and Hardinger going out in the final stanza.

Fort Hill's next engagement is Martinsburg (W. Va.) High School here January 4. The lineups:

Moorefield High Drops 56-53 Tilt

Alumni Five Takes Overtime Thriller

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Dec. 27—Moorefield High School went down to defeat at the hands of the Alumni quint in an overtime thriller tonight by the score of 56 to 53.

Harlan Hott's free throw tied it up at 52-all at the end of the regulation game and in the extra period Wallace Sherman and George Fisher tossed in fielders while Pat Kern was making a foul goal for the schoolboy team.

The grads led at the quarter, 14-9, trailed at the halfway mark, 25-20, and regained the lead in the third period, 42-37.

Sherman set the scoring pace for the Alumni with 14 tallies, Bob Keller had 12, Clyde Ours 11 and George Fisher 10. Pat Kern headed the losers with 16 points, Merle Barr collected 12 and Harlan Hott 11.

The schoolboy aggregation was outscored 25 to 19 in field goals but held a 15-6 advantage in points scored at the charity line.

Moorefield High's Reserves whipped the Alumni Reserves in the preliminary game, 32 to 17.

Marylanders Must Find An Answer To Vols' Depth, Slashing Offense

Terps Can't Make Mistakes And Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW ORLENAS, Dec. 27 (AP)—A former Tennessee football captain, now an assistant coach in the enemy camp, said today Maryland must find an answer to the Volunteers' depth and slashing offense if it is to win in the Sugar Bowl.

"Some times I feel pretty confident about the game," said Denver Crawford, a tackle in the Tennessee class of '48. "Then I remember we're playing the General (Coach Bob Neyland) and I get goose-pimples."

The young Kingsport, Tenn., product, who scouted his alma mater in the Kentucky and Vanderbilt games, said he is sure the Terrapins can match the Vols in size and speed.

"We are bigger, perhaps," he added, "but Tennessee's offensive line is better and they have more depth. It is certainly one of Neyland's greatest teams."

Can't Make Mistakes

Crawford said he figured Maryland would have a more diversified attack but playing from the intricate Split-T formation, would be more inclined to make mistakes.

"You can't make mistakes against Tennessee and expect to win," he added.

Tennessee, the nation's top-ranking eleven, and Maryland, No. 3, whipped through double-deck practice sessions at widely separated camps in a rush to reach peak form for next Tuesday's battle of unbeaten giants.

The Volunteers set up preliminary house-keeping at Baton Rouge, La., home of Louisiana State University 80 miles from here. Maryland went through its paces at Biloxi, Miss., a resort town 90 miles away under young Coach Jim Tatum.

Thus the principals in perhaps the top bowl game of the last two decades are shielded from the bustle and excitement that's already beginning to grip this historic port city.

Hotels Are Packed

Hotels are packed. Tickets to the 82,000-capacity stadium are at a premium. Canal Street and the famous French quarter teem with the invading holiday throng.

A chill wind and 40-to-60 degree temperatures blew into the area today on the tail of a rainstorm and provided almost perfect weather for the muscle-flexing activities of the antagonists.

It was welcomed since bad conditions and the Christmas holidays had interrupted training schedules. Maryland's drill today, for instance, was the first solid contact work since Nov. 24.

Violets Run Wild

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP) — New York University's unbeaten basketball team rolled up the highest point total in Madison Square Garden's 18-year-old cage history tonight, crushing Arizona 103-76, in the second game of a college doubleheader.

A crowd of 14,194 watched the Violets breeze to their 12th straight triumph.

Keyser-Allegany, LaSalle-Paw Paw To Meet Tonight

Allegany High School's basketball team will play host to Keyser High School tonight at 8 o'clock on the Campobello court.

Bill Hahn and Joe Stanislawczyk will officiate.

It will be the third game for the Campers who are now playing .500 ball. Keyser edged Elk Garden, 37-35, in its only start.

Keyser and Allegany Reserves will play in the preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

LaSalle plays Paw Paw High School tonight on the West Virginians' court at 8 o'clock.

Romney, Central High of Lonaconing and Davis (W. Va.) High play hosts to Alumni quints tonight.

Stadium Inn Boosts Lead

Frostburg Shufflers Beat Local VFW, 3-0

Stadium Inn, Frostburg, took a lead of 2½ games over the idle Cumberland Knights of Columbus in the Men's County Shuffleboard League race last night by winning three games from the Cumberland VFW.

The sweep gave Stadium Inn a 30-6 record. The Knights trail with 26-7. The K. of C.-W.O.W. match set for last night was postponed.

Bill Day led Stadium Inn with 31 points. "Sonny" Bujac headed the Vets with 17.

Other results were:

Fisher and Robinette 2, Frostburg Legion 1; Purple Heart 3, Mt. Savage VFW 0; Amvets 3, Viaduct Inn 0; Century Club, Frostburg 3, Goodfellowship Club 0. The Frostburg K. of C.-Alhambra Club match was postponed.

Sugar Bowl Quints Meet

Kentucky Singing St. Louis Blues

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27 (AP) — The Sugar Bowl basketball tournament bounces into action tomorrow night with Adolph Rupp and his No. 1 ranking Kentucky Wildcats singing the St. Louis Blues.

It's like this:

St. Louis meets unbeaten Villanova in the first game and Kentucky takes on Brigham Young in the second affair — and from all indications Kentucky and St. Louis should windup in Saturday night's finals.

But Rupp, whose Kentuckians have won basketball honors with monotonous brilliance in recent years, has never been able to defeat canny Eddie Hickey and his St. Louis Billikens.

In fact, Kentucky has suffered two of its most humiliating defeats at the hands of Hickey teams right here in the Sugar Bowl tourney.

And by now, many feel that Rupp must regard the Billiken nemesis as a full-grown jinx.

The fans who will jam the 8,000 seats in the Municipal Auditorium are hoping for another rematch between the two rivals.

But Villanova, a good basketball team in its own right, and Brigham Young, in the midst of a rebuilding program, will be doing everything possible to prevent this rematch.

It's hard telling how good Villanova is. The Wildcats haven't been beaten in six games this winter. They are led by six-foot-three-inch Larry Hennessey, who scored 703 points as a sophomore last year.

Brigham Young lost two great performers—Mel Hutchins and Roland Mikson—from their National Invitational championship five. But Utah team has won five and lost three in competition this winter paced by a high scoring young forward, Stan Richey.

St. Louis hasn't been sensational in winning five and losing two, but Hickey has a veteran five back and he has a way of grooming his team for great games in the Sugar Tourney.

Matthews' Manager Turns Down Offer For Maxim Match

SEATTLE, Dec. 27 (AP) — Harry (Kid) Matthews' manager announced tonight his rejection of the International Boxing Club offer for a ligth-heavyweight title fight with Joey Maxim.

Manager Jack Hurley said he sent this wire to Matchmaker Al Weill in New York:

"Date, terms and other dictates connected with Maxim offer rejected. Matthews will continue his independent campaign, your ultimatum notwithstanding."

Weill's "ultimatum" had been for Hurley to sign for the match by the end of this week or lose the chance.

Hurley refused to elaborate on his reply to Weill.

Monte Irvin Signs At Salary Increase

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Monte Irvin, the top run producer for the pennant-winning New York Giants, today signed his 1952 contract for an estimated $25,000 salary. The pay raise of almost 100 per cent is subject to approval by the wage stabilization board.

President Horace Stoneman of the Giants said Irvin received a "substantial" increase, giving the negro outfielder the highest salary of his career.

Irvin led the league by driving in 121 runs and was a powerful force during the closing pennant drive. He hit .312, tops among the Giants and stole home five times, not including the theft during the first game of the world series.

Turpin To Fight

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP) — Former world middleweight champion Randy Turpin will meet Alex Buxton of England, Feb. 12, in his first fight since losing the world crown to Sugar Ray Robinson.

The bout against Buxton, a 26-year-old negro who has lost eight fights in six years, will be staged at London's Harringay Arena.

Grid Coach Quits

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 27 (AP)—Bob Winslow, former grid star and assistant coach at the University of Southern California, today resigned as head football coach at the University of Arizona.

He had been under fire since Arizona was beaten 61-14 by Arizona State College at Tempe, its bitterest rival, earlier this season.

Soviets Will Vie In 1952 Olympics

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (INS)—Lyman Bingham, executive director of the U. S. Olympic Association, declared today that the Soviet Union is expected to enter an exceptionally strong team in the Olympic Games next summer at Helsinki, Finland.

Bingham recalled that the Soviets have claimed 64 world records but he doubted whether all or even most of these have been recognized as world marks by the International Amateur Athletic Federations which govern 21 separate sports.

Bingham recalled that the Russians created something of a sports sensation by winning the European basketball championship. He said that the Soviets are expected to be particularly strong in weight-lifting, track and swimming in the Helsinki games.

Russians have not competed in the Olympic Games since 1912.

University Of Detroit Freshman Gridder Dies

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP) — Jerry O'Connell, 19, freshman football player at the University of Detroit, died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage following a siege of leukemia.

O'Connell, who was captain of the Leo High School football team here in the 1950 season, became ill at Detroit about two weeks before Christmas. He returned home, and his illness was diagnosed as leukemia. He went to a hospital, but come home for Christmas Day. He suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Christmas night, and died yesterday.

KentuckyFive Averages 85 Points Game

Syracuse And Duke Are In 2nd Place

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Kentucky's speedy Wildcats, rated No. 1 college basketball team in the nation, are showing why with a blistering offensive rampage.

The boys from the blue grass have taken over first place in team scoring among the major quintets with an average of 85.8 points per game in their first five games. The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau statistics, released today, include games through last Saturday.

Kentucky's two-points a minute gang was fourth last week while Princeton was first. Princeton was held to a total of 107 points in losing two games last week and dropped clear out of the first 30.

Syracuse and Duke are right behind Kentucky, each boasting an average of 84.6 points per game. Cincinnati is fourth with 80.2 and Western Kentucky is fifth with 79.1.

Houston, last week's pace-setter on defense, ran into trouble and fell out of the leading list. Penn State moved into first in that department with a defensive average of 44.3 points scored against per game. Oklahoma A & M's defensive-minded club was second with 44.7 followed by Maryland, 45.7 and Missouri and Texas A & M with 46.3 each. Navy's young team stands ninth in defense with 47.4.

Kentucky, which has held the opposition to 55.8 points per game, has the top offensive-over-defense margin, a spread of 30 points per game.

Holmes Spikes Talk Of Torgeson Trade

BOSTON, Dec. 27 (INS)—Manager Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves said today he is through as an active ballplayer and spiked rumors that first baseman Earl Torgeson would be traded.

Holmes said:

"I'm through as an active ballplayer. I figure the time I spent getting in trim to play will be better spent tutoring the rookies."

It was expected that when Holmes made the visit to Braves Field from his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., the Braves had completed a deal.

Rumors had Torgeson going to the New York Giants in a trade that would bring an outfielder, pitcher and catcher to the Tribe.

Packers Return Bobby Thomason

Rams Are Told Terms Of Deal "Too Tough"

GREEN BAY, Wis., Dec. 27 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers have decided they can't afford one of the National Football League's better passers.

The Packers, who have won six games in two years, are returning Bobby Thomason to the Los Angeles Rams.

Word of the decision leaked out today but Head Coach Gene Ronzani could not be located for comment. He was reported headed south to look for football talent in collegiate bowl games.

Thomason, who topped the league during the past season with a 56.6 percentage mark, was on loan from the Rams. The Packers could keep him, under the agreement, by giving up its first two draft choices at the league meeting early next year or some other arrangement acceptable to the Rams.

At Los Angeles, Coach Joe Stydahar of the new league champions disclosed that Ronzani had written him a letter which said, in part, that "the terms of the deal are too tough on us."

"We recognize Thomason's ability but we need those first two draft choices even more," Stydahar said Ronzani had written.

KentuckyFive Averages 85 Points Game

Syracuse And Duke Are In 2nd Place

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Kentucky's speedy Wildcats, rated No. 1 college basketball team in the nation, are showing why with a blistering offensive rampage.

The boys from the blue grass have taken over first place in team scoring among the major quintets with an average of 85.8 points per game in their first five games. The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau statistics, released today, include games through last Saturday.

Kentucky's two-points a minute gang was fourth last week while Princeton was first. Princeton was held to a total of 107 points in losing two games last week and dropped clear out of the first 30.

Syracuse and Duke are right behind Kentucky, each boasting an average of 84.6 points per game. Cincinnati is fourth with 80.2 and Western Kentucky is fifth with 79.1.

Houston, last week's pace-setter on defense, ran into trouble and fell out of the leading list. Penn State moved into first in that department with a defensive average of 44.3 points scored against per game. Oklahoma A & M's defensive-minded club was second with 44.7 followed by Maryland, 45.7 and Missouri and Texas A & M with 46.3 each. Navy's young team stands ninth in defense with 47.4.

Kentucky, which has held the opposition to 55.8 points per game, has the top offensive-over-defense margin, a spread of 30 points per game.

Holmes Spikes Talk Of Torgeson Trade

BOSTON, Dec. 27 (INS)—Manager Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves said today he is through as an active ballplayer and spiked rumors that first baseman Earl Torgeson would be traded.

Holmes said:

"I'm through as an active ballplayer. I figure the time I spent getting in trim to play will be better spent tutoring the rookies."

It was expected that when Holmes made the visit to Braves Field from his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., the Braves had completed a deal.

Rumors had Torgeson going to the New York Giants in a trade that would bring an outfielder, pitcher and catcher to the Tribe.

Packers Return Bobby Thomason

Rams Are Told Terms Of Deal "Too Tough"

GREEN BAY, Wis., Dec. 27 (AP)—The Green Bay Packers have decided they can't afford one of the National Football League's better passers.

The Packers, who have won six games in two years, are returning Bobby Thomason to the Los Angeles Rams.

Word of the decision leaked out today but Head Coach Gene Ronzani could not be located for comment. He was reported headed south to look for football talent in collegiate bowl games.

Thomason, who topped the league during the past season with a 56.5 percentage mark, was on loan from the Rams. The Packers could keep him, under the agreement, by giving up its first two draft choices at the league meeting early next year or some other arrangement acceptable to the Rams.

At Los Angeles, Coach Joe Stydahar of the new league champions disclosed that Ronzani had written him a letter which said, in part, that "the terms of the deal are too tough on us."

"We recognize Thomason's ability but we need those first two draft choices even more," Stydahar said Ronzani had written.

Sugar Bowl Quints Meet

Kentucky Singing St. Louis Blues

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27 (AP) — The Sugar Bowl basketball tournament bounces into action tomorrow night with Adolph Rupp and his No. 1 ranking Kentucky Wildcats singing the St. Louis Blues.

It's like this:

St. Louis meets unbeaten Villanova in the first game and Kentucky takes on Brigham Young in the second affair — and from all indications Kentucky and St. Louis should windup in Saturday night's finals.

But Rupp, whose Kentuckians have won basketball honors with monotonous brilliance in recent years, has never been able to defeat canny Eddie Hickey and his St. Louis Billikens.

In fact, Kentucky has suffered two of its most humiliating defeats at the hands of Hickey teams right here in the Sugar Bowl tourney.

And by now, many feel that Rupp must regard the Billiken nemesis as a full-grown jinx.

The fans who will jam the 8,000 seats in the Municipal Auditorium are hoping for another rematch between the two rivals.

But Villanova, a good basketball team in its own right, and Brigham Young, in the midst of a rebuilding program, will be doing everything possible to prevent this rematch.

It's hard telling how good Villanova is. The Wildcats haven't been beaten in six games this winter. They are led by six-foot-three-inch Larry Hennessey, who scored 703 points as a sophomore last year.

Brigham Young lost two great performers—Mel Hutchins and Roland Minson—from their National Invitational championship five. But Utah team has won five and lost three in competition this winter paced by a high scoring young forward, Stan Richey.

St. Louis hasn't been sensational in winning five and losing two, but Hickey has a veteran five back and he has a way of grooming his team for great games in the Sugar Tourney.

Matthews' Manager Turns Down Offer For Maxim Match

SEATTLE, Dec. 27 (AP) — Harry (Kid) Matthews' manager announced tonight his rejection of the International Boxing Club offer for a ligth-heavyweight title fight with Joey Maxim.

Manager Jack Hurley said he sent this wire to Matchmaker Al Weill in New York:

"Date, terms and other dictates connected with Maxim offer rejected. Matthews will continue his independent campaign, your ultimatum notwithstanding."

Weill's "ultimatum" had been for Hurley to sign for the match by the end of this week or lose the chance.

Hurley refused to elaborate on his reply to Weill.

Monte Irvin Signs At Salary Increase

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Monte Irvin, the top run producer for the pennant-winning New York Giants, today signed his 1952 contract for an estimated $25,000 salary. The pay raise of almost 100 per cent is subject to approval by the wage stabilization board.

President Horace Stoneman of the Giants said Irvin received a "substantial" increase, giving the negro outfielder the highest salary of his career.

Irvin led the league by driving in 121 runs and was a powerful force during the closing pennant drive. He hit .312, tops among the Giants and stole home five times, not including the theft during the first game of the world series.

Turpin To Fight

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP) — Former world middleweight champion Randy Turpin will meet Alex Buxton of England, Feb. 12, in his first fight since losing the world crown to Sugar Ray Robinson.

The bout against Buxton, a 26-year-old negro who has lost eight fights in six years, will be staged at London's Harringay Arena.

Grid Coach Quits

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 27 (AP)—Bob Winslow, former grid star and assistant coach at the University of Southern California, today resigned as head football coach at the University of Arizona.

He had been under fire since Arizona was beaten 61-14 by Arizona State College at Tempe, its bitterest rival, earlier this season.

Soviets Will Vie In 1952 Olympics

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (INS)—Lyman Bingham, executive director of the U. S. Olympic Association, declared today that the Soviet Union is expected to enter an exceptionally strong team in the Olympic Games next summer at Helsinki, Finland.

Bingham recalled that the Soviets have claimed 64 world records but he doubted whether all or even most of these have been recognized as world marks by the International Amateur Athletic Federations which govern 21 separate sports.

Bingham recalled that the Russians created something of a sports sensation by winning the European basketball championship. He said that the Soviets are expected to be particularly strong in weight-lifting, track and swimming in the Helsinki games.

Russians have not competed in the Olympic Games since 1912.

University Of Detroit Freshman Gridder Dies

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP) — Jerry O'Connell, 19, freshman football player at the University of Detroit, died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage following a siege of leukemia.

O'Connell, who was captain of the Leo High School football team here in the 1950 season, became ill at Detroit about two weeks before Christmas. He returned home, and his illness was diagnosed as leukemia. He went to a hospital, but come home for Christmas Day. He suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Christmas night, and died yesterday.

Address Given For Mail To War Prisoners

Parents, wives and friends of prisoners of war held by the Communists as a result of the Korean war may write to the men, a United Nations spokesman said yesterday.

Letters to those held in the North Korean camps should be addressed to: APO 100, c|o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

Col. C. C. B. Warden, adjutant general of the Far East Command, said letters sent to this address "will be held until permission is given to effect the delivery." That must come from the Communists.

When the Reds give an OK, presumably mail to allied prisoners will be handled in the same fashion as mail from them—passed from one side to the other over the truce negotiation table at Panmunjom, Korea.

The Reds delivered 803 letters Wednesday. They arrived in Tokyo yesterday and were turned over to U. S. Army postal authorities.

More letters are on the way from the prison camps in North Korea, a Communist newsman said at Panmunjom.

Wilfred Burchett, Communist correspondent for the Paris ce Soir, said Wednesday's letters were all from one camp. He said other bundles were on their way from other prison camps.

He said they probably would reach Panmunjom in a few days. Burchett said the Allies could expect bundles every few days until the first crush is cleared.

American and other United Nations prisoners, as distinguished from South Koreans, are held in six prison camps in North Korea.

Names of 15 district servicemen, including three Cumberlanders, were included in POW lists released last week by the Reds. All had been reported missing in action.

Twenty-six other area veterans are still missing.

The Department of Defense repeatedly has stressed that there is no guarantee as to the accuracy of the list since it was prepared by the Communists. "Cautious skepticism" was emphasized.

Course Requested On Constitution

BALTIMORE—(AP)—An official of the Catholic War Veterans recommends that Maryland school children be required to study a course on the U. S. Constitution.

Thomas F. Nooft, commander of Post No. 716, made the request Wednesday in a letter to Gov. McKeldin.

"It is almost inconceivable," he wrote, "that the Constitution—the Magna Charta of the liberty we cherish so profoundly—may according to the caprice of a teacher or a board, be totally disregarded in our school system."

Nooft asked that the governor use his influence to get a law passed requiring such a course.

No Order For Mine Holiday

Officials of District 16, United Mine Workers of America, said here yesterday they have received no information concerning a memorial shutdown in tribute to victims of the West Frankford, Ill., mine tragedy.

William J. Morgan, secretary of the district, said the office here has received many telephone calls from UMW members and coal producers concerning the holiday.

Reports that there might be a widespread shutdown in tribute to the 119 victims of the Illinois tragedy arose as 460 miners at an operation near Terre Haute, Ind., stayed home yesterday.

All mines are working in the district, officials stated.

Word of a holiday would have been received from national UMW headquarters by now, it was pointed out by President Cecil J. Urbaniak of District 31 at Fairmont, W. Va.

Local officials said all they know about a holiday is the "no comment" answer made by John L. Lewis, national president, at the scene of the Illinois mishap.

Address Given For Mail To War Prisoners

Parents, wives and friends of prisoners of war held by the Communists as a result of the Korean war may write to the men, a United Nations spokesman said yesterday.

Letters to those held in the North Korean camps should be addressed to: APO 100, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

Col. C. C. B. Warden, adjutant general of the Far East Command, said letters sent to this address "will be held until permission is given to effect the delivery." That must come from the Communists.

When the Reds give an OK, presumably mail to allied prisoners will be handled in the same fashion as mail from them—passed from one side to the other over the truce negotiation table at Panmunjom, Korea.

The Reds delivered 803 letters Wednesday. They arrived in Tokyo yesterday and were turned over to U. S. Army postal authorities.

More letters are on the way from the prison camps in North Korea, a Communist newsman said at Panmunjom.

Wilfred Burchett, Communist correspondent for the Paris ce Soir, said Wednesday's letters were all from one camp. He said other bundles were on their way from other prison camps.

He said they probably would reach Panmunjom in a few days. Burchett said the Allies could expect bundles every few days until the first crush is cleared.

American and other United Nations prisoners, as distinguished from South Koreans, are held in six prison camps in North Korea.

Names of 15 district servicemen, including three Cumberlanders, were included in POW lists released last week by the Reds. All had been reported missing in action.

Twenty-six other area veterans are still missing.

The Department of Defense repeatedly has stressed that there is no guarantee as to the accuracy of the list since it was prepared by the Communists. "Cautious skepticism" was emphasized.

Aurora Given Airman Praise

The community of Aurora, Preston county, has been commended by the Air Rescue Service of the Air Force for help given Air Force personnel in their recent search for a victim of a bomber crash.

The bomber, a B-26, crashed near Eglon on Nov. 16, killing three officers who were enroute from Pittsburgh to Langley Field, Va. Two were found in the wreckage, but the third was not discovered until Nov. 23.

Maj. Richard L. Wright, commander of Flight A, Fifth Air Rescue Squadron, Westover Air Force Base, Mass., said:

"When Capt. Wozniak, rescue mission commander in the recent search for the crew of a B-26 bomber, returned to this flight he stated, 'I have never seen hospitality as we found down there'.

"'Down there' refers to Aurora, West Virginia, where over 500 persons disrupted their own activities to assist us in the search. The weather was cold and the terrain difficult and hazardous, but this did not deter the citizens of Aurora from cooperating.

"The Red Cross, the high school, the Boy Scouts of America, the Farm Women's Club, as well as many other civic organizations and private volunteers showed a spirit and capacity to assist that was really heartening. To them all and to you, for your consistent clear coverage, go the sincere thanks of all of us who were associated with the mission."

The German zeppelin Hindenburg was destroyed by fire with a loss of 36 lives at Lakehurst, N. J., in 1937.

Aurora Given Airman Praise

The community of Aurora, Preston county, has been commended by the Air Rescue Service of the Air Force for help given Air Force personnel in their recent search for a victim of a bomber crash.

The bomber, a B-26, crashed near Eglon on Nov. 16, killing three officers who were enroute from Pittsburgh to Langley Field, Va. Two were found in the wreckage, but the third was not discovered until Nov. 23.

Maj. Richard L. Wright, commander of Flight A, Fifth Air Rescue Squadron, Westover Air Force Base, Mass., said:

"When Capt. Wozniak, rescue mission commander in the recent search for the crew of a B-26 bomber, returned to this flight he stated, 'I have never seen hospitality as we found down there'.

"'Down there' refers to Aurora, West Virginia, where over 500 persons disrupted their own activities to assist us in the search. The weather was cold and the terrain difficult and hazardous, but this did not deter the citizens of Aurora from cooperating.

"The Red Cross, the high school, the Boy Scouts of America, the Farm Women's Club, as well as many other civic organizations and private volunteers showed a spirit and capacity to assist that was really heartening. To them all and to you, for your consistent clear coverage, go the sincere thanks of all of us who were associated with the mission."

The German zeppelin Hindenburg was destroyed by fire with a loss of 36 lives at Lakehurst, N. J., in 1937.

Aurora Given Airman Praise

The community of Aurora, Preston county, has been commended by the Air Rescue Service of the Air Force for help given Air Force personnel in their recent search for a victim of a bomber crash.

The bomber, a B-26, crashed near Eglon on Nov. 16, killing three officers who were enroute from Pittsburgh to Langley Field, Va. Two were found in the wreckage, but the third was not discovered until Nov. 23

Maj. Richard L. Wright, commander of Flight A, Fifth Air Rescue Squadron, Westover Air Force Base, Mass., said:

"When Capt. Wozniak, rescue mission commander in the recent search for the crew of a B-26 bomber, returned to this flight he stated, 'I have never seen hospitality as we found down there'.

"'Down there' refers to Aurora, West Virginia, where over 500 persons disrupted their own activities to assist us in the search. The weather was cold and the terrain difficult and hazardous, but this did not deter the citizens of Aurora from cooperating.

"The Red Cross, the high school, the Boy Scouts of America, the Farm Women's Club, as well as many other civic organizations and private volunteers showed a spirit and capacity to assist that was really heartening. To them all and to you, for your consistent clear coverage, go the sincere thanks of all of us who were associated with the mission."

The German zeppelin Hindenburg was destroyed by fire with a loss of 36 lives at Lakehurst, N. J., in 1937.

Everett Youth Dies From Fall

EVERETT, Pa.—A youth here collapsed and died at his home after celebrating Christmas with other members of the family.

Bedford County Coroner Vernon G. Geisel, said 18-year-old Robert Eiler, Jr., suffered a fractured neck when his head hit a desk.

Geisel said the youth may have fainted or suffered a slight heart attack before falling. The coroner was told the youth was sitting on the second step of a flight of stairs as he talked with his father. When the boy tried to arise, he fell and rolled under the desk.

A physician was called but Eiler died within 15 minutes. He was a 1951 graduate of Everett Southern Joint High School. The accident occurred while members of the family were preparing to attend Christmas church services.

Long ago, the angels appeared, praising God and saying: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased!" The fateful year of 1951, half-peace, half-war, is fast drawing to a close. Let us all pray that the new year will bring forth this peace among men as the angels proclaimed. In this holiday season, instead of our regular column, we, in conjunction with the following of your local businessmen, want to wish you shoppers, one and all, "Happy Holidays and a prosperous New Year!"

Long ago, the angels appeared, praising God and saying: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased!" The fateful year of 1951, half-peace, half-war, is fast drawing to a close. Let us all pray that the new year will bring forth this peace among men as the angels proclaimed. In this holiday season, instead of our regular column, we, in conjunction with the following of your local businessmen, want to wish you shoppers, one and all, "Happy Holidays and a prosperous New Year!"

Long ago, the angels appeared, praising God and saying: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased!" The fateful year of 1951, half-peace, half-war, is fast drawing to a close. Let us all pray that the new year will bring forth this peace among men as the angels proclaimed. In this holiday season, instead of our regular column, we, in conjunction with the following of your local businessmen, want to wish you shoppers, one and all, "Happy Holidays and a prosperous New Year!"

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27 (INS)—One of the greatest adventure stories ever written is Jules Verne's "20,000 Leagues Under The Sea," which was published in 1869 and is still being widely read. Years ago it was made by the Williamson Brothers with some stunning undersea effects.

WALT DISNEY

Now Walt Disney, who paid close to $100,000 to Sid Rogell for the film rights, plans to make it very soon. Sid, who owned the rights for a long time, was to have filmed it in England, but he has decided to devote all his time to TV.

All camera work will be done at the Disney Studio with human performers. The life under the sea, mingled with the human melodrama of Captain Nemo and his captives on the Nautilus, will make one of the most colorful adventure stories ever put on the screen.

News of Paul Muni has been increasingly scarce in the last few years. What he is doing, where he is, someway has eluded our columns.

Now I'm told that Paul, in Europe, has been in conference with Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini. They plan to produce a picture based on the life of Eleanore Duse, with Muni in the role of the poet Gabriel D'Annunzio.

D'Annunzio, the only man Duse ever loved, betrayed her love by printing the love letters she wrote him. Duse never forgave him.

Ready or not — here comes the avalanche of "bests" lists, which spring up like mushrooms every first of the year. But one of themost interesting and important is the Motion Picture Herald's poll of exhibitors for the top stars at the box office.

John Wayne is the winner for the second straight year. Others in the order of their popularity are:

2—Martin and Lewis.
3—Betty Grable (and she's been on suspension for nine months).
4—Abbott and Costello.
5—Bing Crosby
6—Bob Hope
7—Randolph Scott (can't underestimate these westerners)
8—Gary Cooper
9—Doris Day (the musical girls fare the best)
10—Spencer Tracy

Chatter in Hollywood:

Charles Feldman is in Bermuda. He flew there from New York where he spent Christmas with his ex-wife, Jean.

Rita Hayworth and Charlie, who were an almost every night date, suddenly stopped seeing each other. I think it's because Rita and Prince Aly Khan have been in constant communication and Rita has not wanted to have a steady date with anyone. Her most frequent escort the past week has been Cy Howard who, before the advent of Fernando Lamas, was finding Lana Turner very good company.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The entire quarter of a million dollars left by Maria Montez goes to Jean Pierre Aumont.

The John Carradines (she's the former Sonia Sorel) have reconciled and have rented an apartment in Greenwich Village.

Jane Withers Moss, former child actress, tells me on a Christmas card that she is expecting her third child soon. She and Bill Moss are living in Midland, Texas, near where all that oil comes from.

Another old friend of mine, Shirley Temple, writes a note on her Christmas card — a sweet message telling me of her happiness with her husband and little daughter — and signs it "retired actress."

Rory Calhoun just back from the Argentine where he was on location, says the whole company was under constant surveillance by military police all the time they were "shooting."

Vincente Minnelli prizes a self portrait of the late George Gershwin given him for Christmas by Ira Gershwin. Arthur Freed gave Minnelli a Paccaso, so, all in all, "An American In Paris" is very lucky for Vince.

Bing Crosby has placed his Pebble Beach home, once the joy of his life, up for sale. Located right on the golf links of the Del Mont eLodge, it's valued at a quarter of a million. I'm glad Bingo and Dixie will spend more time in Hollywood.

Mrs. Gene Nelson is expecting a baby any edition. She had hoped for a Christmas present.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does public opinion depend on freedom?

Answer: Yes, particularly freedom of communications, writes Paul Kecskemeti in Public Opinion Quarterly. In order to form an individual judgment or opinion, you must have various points of view presented to you and be able to choose among them, with "public opinion" representing the prevailing choices. But the citizen of a totalitarian country is permitted to see only a single, official picture of the world. He may not find it entirely convincing and may try to see behind it, but will generally accept it in the end because he has nothing else to believe, and because of the enormous power of those who endorse it.

May attempted suicide be an "act"?

Answer: Yes. Attempted suicide often embodies mainly the person's desire to make others sorry for their unkind treatment of him or to get attention from a world which has seemed to ignore him. The proof of this is the devices by which — quite unconsciously—the apparent suicide makes sure that he will be discovered and saved before it is too late. The most obvious of these is telephoning and announcing his intention or — as in one case that I knew — making the attempt at meal-time when the family would be sure to miss him and look for him. But the rage which even a phony suicide expresses is too dangerous to be ignored.

Is a teacher's personality important?

Answer: Yes, much more than her ability to teach the ABC's, writes Dr. Florence Clothier, child psychiatrist, in Mental Hygiene. Her chief function is that of a builder of personality rather than a giver of knowledge and her success depends on her own maturity and emotional adjustment, since a child's personality develops through " identifying himself with" (trying to be like) adults who are important to him. "A neurotic, frustrated or dissatisfied teacher with 30 or 40 children in her class can hardly be expected to make up to these children for other deficiencies in their lives. Teachers should teach children, not courses."

Keyser DAR Chapter Observes Holiday

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Daughters of the American Revolution, Keyser chapter, held its regular meeting and annual Christmas party recently at the home of Mrs. Lyle Wilson, State Street.

Christmas carols were sung by the group throughout the evening. Mrs. Martin Watson gave the scripture reading. Miss Shirley Largent and Mrs. Wilson gave a two-piano selection, "Christmas Fantasy."

Mrs. G. E. Klinestiver gave a reading using as its theme, "The Love of Giving." A quiz game using Christmas carols was played. Mrs. James Wright gave a report on the charity boxes sent by the Chapter to the Kate Duncan school and to one in Munich, Germany.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Dana Lough, Mrs. Alyce Perry, Mrs. Arley Barrick, Kitzmiller, Mrs. Eltin D. Gourley presided at the punch bowl. Decorations were in the Christmas motif with holly predominating.

Rotarians Entertain Orphanage Children

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — The 16 children of the Burlington W. Va. Orphanage and two attendants were entertained with a turkey dinner Wednesday by the Tri-Towns Rotary Club at the Potomac Hotel here. Each child was given a present.

After the dinner the guests were taken to a moving picture show at the Piedmont Opera House. The pictures were open to the public and the admission was an article of foodstuff or clothing. Over 200 attended and the donations were taken in a truck by employees of the Luke paper plant to the Burlington home. The guests were brought here and returned in automobiles by the Rotarians.

Sold at auction in 1696, Vermeer's Lady Writing brought the equivalent of $6.00.

Future Homemakers Chapter Is Formed

PARSONS, W. Va.—Home economics students of Parsons High School organized the Future Homemakers of America Chapter in their school this week with Miss Clara Graham as sponsor.

Miss Graham appointed a nominating committee who presented the following candidates for office: Miss Jill Wolfe, president; Miss Pauline Harsh, vice-president; Miss Jeannette Loughry, secretary; Miss Virginia Credal, treasurer; Miss Maxine Phillips, reporter and song leader; Miss Nancy Tahaney, historian; Miss Mary Jane Dumire, parlimentarian and Mrs. R. K. McClain, chapter mother. Miss Graham will be the advisor for the club which will have about 35 members.

Marjorie Booth Becomes Bride

PARSONS, W. Va. — Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Marjorie Ellen Booth, daughter of Mrs. E. J. Booth, Parsons, and the late Mr. Both, to John Andrew Hedrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Hedrick, Hendricks.

The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. R. V. Gallion, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, Md., December 9.

Mrs. Booth mother of the bride and Miss Helen Virginia Schoonover, friend of the bride, were their only attendants.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hedrick are graduates of Parsons High School. Hedrick (a veteran of World War II, is employed by the Crop Landis Bread Company in Elkins. The couple is residing in Parsons.

4-H Club Entertained

MT. SAVAGE—Members of the Church Hill 4-H Club were entertained at a holiday party recently at the home of Miss Jane Rizer. A program of entertainment was presented, games were played and gifts were exchanged. A business meeting followed the social.

Photographer Ill

KEYSER, W. Va.—W. A. "Mike" Wenner, local photographer, who has been confined to the Potomac Valley Hospital for several days, is reported not so well. He has been a pneumonia patient.

The model for the Age of Innocense was the grandniece of Reynolds.

Legion Will Give W. Va. Bonus Aid

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, of Piedmont, announces that beginning January 2, 1952, its office will be open from 7-10 p. m. to assist veterans in filing claims for the West Virginia State bonus.

Those entitled to the state bonus are veterans of World War I who served at least 90 days between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918, and for World War II who served at least 90 days between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945.

In each instance discharge must be honorable. The veteran is required to have a certified photostatic copy of discharge and a resident of West Virginia at time of entering service and six months thereto.

Dependents of either World War I or World II in filing claim must produce a death certificate of the veteran and also a marriage certificate.

Church Feast Set

MT. SAVAGE—The Feast of the Circumcision will be observed January 1 with special services at 9:30 a. m. in St. George's Episcopal Church. Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of the church, will officiate and will deliver the sermon message for the new year. Holy Communion will be observed. There will also be a special prayer offered for World Peace.

Visits Parents

KEYSER, W. Va.—Miss Majorie Sue Wilson is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wilson, State Street. Miss Wilson teaches school in Hagerstown.

You'll have to buy a truck if you want to use that plate. You can get a good one through a Times-News "trucks for sale" ad.

Westernport Club Plans Party For Tonight

WESTERNPORT—The Westernport Homemakers Club will hold its Christmas party tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frank Dayton on Vine Street.

Jingle gifts will be exchanged Arrangements for the club's annual dinner, to be held in January, also will be made at tonight's affair. The dinner has been scheduled for Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church.

Baltimore Blue Law Test Scheduled

BALTIMORE — (AP) — A storm-window salesman will be tried by a jury to "clear up the point" of what kind of business you may do legally in Baltimore on Sunday.

Magistrate Reuben Caplan, on behalf of the state, requested the jury trial for Robert Murphy, who was trapped into demonstrating his wares in a policewoman's home Sunday, December 16.

A warrant charging him with violating Baltimore's "blue laws" was issued Wednesday.

PARSONS, W. Va. — Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Marjorie Ellen Booth, daughter of Mrs. E. J. Booth, Parsons, and the late Mr. Both, to John Andrew Hedrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Hedrick, Hendricks.

The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. R. V. Gallion, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, Md., December 9.

Mrs. Booth mother of the bride and Miss Helen Virginia Schoonover, friend of the bride, were their only attendants.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hedrick are graduates of Parsons High School. Hedrick(a veteran of World War II, is employed by the Crop Landis Bread Company in Elkins. The couple is residing in Parsons.

4-H Club Entertained

MT. SAVAGE—Members of the Church Hill 4-H Club were entertained at a holiday party recently at the home of Miss Jane Rizer. A program of entertainment was presented, games were played and gifts were exchanged. A business meeting followed the social.

Photographer Ill

KEYSER, W. Va.—W. A. "Mike" Wenner, local photographer, who has been confined to the Potomac Valley Hospital for several days, is reported not so well. He has been a pneumonia patient.

The model for the Age of Innocense was the grandniece of Reynolds.

Legion Will Give W. Va. Bonus Aid

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, of Piedmont, announces that beginning January 2, 1952, its office will be open from 7-10 p. m. to assist veterans in filing claims for the West Virginia State bonus.

Those entitled to the state bonus are veterans of World War I who served at least 90 days between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918, and for World War II who served at least 90 days between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945.

In each instance discharge must be honorable. The veteran is required to have a certified photostatic copy of discharge and a resident of West Virginia at time of entering service and six months thereto.

Dependents of either World War I or World II in filing claim must produce a death certificate of the veteran and also a marriage certificate.

Church Feast Set

MT. SAVAGE—The Feast of the Circumcision will be observed January 1 with special services at 9:30 a. m. in St. George's Episcopal Church. Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of the church, will officiate and will deliver the sermon message for the new year. Holy Communion will be observed. There will also be a special prayer offered for World Peace.

Visits Parents

KEYSER, W. Va.—Miss Majorie Sue Wilson is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Wilson, State Street. Miss Wilson teaches school in Hagerstown.

You'll have to buy a truck if you want to use that plate. You can get a good one through a Times-News "trucks for sale" ad.

Westernport Club Plans Party For Tonight

WESTERNPORT—The Westernport Homemakers Club will hold its Christmas party tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frank Dayton on Vine Street.

Jingle gifts will be exchanged. Arrangements for the club's annual dinner, to be held in January, also will be made at tonight's affair. The dinner has been scheduled for Mt. Calvary Lutheran Church.

Baltimore Blue Law Test Scheduled

BALTIMORE — (AP) — A storm-window salesman will be tried by a jury to "clear up the point" of what kind of business you may do legally in Baltimore on Sunday.

Magistrate Reuben Caplan, on behalf of the state, requested the jury trial for Robert Murphy, who was trapped into demonstrating his wares in a policewoman's home Sunday, December 16.

A warrant charging him with violating Baltimore's "blue laws" was issued Wednesday.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27 (INS)—One of the greatest adventure stories ever written is Jules Verne's "20,000 Leagues Under The Sea," which was published in 1869 and is still being widely read. Years ago it was made by the Williamson Brothers with some stunning undersea effects.

WALT DISNEY

Now Walt Disney, who paid close to $100,000 to Sid Rogell for the film rights, plans to make it very soon. Sid, who owned the rights for a long time, was to have filmed it in England, but he has decided to devote all his time to TV.

All camera work will be done at the Disney Studio with human performers. The life under the sea, mingled with the human melodrama of Captain Nemo and his captives on the Nautilus, will make one of the most colorful adventure stories ever put on the screen.

News of Paul Muni has been increasingly scarce in the last few years. What he is doing, where he is, someway has eluded our columns.

Now I'm told that Paul, in Europe, has been in conference with Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini. They plan to produce a picture based on the life of Eleanore Duse, with Muni in the role of the poet Gabriel D'Annunzio.

D'Annunzio, the only man Duse ever loved, betrayed her love by printing the love letters she wrote him. Duse never forgave him.

Ready or not — here comes the avalanche of "bests" lists, which spring up like mushrooms every first of the year. But one of themost interesting and important is the Motion Picture Herald's poll of exhibitors for the top stars at the box office.

John Wayne is the winner for the second straight year. Others in the order of their popularity are:

2—Martin and Lewis.
3—Betty Grable (and she's been on suspension for nine months).
4—Abbott and Costello.
5—Bing Crosby
6—Bob Hope
7—Randolph Scott (can't underestimate these westerners)
8—Gary Cooper
9—Doris Day (the musical girls fare the best)
10—Spencer Tracy

Chatter in Hollywood:

Charles Feldman is in Bermuda. He flew there from New York where he spent Christmas with his ex-wife, Jean.

Rita Hayworth and Charlie, who were an almost every night date, suddenly stopped seeing each other. I think it's because Rita and Prince Aly Khan have been in constant communication and Rita has not wanted to have a steady date with anyone. Her most frequent escort the past week has been Cy Howard who, before the advent of Fernando Lamas, was finding Lana Turner very good company.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The entire quarter of a million dollars left by Maria Montez goes to Jean Pierre Aumont.

The John Carradines (she's the former Sonia Sorel) have reconciled and have rented an apartment in Greenwich Village.

Jane Withers Moss, former child actress, tells me on a Christmas card that she is expecting her third child soon. She and Bill Moss are living in Midland, Texas, near where all that oil comes from.

Another old friend of mine, Shirley Temple, writes a note on her Christmas card — a sweet message telling me of her happiness with her husband and little daughter — and signs it "retired actress."

Rory Calhoun just back from the Argentine where he was on location, says the whole company was under constant surveillance by military police all the time they were "shooting."

Vincente Minnelli prizes a self portrait of the late George Gershwin given him for Christmas by Ira Gershwin. Arthur Freed gave Minnelli a Paccaso, so, all in all, "An American In Paris" is very lucky for Vince.

Bing Crosby has placed his Pebble Beach home, once the joy of his life, up for sale. Located right on the golf links of the Del Mont eLodge, it's valued at a quarter of a million. I'm glad Bingo and Dixie will spend more time in Hollywood.

Mrs. Gene Nelson is expecting a baby any edition. She had hoped for a Christmas present.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does public opinion depend on freedom?

Answer: Yes, particularly freedom of communications, writes Paul Kecskemeti in Public Opinion Quarterly. In order to form an individual judgment or opinion, you must have various points of view presented to you and be able to choose among them, with "public opinion" representing the prevailing choices. But the citizen of a totalitarian country is permitted to see only a single, official picture of the world. He may not find it entirely convincing and may try to see behind it, but will generally accept it in the end because he has nothing else to believe, and because of the enormous power of those who endorse it.

May attempted suicide be an "act"?

Answer: Yes. Attempted suicide often embodies mainly the person's desire to make others sorry for their unkind treatment of him or to get attention from a world which has seemed to ignore him. The proof of this is the devices by which — quite unconsciously—the apparent suicide makes sure that he will be discovered and saved before it is too late. The most obvious of these is telephoning and announcing his intention or — as in one case that I knew — making the attempt at meal-time when the family would be sure to miss him and look for him. But the rage which even a phony suicide expresses is too dangerous to be ignored.

Is a teacher's personality important?

Answer: Yes, much more than her ability to teach the ABC's, writes Dr. Florence Clothier, child psychiatrist, in Mental Hygiene. Her chief function is that of a builder of personality rather than a giver of knowledge and her success depends on her own maturity and emotional adjustment, since a child's personality develops through " identifying himself with" (trying to be like) adults who are important to him. "A neurotic, frustrated or dissatisfied teacher with 30 or 40 children in her class can hardly be expected to make up to these children for other deficiencies in their lives. Teachers should teach children, not courses."

Keyser DAR Chapter Observes Holiday

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Daughters of the American Revolution, Keyser chapter, held its regular meeting and annual Christmas party recently at the home of Mrs. Lyle Wilson, State Street.

Christmas carols were sung by the group throughout the evening. Mrs. Martin Watson gave the scripture reading. Miss Shirley Largent and Mrs. Wilson gave a two-piano selection, "Christmas Fantasy."

Mrs. G. E. Klinestiver gave a reading using as its theme, "The Love of Giving." A quiz game using Christmas carols was played. Mrs. James Wright gave a report on the charity boxes sent by the Chapter to the Kate Duncan school and to one in Munich, Germany.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Dana Lough, Mrs. Alyce Perry, Mrs. Arley Barrick, Kitzmiller, Mrs. Eltin D. Gourley presided at the punch bowl. Decorations were in the Christmas motif with holly predominating.

Rotarians Entertain Orphanage Children

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — The 16 children of the Burlington W. Va. Orphanage and two attendants were entertained with a turkey dinner Wednesday by the Tri-Towns Rotary Club at the Potomac Hotel here. Each child was given a present.

After the dinner the guests were taken to a moving picture show at the Piedmont Opera House. The pictures were open to the public and the admission was an article of foodstuff or clothing. Over 200 attended and the donations were taken in a truck by employees of the Luke paper plant to the Burlington home. The guests were brought here and returned in automobiles by the Rotarians.

Sold at auction in 1696, Vermeer's Lady Writing brought the equivalent of $6.00.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Jackie Kelk Comes Of Age

The mass of men, said Thoreau or Goodman Ace or somebody, lead lives of quiet desperation. Jackie Kelk isn't one of them. Mr. Kelk, the star of "Young Mr. Bobbin" (NBC - TV 7:30 p. m. EST Sundays), leads a life of noisy desperation. His form of desperation, one which, I'm afraid, we'll get an awful lot of on television, generally involves not only himself but usually also his two aunts, his sweetheart, the whole neighborhood and sometimes the whole town.

John Crosby

Young Mr. Bobbin is a television type; rub two comedy writers together and you can hardly avoid producing a Young Mr. Bobbin who, incidentally, comes in both sexes and all sizes. In short, he has two left feet and nothing he undertakes ever comes out quite right. If he sets out to repair a kitchen door, he will succeed in wrecking not only his own door but half a dozen other doors in the neighborhood. Let him try to take his girl on a picnic and he will wind up with her kid sister instead.

• — • — •

Mr. Kelk is an expert at this sort of thing. He ought to be. He is a graduate adolescent from the Henry Aldrich show, both the radio and television versions, where, as Homer, his nasal twang extended into millions of homes for what seemed like millions of years. It wasn't quite that long, actually. Kelk started playing the sixteen-year-old Homer when he was 16 and continued to be 16 for 12 long years which is three or four more years than most women remain 38.

As young Mr. Bobbin, Mr. Kelk, now 28, has been moved into the 19-year-old age group, one of quite elderly adolscence. I think I detect a trend here. In radio it was the middle teens, the Corliss Archers, the Henrys, the Homers, who were popular. On television, I have an idea the young comedy boys and comedy lasses will all be about 19. It's a small trend, I admit. But then, trends on television are terribly, terribly tiny. You have to have a keen eye and ear to detect any trend at all in the motionless sea that television is rapidly becoming.

At 19, Mr. Bobbin can regard girls with an admiration about five degrees less fatuous than he could when he was Homer, a fairly notable achievement. He even has moments of tenderness with them, whereas Homer usually contrived only to spill the catsup all over them. Young Mr. Bobbin lives with his two aunts, Clara and Bertie, in a home distinguished chiefly by the most frightening wallpaper I've seen in years. Since one of the ladies is played by Nydia Westman who is indelibly associated in my mind with "The Madwoman of Chaillot," in which she played the part of a woman mad as a hatter, there is an air of lunacy and vague menace about the household.

• — • — •

The difference between Henry Aldrich and "Young Mr. Bobbin," in case you're interested in small distinctions, is that the former was pure farce and, at its best, very funny, whereas in "Young Mr. B" a thin shaft of realism has crept in, just enough realism to dampen the laughs of which there are precious few and not enough so that you can take the proceedings very seriously.

About the best thing you can say about the show is that it violates no canons of taste or tribal taboos of any sort. I don't know that this is much of a recommendation. The trouble with Young Mr. Bobbin is that five minutes after you turn it off, you'd have great difficulty recollecting what had happened.

COULD HE ANSWER ONE?

COULD you make a game if your partner's hand was so weak that he couldn't answer an opening suit bid of one? If your answer to that question is "probably not," then what is the use of compelling a game contract for your side by making an opening suit bid of two? The replies to those two questions furnish the guide followed by most high-ranking players when deciding whether or not to make their game-guarantee opening bid—regardless of whether or not they use all suit two-bids in that sense or an artificial two-clubs, or anything else.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT

South, a not very experienced performer, was dazzled by all those aces and kings. Somebody had told him about honor tricks as a measure for game-demand two bids, and he had six of them. He also had been taught that, with a five-card suit, he probably could develop two tricks in small cards. If that happened, he could manage to take eight tricks with his own hand, and just one more, either in his partner's hand or through perhaps the setting up of a spade thirteener, could give him nine for game.

After East led the heart 3, South was proud to lay down his nice dummy. But poor North couldn't take even one trick in his own hand, and his cards proved useless for helping develop any in the dummy. So North took only seven tricks by getting three in clubs plus four more, so was down two.

You might say that, if either the West or East hand happened to be opposite South's big holding, nine tricks could have been easy to take at No Trumps. But that does not justify the 2-Clubs bid. With either of those hands in his possession, North would make a bid after South opened with 1-Club—unless he knew his partner as a player who, like this South, might bid two on a hand not quite adequate.

There are various pretty sound measures for deciding whether your hand justifies a game guarantee opening bid. But the kernel of them is involved in the answer to that one simple query of whether or not you would like to be in a game contract opposite a partner too weak to answer an opening suit bid of one.

Jackie Kelk Comes Of Age

The mass of men, said Thoreau or Goodman Ace or somebody, lead lives of quiet desperation. Jackie Kelk isn't one of them. Mr. Kelk, the star of "Young Mr. Bobbin" (NBC - TV 7:30 p. m. EST Sundays), leads a life of noisy desperation. His form of desperation, one which, I'm afraid, we'll get an awful lot of on television, generally involves not only himself but usually also his two aunts, his sweetheart, the whole neighborhood and sometimes the whole town.

John Crosby

Young Mr. Bobbin is a television type; rub two comedy writers together and you can hardly avoid producing a Young Mr. Bobbin who, incidentally, comes in both sexes and all sizes. In short, he has two left feet and nothing he undertakes ever comes out quite right. If he sets out to repair a kitchen door, he will succeed in wrecking not only his own door but half a dozen other doors in the neighborhood. Let him try to take his girl on a picnic and he will wind up with her kid sister instead.

Mr. Kelk is an expert at this sort of thing. He ought to be. He is a graduate adolescent from the Henry Aldrich show, both the radio and television versions, where, as Homer, his nasal twang extended into millions of homes for what seemed like millions of years. It wasn't quite that long, actually. Kelk started playing the sixteen-year-old Homer when he was 16 and continued to be 16 for 12 long years which is three or four more years than most women remain 38.

As young Mr. Bobbin, Mr. Kelk, now 28, has been moved into the 19-year-old age group, one of quite elderly adolscence. I think I detect a trend here. In radio it was the middle teens, the Corliss Archers, the Henrys, the Homers, who were popular. On television, I have an idea the young comedy boys and comedy lasses will all be about 19. It's a small trend, I admit. But then, trends on television are terribly, terribly tiny. You have to have a keen eye and ear to detect any trend at all in the motionless sea that television is rapidly becoming.

At 19, Mr. Bobbin can regard girls with an admiration about five degrees less fatuous than he could when he was Homer, a fairly notable achievement. He even has moments of tenderness with them, whereas Homer usually contrived only to spill the catsup all over them. Young Mr. Bobbin lives with his two aunts, Clara and Bertie, in a home distinguished chiefly by the most frightening wallpaper I've seen in years. Since one of the ladies is played by Nydia Westman who is indelibly associated in my mind with "The Madwoman of Chaillot," in which she played the part of a woman mad as a hatter, there is an air of lunacy and vague menace about the household.

• — • — •

The difference between Henry Aldrich and "Young Mr. Bobbin," in case you're interested in small distinctions, is that the former was pure farce and, at its best, very funny, whereas in "Young Mr. B" a thin shaft of realism has crept in, just enough realism to dampen the laughs of which there are precious few and not enough so that you can take the proceedings very seriously.

About the best thing you can say about the show is that it violates no canons of taste or tribal taboos of any sort. I don't know that this is much of a recommendation. The trouble with Young Mr. Bobbin is that five minutes after you turn it off, you'd have great difficulty recollecting what had happened.

He is a graduate adolescent from the Henry Aldrich show, both the radio and television versions, where, as Homer, his nasal twang extended into millions of homes for what seemed like millions of years. It wasn't quite that long, actually. Kelk started playing the sixteen-year-old Homer when he was 16 and continued to be 16 for 12 long years which is three or four more years than most women remain 38.

As young Mr. Bobbin, Mr. Kelk, now 28, has been moved into the 19-year-old age group, one of quite elderly adolescence. I think I detect a trend here. In radio it was the middle teens, the Corliss Archers, the Henrys, the Homers, who were popular. On television, I have an idea the young comedy boys and comedy lasses will all be about 19. It's a small trend, I admit. But then, trends on television are terribly, terribly tiny. You have to have a keen eye and ear to detect any trend at all in the motionless sea that television is rapidly becoming.

At 19, Mr. Bobbin can regard girls with an admiration about five degrees less fatuous than he could when he was Homer, a fairly notable achievement. He even has moments of tenderness with them, whereas Homer usually contrived only to spill the catsup all over them. Young Mr. Bobbin lives with his two aunts, Clara and Bertie, in a home distinguished chiefly by the most frightening wallpaper I've seen in years. Since one of the ladies is played by Nydia Westman who is indelibly associated in my mind with "The Madwoman of Chaillot," in which she played the part of a woman mad as a hatter, there is an air of lunacy and vague menace about the household.

• — • — •

The difference between Henry Aldrich and "Young Mr. Bobbin," in case you're interested in small distinctions, is that the former was pure farce and, at its best, very funny, whereas in "Young Mr. B" a thin shaft of realism has crept in, just enough realism to dampen the laughs of which there are precious few and not enough so that you can take the proceedings very seriously.

About the best thing you can say about the show is that it violates no canons of taste or tribal taboos of any sort. I don't know that this is much of a recommendation. The trouble with Young Mr. Bobbin is that five minutes after you turn it off, you'd have great difficulty recollecting what had happened.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"These Government scandals must end! . . . it's getting so that many of the job-holders are spending sleepless days! . . ."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

COULD HE ANSWER ONE?

COULD you make a game if your partner's hand was so weak that he couldn't answer an opening suit bid of one? If your answer to that question is "probably not," then what is the use of compelling a game contract for your side by making an opening suit bid of two? The replies to those two questions furnish the guide followed by most high-ranking players when deciding whether or not to make their game-guarantee opening bid—regardless of whether or not they use all suit two-bids in that sense or an artificial two-clubs, or anything else.

	♠ 7 5 2 ♥ 10 7 4 2 ♦ Q J 6 5 ♣ J 4
♠ K Q 10 9 ♥ J 6 5 ♦ 9 8 7 4 ♣ 6 3	N W E S	♠ J 4 ♥ Q 9 8 3 ♦ K 10 3 ♣ Q 10 9 8
	♠ A 8 6 3 ♥ A K ♦ A 2 ♣ A K 7 5 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT

South, a not very experienced performer, was dazzled by all those aces and kings. Somebody had told him about honor tricks as a measure for game-demand two bids, and he had six of them. He also had been taught that, with a five-card suit, he probably could develop two tricks in small cards. If that happened, he could manage to take eight tricks with his own hand, and just one more, either in his partner's hand or through perhaps the setting up of a spade thirteener, could give him nine for game.

After East led the heart 3, South was proud to lay down his nice dummy. But poor North couldn't take even one trick in his own hand, and his cards proved useless for helping develop any in the dummy. So North took only seven tricks by getting three in clubs plus four more, so was down two.

You might say that, if either the West or East hand happened to be opposite South's big holding, nine tricks could have been easy to take at No Trumps. But that does not justify the 2-Clubs bid. With either of those hands in his possession, North would make a bid after South opened with 1-Club—unless he knew his partner as a player who, like this South, might bid two on a hand not quite adequate.

There are various pretty sound measures for deciding whether your hand justifies a game guarantee opening bid. But the kernel of them is involved in the answer to that one simple query of whether or not you would like to be in a game contract opposite a partner too weak to answer an opening suit bid of one.

♠ Q 8 4 2 ♥ A 10 ♦ J ♣ Q J 9 8 6 2	N W E S	♠ K 10 7 ♥ 9 8 3 2 ♦ Q 8 6 4 ♣ 10 4
	♠ J 3 ♥ J 7 6 ♦ K 10 7 5 2 ♣ A 5 3

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If South gets into the incorrect contract of 5-Diamonds, what should he play on the first trick when West leads the club Q?

Increase In Maryland Corn Acreage Seen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—The United States Department of Agriculture expects Maryland farmers to plant 535,000 acres of corn in 1952.

This would be a three per cent increase over the 521,000 acres planted in corn this year.

Corn is Maryland's leading crop—from the standpoint of acreage.

Second ranking Maryland crop, in acreage planted in 1951, was wheat. The Department of Agriculture says it expects the Maryland wheat acreage to increase by about three per cent—from 340,000 acres this year to 350,000 acres next year.

Employment Office To Be Closed Monday

The Cumberland office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security will be closed Monday and Tuesday, Francis A. Kenney, manager, announced yesterday.

Applicants usually reporting to the office on those two days will be received today, Kenney said.

Ridgeley Legion Will Give Vets W. Va. Bonus Aid

Claims To Be Filed Wednesday, January 2

Area veterans eligible for the West Virginia Bonus will be given assistance in filing claims by a committee at Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion in Ridgeley.

At an executive committee meeting of the post last night, Leo V. Mills, commander, said the assisting committee would be at the legion home on Wednesday, January 2, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Roland G. Showers, service officer of the legion post is in charge of the committee. He recently attended a school sponsored by the Tenth District of the American Legion at Charles Town, W. Va.

Those entitled to the state bonus are veterans of World War I, who served at least 90 days between April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918, Showers said.

Eligible World War II veterans are those who served at least 90 days between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945. In each instance, Showers noted, discharges must be honorable. When the veteran gets assistance at the Ridgeley home, he is required to have discharge papers with him or a certified photostatic copy. He must also have been a resident of West Virginia at the time of entering the service and six months thereto.

Dependents of either World War I or World War II in filing claims must produce a death certificate of the veterans and also a marriage certificate.

Turner, Unbeaten Rookie Of Year, Fights Cardell

Welterweights Meet In New York Tonight

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—"This kid is going to be a new Joe Louis or Ray Robinson. Just what boxing needs. He's so hot in Philadelphia he'd do $300,000 with Gavilan. And what a kid. He kneels down and thanks the Lord every time he wins."

Please note the quotation marks. The guy talking is George Katz, the manager, and the kid is Gil Turner, the unbeaten "Rookie of the Year" welterweight.

They have kept Turner close to home in Philadelphia since he started fighting pro in May of last year.

Now they think he's ready to hit the big time—which, in this age, means the network television cable. So they are bringing him into the Garden tomorrow night to make his debut against Vic Cardell, a brash young man from Hartford.

Stops 22 Of 26 Opponents

Those of us who haven't seen him are eager to get a look at the 21-year-old negro who has knocked out 22 of 26 opponents and decisioned the other four.

From the ballyhoo you might expect an 11-second knockout, allowing one second for the windup and pitch. But they say he's not that kind of a banger.

"Gil is not a puncher," says his proprietor who also is a picture frame manufacturer. "Please tell the people not to expect him to knock out anybody with a punch. The knockouts give people the wrong idea. He knocks them out after he wears them down. Usually the referee has to stop it."

If He Learns To Punch?

For a fellow who isn't a puncher, the .846 knockout average is pretty convincing. Wonder what he'll do when he learns how to punch?

Beau Jack went all the way the first time. Turner took him out in eight in their second fight. Charlie Fusari lasted to the 11th, Bernie Docusen to the sixth, and Ike Williams until the last 32 seconds of the 10th round.

"Some people feel he doesn't know how to pace himself," says Katz. "But they're wrong. I wouldn't let him in there with those tough guys if I thought he couldn't carry out a plan. He just listens and then does what he has been told."

Cardell, a willing aggressive fighter would seem to be the perfect foil to make Turner look good coast to coast. Most men run the other way when a matchmaker mentions Turner but Cardell's manager is a rugged type.

So, we'll watch and see about young Mr. Turner. Maybe he is another Louis or Robinson. Maybe he's just another Blackjack Billy Fox. Remember?

Mine Explosion Report Due Soon

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Dec. 27 (AP) — Federal and state officials today completed their underground investigation of the blasted coal mine in which 119 men were killed, but would not disclose their findings.

These will be made in a report to be prepared by both groups, possibly within 10 days.

The estimate was that of John Forbes, head of the U. S. Bureau of Mines. He was among some 30 investigators who made an on-the-spot inquiry. Company and union officials also participated.

500-Pound Youth Who Was Too Big For School Dies

PIKESVILLE, Ky., (AP) — Virgil Tackett, 26-year-old Pike Countain who weighed between 500 and 600 pounds, died this week.

Death came as he sat in his reinforced chair at the little home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Tackett, on nearby Robinson Creek. He had been ill of a heart condition.

Virgil was big all his life — he weighed 13 pounds at birth — but he wasn't at all sensitive about it. His parents said he hadn't been weighed accurately since he got his growth.

He never went to school. The family doctor said the walk to the schoolhouse would endanger his life. Also, he was too big for the seats built for normal children.

He filled a large part of his room in which he sat most of the time. His bed was an ordinary type braced with four by four's to support his great heft.

Virgil didn't use the bed much. He found his chair more comfortable for sleeping.

He was mighty fond of his mother. She made his clothes and helped him dress. He was so big he couldn't bend over to tie his shoes — his mother did that for him.

Mostly he wore overalls and jackets. But manufacturers didn't make any large enough for him. His parents solved the problem by buying two pairs of the biggest size made — 56. The two pairs sewn together fitted Virgil nicely.

His thighs measured 40 inches and his waist, 78. One leg of his overalls would have made a pair of paints for the average fat man. He was six feet, one.

His parents are average-sized people. His father, a miner, weighs 122 pounds. His mother weighs 145 pounds.

Chicago Girl Weds Defrocked Priest

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 27 (AP) — Blonde Claire Young of Chicago today married the defrocked priest for whom she defied her family and renounced her American citizenship.

"I'm very happy now after all the troubles I had in the past," said the 21-year-old Claire. She was married in Milan's city hall to the former Roman Catholic missionary, Luciano Negrini, 43.

Both Negrini and his bride suffered automatic excommunication from the Catholic church for the marriage.

Big Span Damages Bay Bridge Trusses

MATAPEAKE, Md., Dec. 27 (AP)—A big span which broke loose from towing tugs and smashed into the Chesapeake Bay bridge trusses have caused up to $100,000 in damages, a spokesman for J. E. Greiner Co., bridge engineers, said yesterday.

The 480-foot section, weighing 1,500 tons, was swept away in high winds. After hitting the bridge structure, the span drifted to the Eastern Shore and the four barges carrying it went aground near the Matapeake ferry landing near here.

Orange Sherbet Cups

1 package orange sherbet mix
1 cup milk
1 cup water
6 orange cups

Measure milk and water into bowl. Add contents of package of orange sherbet mix. Beat with a rotary beater until dissolved—about 2 minutes. Pour mixture into freezing tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen, remove from tray to bowl. Break up into small lumps with fork or potato masher. Beat with electric or hand beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until fairly firm. To make orange cups, cut oranges in half and scoop out pulp and juice. With knife, flute cut edge of orange halves. When ready to serve, fill each cup with a scoop of orange sherbert and place on platter around turkey.

Other flavors of sherbet can be served with the main course. Here are two particularly tangy recipes for you to try.

Rubbing a sliced onion over the glass with an up and down stroke will keep auto windshields from becoming misty on rainy days.

Market Makes Substantial Progress Toward Late Rally

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP) — The stock market today made substantial progress toward fulfilling its promise of a year-end rally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced a full dollar at $98.10, with the industrial component of $1.40, rails $1.10 and utilities 30 cents.

The rails, steels, and oils gave strong leadership to the entire list, and there was plenty of scattered support.

Pennsylvania Railroad was the day's most active issue up ½ at 18⅛.

Pan American World Airways was second most active unchanged at 11⅞.

It was followed by New York Central up ⅞ at 18½, St. Louis-San Francisco Railway up ⅜ at 27⅛, American Telephone up ½ at 155¾, and Studebaker up ¾ at 34.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Increase In Maryland Corn Acreage Seen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—The United States Department of Agriculture expects Maryland farmers to plant 535,000 acres of corn in 1952.

This would be a three per cent increase over the 521,000 acres planted in corn this year.

Corn is Maryland's leading crop—from the standpoint of acreage.

Second ranking Maryland crop, in acreage planted in 1951, was wheat. The Department of Agriculture says it expects the Maryland wheat acreage to increase by about three per cent—from 340,000 acres this year to 350,000 acres next year.

Employment Office To Be Closed Monday

The Cumberland office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security will be closed Monday and Tuesday, Francis A. Kenney, manager, announced yesterday.

Applicants usually reporting to the office on those two days will be received today, Kenney said.

Ridgeley Legion Will Give Vets W. Va. Bonus Aid

Claims To Be Filed Wednesday, January 2

Area veterans eligible for the West Virginia Bonus will be given assistance in filing claims by a committee at Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion in Ridgeley.

At an executive committee meeting of the post last night, Leo V. Mills, commander, said the assisting committee would be at the legion home on Wednesday, January 2, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Roland G. Showers, service officer of the legion post is in charge of the committee. He recently attended a school sponsored by the Tenth District of the American Legion at Charles Town, W. Va.

Those entitled to the state bonus are veterans of World War I, who served at least 90 days between April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918, Showers said.

Eligible World War II veterans are those who served at least 90 days between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945. In each instance, Showers noted, discharges must be honorable. When the veteran gets assistance at the Ridgeley home, he is required to have discharge papers with him or a certified photostatic copy. He must also have been a resident of West Virginia at the time of entering the service and six months thereto.

Dependents of either World War I or World War II in filing claims must produce a death certificate of the veterans and also a marriage certificate.

Turner, Unbeaten Rookie Of Year, Fights Cardell

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—"This kid is going to be a new Joe Louis or Ray Robinson. Just what boxing needs. He's so hot in Philadelphia he'd do $300,000 with Gavilan. And what a kid. He kneels down and thanks the Lord every time he wins."

Please note the quotation marks. The guy talking is George Katz, the manager, and the kid is Gil Turner, the unbeaten "Rookie of the Year" welterweight.

They have kept Turner close to home in Philadelphia since he started fighting pro in May of last year.

Now they think he's ready to hit the big time—which, in this age, means the network television cable. So they are bringing him into the Garden tomorrow night to make his debut against Vic Cardell, a brash young man from Hartford.

Stops 22 Of 26 Opponents

Those of us who haven't seen him are eager to get a look at the 21-year-old negro who has knocked out 22 of 26 opponents and decisioned the other four.

From the ballyhoo you might expect an 11-second knockout, allowing one second for the windup and pitch. But they say he's not that kind of a banger.

"Gil is not a puncher," says his proprietor who also is a picture frame manufacturer. "Please tell the people not to expect him to knock out anybody with a punch. The knockouts give people the wrong idea. He knocks them out after he wears them down. Usually the referee has to stop it."

If He Learns To Punch?

For a fellow who isn't a puncher, the .846 knockout average is pretty convincing. Wonder what he'll do when he learns how to punch?

Beau Jack went all the way the first time. Turner took him out in eight in their second fight. Charlie Fusari lasted to the 11th. Bernie Docusen to the sixth, and Ike Williams until the last 32 seconds of the 10th round.

"Some people feel he doesn't know how to pace himself," says Katz. "But they're wrong. I wouldn't let him in there with those tough guys if I thought he couldn't carry out a plan. He just listens and then does what he has been told."

Cardell, a willing aggressive fighter would seem to be the perfect foil to make Turner look good coast to coast. Most men run the other way when a matchmaker mentions Turner but Cardell's manager is a rugged type.

So, we'll watch and see about young Mr. Turner. Maybe he is another Louis or Robinson. Maybe he's just another Blackjack Billy Fox. Remember?

Mine Explosion Report Due Soon

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Dec. 27 (AP) — Federal and state officials today completed their underground investigation of the blasted coal mine in which 119 men were killed, but would not disclose their findings.

These will be made in a report to be prepared by both groups, possibly within 10 days.

The estimate was that of John Forbes, head of the U. S. Bureau of Mines. He was among some 30 investigators who made an on-the-spot inquiry. Company and union officials also participated.

500-Pound Youth Who Was Too Big For School Dies

PIKESVILLE, Ky., (AP) — Virgil Tackett, 26-year-old Pike Countain who weighed between 500 and 600 pounds, died this week.

Death came as he sat in his reinforced chair at the little home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Tackett, on nearby Robinson Creek. He had been ill of a heart condition.

Virgil was big all his life — he weighed 13 pounds at birth — but he wasn't at all sensitive about it. His parents said he hadn't been weighed accurately since he got his growth.

He never went to school. The family doctor said the walk to the schoolhouse would endanger his life. Also, he was too big for the seats built for normal children.

He filled a large part of his room in which he sat most of the time. His bed was an ordinary type braced with four by four's to support his great heft.

Virgil didn't use the bed much. He found his chair more comfortable for sleeping.

He was mighty fond of his mother. She made his clothes and helped him dress. He was so big he couldn't bend over to tie his shoes — his mother did that for him.

Mostly he wore overalls and jackets. But manufacturers didn't make any large enough for him. His parents solved the problem by buying two pairs of the biggest size made — 56. The two pairs sewn together fitted Virgil nicely.

His thighs measured 40 inches and his waist, 78. One leg of his overalls would have made a pair of paints for the average fat man. He was six feet, one.

His parents are average-sized people. His father, a miner, weighs 122 pounds. His mother weighs 145 pounds.

Chicago Girl Weds Defrocked Priest

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 27 (AP) — Blonde Claire Young of Chicago today married the defrocked priest for whom she defied her family and renounced her American citizenship.

"I'm very happy now after all the troubles I had in the past," said the 21-year-old Claire. She was married in Milan's city hall to the former Roman Catholic missionary, Luciano Negrini, 43.

Both Negrini and his bride suffered automatic excommunication from the Catholic church for the marriage.

Big Span Damages Bay Bridge Trusses

MATAPEAKE, Md., Dec. 27 (AP)—A big span which broke loose from towing tugs and smashed into the Chesapeake Bay bridge trusses have caused up to $100,000 in damages, a spokesman for J. E. Greiner Co., bridge engineers, said yesterday.

The 480-foot section, weighing 1,500 tons, was swept away in high winds. After hitting the bridge structure, the span drifted to the Eastern Shore and the four barges carrying it went aground near the Matapeake ferry landing near here.

Orange Sherbet Cups

1 package orange sherbet mix
1 cup milk
1 cup water
6 orange cups

Measure milk and water into bowl. Add contents of package of orange sherbet mix. Beat with a rotary beater until dissolved—about 2 minutes. Pour mixture into freezing tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen, remove from tray to bowl. Break up into small lumps with fork or potato masher. Beat with electric or hand beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until fairly firm. To make orange cups, cut oranges in half and scoop out pulp and juice. With knife, flute cut edge of orange halves. When ready to serve, fill each cup with a scoop of orange sherbert and place on platter around turkey.

Other flavors of sherbet can be served with the main course. Here are two particularly tangy recipes for you to try.

Rubbing a sliced onion over the glass with an up and down stroke will keep auto windshields from becoming misty on rainy days.

Market Makes Substantial Progress Toward Late Rally

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP) — The stock market today made substantial progress toward fulfilling its promise of a year-end rally.

The Assciated Press average of 60 stocks advanced a full dollar at $98.10 with the industrial component of $1.40, rails $1.10 and utilities 30 cents.

The rails, steels, and oils gave strong leadership to the entire list, and there was plenty of scattered support.

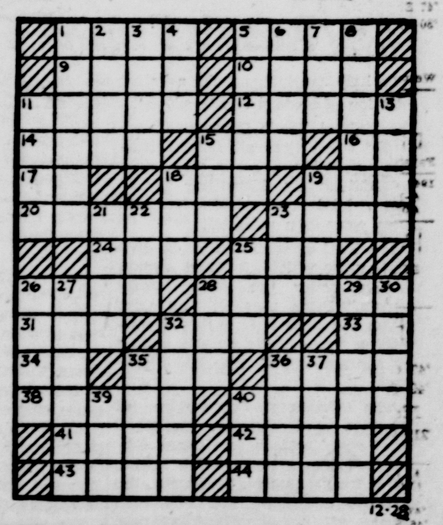
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Increase In Maryland Corn Acreage Seen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—The United States Department of Agriculture expects Maryland farmers to plant 535,000 acres of corn in 1952.

This would be a three per cent increase over the 521,000 acres planted in corn this year.

Corn is Maryland's leading crop—from the standpoint of acreage.

Second ranking Maryland crop, in acreage planted in 1951, was wheat. The Department of Agriculture says it expects the Maryland wheat acreage to increase by about three per cent—from 340,000 acres this year to 350,000 acres next year.

Ridgeley Legion Will Give Vets W. Va. Bonus Aid

Claims To Be Filed Wednesday, January 2

Area veterans eligible for the West Virginia Bonus will be given assistance in filing claims by a committee at Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion in Ridgeley.

At an executive committee meeting of the post last night, Leo V. Mills, commander, said the assisting committee would be at the legion home on Wednesday, January 2, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Roland G. Showers, service officer of the legion post is in charge of the committee. He recently attended a school sponsored by the Tenth District of the American Legion at Charles Town, W. Va.

Those entitled to the state bonus are veterans of World War I, who served at least 90 days between April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918, Showers said.

Eligible World War II veterans are those who served at least 90 days between December 7, 1941 and September 2, 1945. In each instance, Showers noted, discharges must be honorable. When the veteran gets assistance at the Ridgeley home, he is required to have discharge papers with him or a certified photostatic copy. He must also have been a resident of West Virginia at the time of entering the service and six months thereto.

Dependents of either World War I or World War II in filing claims must produce a death certificate of the veterans and also a marriage certificate.

Turner, Unbeaten Rookie Of Year, Fights Cardell

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—"This kid is going to be a new Joe Louis or Ray Robinson. Just what boxing needs. He's so hot in Philadelphia he'd do $300,000 with Gavilan. And what a kid. He kneels down and thanks the Lord every time he wins."

Please note the quotation marks. The guy talking is George Katz, the manager, and the kid is Gil Turner, the unbeaten "Rookie of the Year" welterweight.

They have kept Turner close to home in Philadelphia since he started fighting pro in May of last year.

Now they think he's ready to hit the big time—which, in this age, means the network television cable. So they are bringing him into the Garden tomorrow night to make his debut against Vic Cardell, a brash young man from Hartford.

Stops 22 Of 26 Opponents

Those of us who haven't seen him are eager to get a look at the 21-year-old negro who has knocked out 22 of 26 opponents and decisioned the other four.

From the ballyhoo you might expect an 11-second knockout, allowing one second for the windup and pitch. But they say he's not that kind of a banger.

"Gil is not a puncher," says his proprietor who also is a picture frame manufacturer. "Please tell the people not to expect him to knock out anybody with a punch. The knockouts give people the wrong idea. He knocks them out after he wears them down. Usually the referee has to stop it."

If He Learns To Punch?

For a fellow who isn't a puncher, the .846 knockout average is pretty convincing. Wonder what he'll do when he learns how to punch?

Beau Jack went all the way the first time. Turner took him out in eight in their second fight. Charlie Fusari lasted to the 11th, Bernie Docusen to the sixth, and Ike Williams until the last 32 seconds of the 10th round.

"Some people feel he doesn't know how to pace himself," says Katz. "But they're wrong. I wouldn't let him in there with those tough guys if I thought he couldn't carry out a plan. He just listens and then does what he has been told."

Cardell, a willing aggressive fighter would seem to be the perfect foil to make Turner look good coast to coast. Most men run the other way when a matchmaker mentions Turner but Cardell's manager is a rugged type.

So, we'll watch and see about young Mr. Turner. Maybe he is another Louis or Robinson. Maybe he's just another Blackjack Billy Fox. Remember?

Mine Explosion Report Due Soon

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Dec. 27 (AP) — Federal and state officials today completed their underground investigation of the blasted coal mine in which 119 men were killed, but would not disclose their findings.

These will be made in a report to be prepared by both groups, possibly within 10 days.

The estimate was that of John Forbes, head of the U. S. Bureau of Mines. He was among some 30 investigators who made an on-the-spot inquiry. Company and union officials also participated.

500-Pound Youth Who Was Too Big For School Dies

PIKESVILLE, Ky., (AP) — Virgil Tackett, 26-year-old Pike Countain who weighed between 500 and 600 pounds, died this week.

Death came as he sat in his reinforced chair at the little home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Tackett, on nearby Robinson Creek. He had been ill of a heart condition.

Virgil was big all his life — he weighed 13 pounds at birth — but he wasn't at all sensitive about it. His parents said he hadn't been weighed accurately since he got his growth.

He never went to school. The family doctor said the walk to the schoolhouse would endanger his life. Also, he was too big for the seats built for normal children.

He filled a large part of his room in which he sat most of the time. His bed was an ordinary type braced with four by four's to support his great heft.

Virgil didn't use the bed much. He found his chair more comfortable for sleeping.

He was mighty fond of his mother. She made his clothes and helped him dress. He was so big he couldn't bend over to tie his shoes — his mother did that for him.

Mostly he wore overalls and jackets. But manufacturers didn't make any large enough for him. His parents solved the problem by buying two pairs of the biggest size made — 56. The two pairs sewn together fitted Virgil nicely.

His thighs measured 40 inches and his waist, 78. One leg of his overalls would have made a pair of paints for the average fat man. He was six feet, one.

His parents are average-sized people. His father, a miner, weighs 122 pounds. His mother weighs 145 pounds.

Chicago Girl Weds Defrocked Priest

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 27 (AP) — Blonde Claire Young of Chicago today married the defrocked priest for whom she defied her family and renounced her American citizenship.

"I'm very happy now after all the troubles I had in the past," said the 21-year-old Claire. She was married in Milan's city hall to the former Roman Catholic missionary, Luciano Negrini, 43.

Both Negrini and his bride suffered automatic excommunication from the Catholic church for the marriage.

Big Span Damages Bay Bridge Trusses

MATAPEAKE, Md., Dec. 27 (AP)—A big span which broke loose from towing tugs and smashed into the Chesapeake Bay bridge trusses have caused up to $100,000 in damages, a spokesman for J. E. Greiner Co., bridge engineers, said yesterday.

The 480-foot section, weighing 1,500 tons, was swept away in high winds. After hitting the bridge structure, the span drifted to the Eastern Shore and the four barges carrying it went aground near the Matapeake ferry landing near here.

Orange Sherbet Cups

1 package orange sherbet mix
1 cup milk
1 cup water
6 orange cups

Measure milk and water into bowl. Add contents of package of orange sherbet mix. Beat with a rotary beater until dissolved—about 2 minutes. Pour mixture into freezing tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen, remove from tray to bowl. Break up into small lumps with fork or potato masher. Beat with electric or hand beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until fairly firm. To make orange cups, cut oranges in half and scoop out pulp and juice. With knife, flute cut edge of orange halves. When ready to serve, fill each cup with a scoop of orange sherbert and place on platter around turkey.

Other flavors of sherbet can be served with the main course. Here are two particularly tangy recipes for you to try.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Youth Held In Christmas Hit-Run Death

Keister Charged With Manslaughter

State Police yesterday afternoon took a Cresaptown youth into custody today on a charge of manslaughter by motor vehicle in a hit-run highway accident which resulted in the death of 52-year-old James Richard Long on Christmas Day.

Trooper John F. Browning of the State Police, who investigated, identified the youth as Gene Gilbert Keister, 24. He is being held at Allegany County Jail pending a hearing, according to Browning.

The extensive search for the driver was started immediately following the accident which occurred about 100 yards east of Evitt's Creek Bridge. City police joined in the search.

Trooper Browning acted on information from several motorists in the area where Long was killed. Keister, according to police, was picked up at Gilbert Keister's Garage in Cresaptown, where the youth is employed by his father.

Keister was driving a 1950 automobile at the time of the accident, police said, and he admitted striking the Baltimore and Ohio worker as Long was returning from a Christmas dinner with relatives.

The Cresaptown youth was en route from Paw Paw, W. Va. to Cumberland on Route 51 when the fatility occurred, police said. Long was pronounced dead upon arrival at Memorial Hospital at 7:35 p. m., according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

Had Many Injuries

Death was attributed to shock and intra-abdominal hemorrhage caused by a crushed pelvis.

Long, who had been employed by the railroad as a car repairman helper for 32 years, also suffered a compound fracture of the lower left leg, cuts of the head and body and abrasions. The time of the accident was placed at 6:40 p. m. and Long was found lying in the road by a passing motorist.

Dr. Deming said Long went to the home of his son-in-law, Howard Grimm, Jr., Oldtown Road for dinner. He left the house about 2 p. m. to make another visit.

Trooper Browning said Long was walking toward Cumberland on the left side of Route 51 when he was hit and knocked to the opposite lane of traffic.

Auto Parts Found

According to Trooper Browning, Long was alive when he reached him at 6:50. Broken parts from an automobile reportedly headed west were found nearby.

The body will remain at the home for services today at 2 p. m. with Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of Cumberland Methodist Circuit, officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Herman Cemetery.

Meanwhile, City Police continue a probe into the hit-run accident in the 200 block of Pulaski Street December 16 which resulted in injuries to Ronald Shook, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Shook.

The boy, who was hit while sled riding, suffered a fractured right thigh and head injuries. His condition at Allegany Hospital was reported last night as satisfactory by attaches.

Yule Lighting To Be Judged In Ridgeley

Heiskell Heads Lions Committee

Entries in the Outdoor Christmas Lighting contest sponsored by the Ridgeley Lions Club will be judged tonight.

Included will be 13 homes in Ridgeley, Carpenter's Addition and Maryland Junction.

Judging will be done tonight from 7:30 to 9 p. m. by Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, a member of the Cumberland Park Board; C. William Teubner and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Six prizes will be awarded in the contest, the first of the kind to be sponsored by the Ridgeley, W. Va., club.

Melvin M. Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, is chairman of the Christmas Lighting Contest.

The Ridgeley service club hopes to continue the project as one of its services to the community.

Hospital Area Dust Report Is Due February 1

Test Jars Show Increase In Dirt

Reports on tests of air pollution in the Memorial Hospital area should be ready by February 1, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, reported yesterday.

A three-month test based on collection jars shows a normal increase in air pollution.

Hitchcock said some of the increase is undoubtedly due to smoke and fly ash from home stokers and hand-fired furnaces.

Three Jars Placed

Three test jars were placed in the area August 20 following a flood of complaints from residents of the area.

Hitchcock said one jar was placed on the home of Police Commissioner John J. Long at 518 Ridgewood Avenue, the second on the Memorial Hospital penthouse and the third on the roof of the Nurses Home at Memorial Hospital.

For the first month, beginning August 20, average dustfall was 2.61 tons per square mile. The second month showed the average up to 6.06 tons and the third 11.43.

Hitchcock said a jar on the Nurses Home was turned over, necessitating a re-run of tests for the fourth month.

Possibilities Cited

Possibilities of further improvement in the operation of the boilers at the city-owned hospital was also reported by Hitchcock.

He said the Breslove Separator Company, Pittsburgh, is conducting tests to determine whether its fly ash collector would control the situation.

The firm has taken dust and fly ash collected in the area so its chemists can analyze the samples.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Harkcom, 738 North Mechanic Street, Wednesday in Somerset (Pa.) Community Hospital. The mother is the former Miss Audrey Mae Groff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Groff of Berlin, Pa.

Jennings Youth Injured In Sled Riding Mishap

An eight-year-old Jennings boy ran into the path of an automobile yesterday afternoon while sled riding and received a head injury, according to State Police.

Bobby W. Bittinger, was taken to the hospital at Meyersdale, Pa. The accident occurred, police added, on Main Street in Jennings about 3:30 p. m. yesterday. The boy came from a blind alley into the path of an automobile driven by Lorrane Wiley, 18, of Grantsville. No charges have been preferred, police noted.

VICTIM OF STORM—The above car buried in ice and snow on Park Street is only one of the hundreds of vehicles in Cumberland which were stranded when the recent heavy snowstorms hit the city. Snow and ice pushed against the parked vehicle by passing snowplows have frozen solid against the car. On a number of local streets, cars parked on both sides of the street have narrowed the thoroughfares to one lane, causing numerous traffic tie-ups. Buses especially have trouble on streets where cars are parked.

Registration Mistake Costs Trucker $336

Hagerstown Man Fined For Overload

A mistake in the registration of a trailer used for hauling beer between Cumberland and Hagerstown cost its owner $336 in fines yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court.

The owner is Robert Wilson South, 731 Virginia Avenue, Hagerstown. His driver, Daniel S. Hager was issued an overload ticket by Patrolman Richard F. Boyle of the State Roads Commission December 5 and was charged with having an overload of 5,600 pounds on Route 40.

Unusual Twist

The unusual factor in the case is that although South's truck was carrying a lawful load according to its size and make, the load was illegal because the trailer's registration certificate allowed only a gross tonnage of 34,000 pounds.

According to two letters turned over to the court yesterday by South, it was shown that South applied for title and license tags through the Delphey Service, Hagerstown, when the trailer was purchased in August.

Melvin Shipley, of Delphey's Service, stated in his letter to South that South had requested to have the weight of his trailer raised, and if South had done so, a notation calling for the new weight would be attached to the application sent to the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles office in Baltimore.

Shipley said in his letter that this note could have been lost from the title application or the same could have been a slipup in the Motor Vehicle Department.

South also submitted a letter from Robert B. Garrett, transportation analyst for the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles, who wrote in answer to South's request for information concerning the case.

Trailer Registered

Garrett said in his letter that a search through the department's records indicated that when South bought the trailer in August and had it registered at the Department of Motor Vehicles office under the Shuttle Relay system through Delphey's Service, South was charged only for the $15 tax payable on a trailer of 34,000 pounds gross tonnage.

Garrett continued in his letter that no request was made at that time for an increase to a higher category, although South stated he instructed the Delphey people to have the change made so that the trailer would correspond more nearly with South's other trailers of similar size which are rated at 55,000 pounds gross.

However, Magistrate J. Milton Dick ruled that since registration on the trailer at the time of arrest limited the vehicle to 34,000 pounds gross tonnage, the truck was overloaded 5,600 pounds. He imposed a fine of $336 and $1.45 costs.

South informed Magistrate Dick that he would appeal the decision in Circuit Court.

Weather

The sun which appeared yesterday morning failed to warm the chilly breeze that swept the city. The Weather Bureau predicts more cold temperatures for the weekend accompanied by snow as a cold air mass moves eastward from the Plains States. The Bureau said the mercury would drop to between 10 and 15 degrees this morning with the highest temperature during the day being between 25 and 32 degrees. Increasing cloudiness is expected to develop today and tomorrow with snow tomorrow night or Sunday. The official high temperature in the city yesterday was 27 degrees according to reports from the weather station at Constitution Park. The low was 21 and at 8 p.m. the thermometer leveled at 23 degrees. Humidity at 6 o'clock last night was 53 per cent.

District Troops, Packs Plan Events For Boy Scout Week

Observance Is Set Feb. 6-12

District Troops and Packs of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, are planning activities and scheduling programs for Boy Scout Week to be held throughout the nation February 6 to 12.

Recently the Cumberland District commissioner staff met with the Camping and Activities Committee for the purpose of drawing up a tentative program for the event, according to H. Vernon Adams, district commissioner. At the district committee meeting a program was approved.

Adams said two major events have been planned, a Cub and Scout Exposition to be held in the State Armory Thursday, February 7, and a Convocation at Fort Hill High School Auditorium Sunday afternoon, February 10.

Plan Displays

Troops and Packs are planning window displays to be placed in several neighborhoods.

The Exposition will be based upon the merit badge requirements, Scout and Cub skills and advancement requirements. Booths will be erected along the side of the armory by each unit, and the Troop or Pack will arrange one or more exhibits on some phase of Scouting.

Included in the different exhibits will be cooking, fingerprinting, knot tying, rope yard, chemistry, tincan craft, trail camping, woodwork, carpentry, conservation, model planes, stamp collecting, coin collecting, tree identification, photography and woodcarving.

Also there will be displays on handicraft, pioneering, metal work, first aid, leathercraft, games and skill, miniatures, Indian lore, tenderfoot requirements, electricity, signaling, tracking, firemanship, camp gadgets, home repairs, cycling and packs and beds.

Convocation Set

Cubbers are planning displays such as back yard games, Indian lore, family fun, handicraft, cub workshop, scrapbooks, and tepee making.

In a letter to all council troops and packs, Adams urged all groups to meet as soon as possible to decide on three choice subjects in preference first, second and third. Each group should call its commissioner by January 1 and indicate its subjects. Unit assignments will be made and each Troop or Pack will be expected to design and set up their own booth.

The Sunday afternoon convocation will include participation by all religious faiths.

District Cub Scouts Plan "Pow Wow"

January 19 Event Has Four Sections

Cubbers of the 12 Cub packs in the Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will attend the Cub leaders "Pow Wow" Saturday, January 19 from 1 to 7:30 p. m. in the new Science Building of Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., according to Dr. John L. Dunkle, Frostburg, general chairman.

Dr. Dunkle said this will be the first time that a Pow Wow has been held in the district.

Each pack's Cubmaster plans to enter a number of cubbers in each of the four sections of the event.

The sections include (1) games: playing and learning direct games; (2) pack administration: pack management, records, finance, personnel training and program planning; (3) handicraft: crafts related to advancement, themes and fixing up the Den; and (4) ceremonies and entertainment: ceremonies and dramatization, social mixers, etc.

Chairmen To Be Named

Dr. Dunkle said the four sections will be conducted by cubbers from the Shenandoah Area Council, Winchester, Va. It is hoped that future Pow Wows will be held at Camp Potomac after the initial one in Keyser, Dr. Dunkle added.

Each Cubmaster will designate from his pack's staff a pack exhibits chairman and a pack decoration chairman.

The exhibits chairman will be in charge of getting the pack to make something to display in the space provided for his individual pack at the Pow Wow. Each pack is free to display any form of exhibit it desires.

To Spark Program

The pack decorations chairman will be in charge of the pack's effort to make colorful decorations for its table at the Pow Wow banquet in the evening.

Dr. Dunkle stated it is hoped the Pow Wow will put a spark in the Potomac Council's Cub Scout Program. He said the Shenandoah Area Council's Pow Wows have been very successful.

The local council is asking prospective organizations interested in starting a Cub Pack to attend the program. If enough enthusiasm is shown at this Pow Wow, Dr. Dunkle added, Potomac Council will plan more events of this sort for the future.

Snow Clearing Work Continued By City Crews

North Mechanic To Be Plowed

City Street Department crews were slated last night to resume work on clearing ice and snow from North Mechanic Street.

Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent, said crews will work up from Valley Sreet as far as they can go during the night.

The street clearing crews worked all last night clearing ice from the sides of North Mechanic Street.

The grader, loader and trucks managed to clear the width of the street from Bedford to Market Street, and one side from Market to Valley Street.

On Job All Night

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, and Corrigan remained on the job until early yesterday morning.

The Police Department had an officer stationed with the project until the workers stopped yesterday morning.

Much trouble was experienced, onlookers said, in removing the frozen slush. At times the piles were so frozen, the rear end of the ten-ton grader would be stopped and swung around.

Mrs. Roeder said she is compiling figures on the amount of snow that has to be removed from an average city block, as taken from the tonnage removed from North Mechanic Street.

Work Is Difficult

Corrigan said removal of the heavy ice was "very difficult" and reported that while perfect results were not obtained, removal of the heavy deposits will help.

"We're doing the best we can," he concluded.

Buses weres till unable to keep on schedule yesterday as the result of the icy streets, many of which have been narrowed to one lane as a result of cars parked on both sides of the driveways.

The City Garbage Collector reported that the icy conditions in the city have complicated collections, although the schedule has been maintained.

Has Close Call

One of the heavy garbage trucks had a close call early this week, when it started slipping on the ice covered hill of City View Terrace.

Icy roads leading to the city dump have also complicated the work.

On the number of icy streets, collections have been possible only after the contents of ash cans were dumped upon the ice.

The trouble, however, is that that is only possible where the workers are sure that cans contain only ashes....and in most cases garbage is present.

Several local streets were reported considerably safer for travel as a result of the efforts of the garbage collections.

The sun which has been doing a good job of snow and ice removal for several days, scarcely had a chance yesterday as a cold wave hit the area.

Official temperatures yesterday ranged from a low of 21 to high of 27 degrees.

Register Of Wills' Office Plans Lengthy Holiday

Register of Wills, A. Charles Stewart said yesterday that his office will observe a lengthy holiday over the New Year's weekend.

The office will close at noon Saturday and will remain closed until Wednesday morning, January 2.

Recruiting Offices To Close Monday

The Army and Air Force Recruiting Office here will be closed Monday and Tuesday, according to M/-Sgt. Virgil Burns, recruiter in charge.

The office will be opened all day tomorrow however, Burns said.

News In Brief

Cumberland Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges will hold the annual kiddies party for children tonight at 7:45 at the Odd Fellows Home, South Mechanic Street. All Odd Fellows and their families are invited. The party had been scheduled for last Friday but was postponed.

A New Year's Eve Dance will be sponsored by the two local National Guard companies Monday night in the State Armory, with music by Bill Higgs and his Melody Rangers.

City Registration Staff Begins Final Checking Of Voting Cards

Final checking of voters listed in Cumberland's continuous registration system is slated to being this week.

Personnel of the office located in the basement of City Hall yesterday completed filing the last cards in the permanent file and work on the loose leaf binders which will be taken to the polls is nearing completion.

It will take about three weeks more to type registration cards for the remaining three and one-half loose leaf books, it was estimated.

While that work is going on, the cards in the permanent files will be checked against the loose leaf books to avoid any errors or duplications.

The complete job may be completed about the middle of January, when new registrations begin in earnest. So far, only 184 new voters have been added to the books since September.

A number of errors have already cropped up, especially where voters registered in new precincts and neglected to have their names removed from the books in their own precinct.

As an example one voter was registered twice in the same precinct but in different years.

Prize Cow Killed As Snow Breaks Electric Wire

A freak accident Wednesday morning at the farm of Peter Grabenstein, Winchester Bridge, resulted in the electrocution of one of his prize dairy cows.

The animal was standing in the barnyard, according to Grabenstein, when a quantity of snow and sleet slipped from the roof of the barn and snapped an electric wire.

As the wire fell to the ground, the cow was struck and electrocuted. The accident occurred about 11:30 a. m. as the sun melted the section of snow and sleet loose, Grabenstein added.

Pilots Use Skis As Port Remains Clogged With Ice

Partly-Cleared Runway Is Tested

Cumberland's snowbound Municipal Airport remained closed yesterday to all but ski-equipped light planes flown by private pilots.

All-American Airways cancelled all flights to and from Cumberland nearly two weeks ago after two heavy snows within five days left runways clogged with nearly a foot of ice and snow.

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company cleared 2,500 feet of one runway at its own expense for use by the company plane.

Is "Very Unsafe"

But after one trial flight yesterday, company representatives said the runway was still "very unsafe."

Warren Mullenax, airport manager, said the runway remained dangerous because crosswinds threatened to push planes into walls of ice of neither side.

One gust, he said, could cause a crash. Most of the wind, he explained, strikes the runway at an angle.

Mellenax, who also operates Queen City Air Service, said he has equipped his own planes with skis and has flown them successfully. But he said only a few other pilots have risked flying under such conditions.

Plane Lands Safely

Yesterday, a transient Beechraft Bonanza, a single-engined plane, landed and took off safely at the airport.

But, said Mullenax, "As far as I'm concerned, the field has been closed since last Tuesday."

All American has said it would resume local flights only if the city would clear runways of ice and snow The city said it has made no provisions for keeping the port clear, but agreed to consider removal of future snowfalls if all American Airways renews its certificate for flights to Cumberland.

Kabler Named To TWUA Post

John M. Kabler has been named acting director of the Synthetic Yarn division of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), Playford Aldridge, president of Celanese Local 1874, TWUA, announced yesterday.

Kabler has been in Cumberland on a number of occasions to assist in arbitration cases while he was serving as a field director in the Synthetic Yarn division.

The temporary appointment was made recently following the death early this month of Herbert W. Payne, TWUA vice president and director of the Synthetic Yarn division for many years.

Kabler is slated to serve in the important TWUA post until the return to the United States of Wesley Cook, assistant director of the division, who was granted a leave of absence to serve on the ECA.

For the past two years, Cook has been serving in Austria in the labor division of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

The ECA official aided in Local 1874 contract negotiations from 1942 to 1948.

Victim's Widow Helps Hughes Get Clemency

Trucker's Term Lowered To Month

Because the widow of the man he fatally injured asked that clemency be extended, William J. Hughes, 25-year old Midland trucker, will have to serve only one month in the Allegany County Jail for manslaughter.

Hughes began serving a three-month sentence here December 11 after the Maryland Court of Appeals upheld his conviction in Allegany County Circuit Court on the involuntary manslaughter charge.

Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish and Associate Judge George Henderson, who jointly tried the case, sentenced Hughes April 21.

Struck Picket

The Midland man was arrested May 3, 1950, soon after the truck he was driving struck and fatally injured Thomas Robertson, 43-year old Lonaconing miner. Robertson was on a picket line along the Old Cemetery Road at Knapp's Meadow at the time. He died a short time later in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Judges Mish and Henderson yesterday decided to reduce the jail term to one month after having received a letter signed by Mrs. Ora K. Robertson, widow of the miner.

The letter read:

"I am the widow of Thomas Robertson, who was killed in the accident which resulted in the conviction of William Hughes for manslaughter. He was thereupon sentenced to 90 days in the Allegany County Jail.

"I want to say that I hold no animosity towards Mr. Hughes and I realize that it was a very unfortunate occurrence which resulted in the death of Mr. Robertson. I am sure that Mr. Hughes feels as badly about it as anyone else and I do not believe it would answer any good purpose to confine him in jail.

Claim Settled

"I might advise that my claim was settled for $9,750. The insurance policy which Mr. Hughes carried only covered him up to $5,000 and consequently it was necessary for Mr. Hughes and his family to gather the additional money in order to make the settlement. Therefore, it has cost him and his family close to $5,000 additional.

"I am perfectly willing to recommend to the court that William Hughes be paroled, as I am sure that you must agree with me that Mr. Hughes is not the criminal type.

"I might state that the above letter, while not written by me, expresses entirely my feeling in the matter."

Fair Association To Name Leaders

Officers and directors of the Cumberland Fair Association will be elected Monday, January 21, at the annual stockholders' meeting. General Manager Harry E. Flook said last night.

The meeting will be held at the association's office, 15 South Liberty Street.

Present officers besides Flook are Tasker G. Lowndes, president; J. Glenn Beall, vice-president; John Schwarzenbach, treasurer; Carl Schmutz, corresponding secretary; Frank A. Wolfhope, auditor. Directors are Earl C. Robertson, Lowndes, Schwarzenbach, F. Brooke Whiting, Charles Jeffries, Schmutz, R. F. McHenry, Albert O'Neal, Harry J. Barton, Beall, Clifton W. White, Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., Wolfhope, William Winterberg and Flook.

City Workers To Get Four-Day Holiday

City workers will have a long New Year's vacation.

City Hall will close today at 5 p. m. and reopen Wednesday morning.

Monday's regular meeting of the Mayor and Council will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m.

The Health Department office will observe the same schedule.

Wiser Selection Of Fabrics May Result From FTC Ruling

To help consumers make a better selection of modern textile products, the Federal Trade Commission recently ruled that all fabrics containing acetate or rayon yarn must be individually identified in all fabric labels, advertisements and sales promotion material.

The FTC decision amends its own 1937 ruling which classified acetate fabrics under the generic term "rayon." From now on, the term rayon will apply only to fabrics containing yarns made by the viscose or cuprammonium (Bemberg) process.

The Celanese Corporation of America said recently, individual labeling of acetate and rayon fabrics provides a long-needed buying guide for consumers. Previously, the average consumer was not fully aware of the important wearing, washing and handling differences between fabrics made of acetate and those made of rayon.

Although the innate differences between the two yarns were long recognized in the textile industry, the differentiation was not carried through to the retail store and consumer level because of the Federal Trade Commission's 1937 ruling which lumped both under the same general term.

Acetate, an old product with a new retail name, now stands on its own feet. That, of course, necessitates a comprehensive consumer education program to acquaint the buying public with the distinctive characteristics of fabrics made of acetate yarn.

Such an educational program, the most extensive in the history of the textile industry, will be sponsored by Celanese, the pioneer and largest produce of acetate yarn. The company's newly-formed Acetate Information Bureau will assist department stores and apparel manufacturers by providing them with correct fiber identification material.

Chief objective of the FTC ruling is to provide consumers with a better understanding of modern textile fibers, thereby eliminating the misunderstanding and misuse which cause customer complaints — particularly important today when virtually every American wardrobe includes garments made of the new chemical fibers, including recent developments like nylon and others.

It's interesting to note, however, that acetate and rayon — the earlier man-made fibers — still account for more than 90 per cent of all apparel fabrics made of chemical fibers.

Last year, 56 per cent of all women's outerwear sales were garments made of acetate or rayon. Cotton, silk, wool and all other fibers shared the remaining 44 per cent. In better dress lines, acetate and rayon dresses accounted for 23,081,000 unit sales against only 5,816,000 for all other fibers combined. These two early man-made fibers also dominated the blouse, lingerie and sportswear field, with acetate used more often than its chemical colleague, rayon.

"He does it every time; borrows his dad's balloon to advertise collection day on his newspaper route. Pretty smart lad!"

Faith In America's Future Expressed By Celanese Head

Faith in the future of America under our "new progressive capitalism" with its free markets and open competition was expressed recently by Harold Blancke, president of the Celanese Corporation of America.

"If we succeed in preserving this system," Blancke said, "we need not fear for the long-term future."

Blancke, in an address on "Modernization", said he was confident of this result, "because socialism and European laissez-faire capitalism make the same mistakes over and over again" and continued:

"They persist in emphasizing permanent economic controls which result, both intentionally and unintentionally, in restricted production, high costs, lower real wages, loss of purchasing power and loss of competitive position in world markets.

Compares Systems

"They deprive the individual of freedom to choose what and when to buy. They attempt to distribute wealth and they succeed in distributing poverty."

He compared the American and English cotton and synthetic yarn industries to show the difference between the America's progressive capitalistic system with modern management ideas and the English system hampered with excessive taxation and socialistic controls.

The Economic Cooperation Administration textile team, Blancke said, provided the following comparison:

Automatic looms, U.S.A., nearly 100 per cent; Great Britain, 7 per cent.

Average production per worker per week, U.S.A., 424 yards; Great Britain, 146 yards.

Change in average weekly production since 1937, U.S.A., up 9,000,000 yards; Great Britain, down 30,000,000 yards.

Change in number of employes since 1937, U.S.A., up 18,000; Great Britain, down 84,000.

Hours worked per week, U.S.A., 40; Great Britain, 45 hours.

Average pay per hour, U.S.A., $1.30; Great Britain, 38 cents.

Average pay per employe a week U.S.A., $55; Great Britain, $17.

Hits Low Wages

But the low wages paid in English mills, he added, provides no advantages.

"Contrary to the impression in some places," Blancke emphasized, "there is no advantage in low wages. Moreover, low wages prevent development of markets and make it difficult for hourly workers to buy the products they themselves create.

"In our economy we increasingly depend upon our wage earning people to provide a growing markets for our products. This is one of the strongest reasons for the strength and dynamic quality of American industry."

Youth Held In Christmas Hit-Run Death

Keister Charged With Manslaughter

State Police yesterday afternoon took a Cresaptown youth into custody on a charge of manslaughter by motor vehicle in a hit-run highway accident which resulted in the death of 52-year-old James Richard Long on Christmas Day.

Trooper John F. Browning of the State Police, who investigated, identified the youth as Gene Gilbert Keister, 24. He is being held at Allegany County Jail pending a hearing, according to Browning.

The extensive search for the driver was started immediately following the accident which occurred about 100 yards east of Evitt's Creek Bridge. City police joined in the search.

Trooper Browning acted on information from several motorists in the area where Long was killed. Keister, according to police, was picked up at Gilbert Keister's Garage in Cresaptown, where the youth is employed by his father.

Keister was driving a 1950 automobile at the time of the accident, police said, and he admitted striking the Baltimore and Ohio worker as Long was returning from a Christmas dinner with relatives.

The Cresaptown youth was en route from Paw Paw, W. Va. to Cumberland on Route 51 when the fatility occurred, police said. Long was pronounced dead upon arrival at Memorial Hospital at 7:35 p. m., according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

Had Many Injuries

Death was attributed to shock and intra-abdominal hemorrhage caused by a crushed pelvis.

Long, who had been employed by the railroad as a car repairman helper for 32 years, also suffered a compound fracture of the lower left leg, cuts of the head and body and abrasions. The time of the accident was placed at 6:40 p. m. and Long was found lying in the road by a passing motorist.

Dr. Deming said Long went to the home of his son-in-law, Howard Grimm, Jr., Oldtown Road for dinner. He left the house about 2 p. m. to make another visit.

Trooper Browning said Long was walking toward Cumberland on the left side of Route 51 when he was hit and knocked to the opposite lane of traffic.

Auto Parts Found

According to Trooper Browning, Long was alive when he reached him at 6:50. Broken parts from an automobile reportedly headed west were found nearby.

The body will remain at the home for services today at 2 p. m. with Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of Cumberland Methodist Circuit, officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Herman Cemetery.

Meanwhile, City Police continue a probe into the hit-run accident in the 200 block of Pulaski Street December 16 which resulted in injuries to Ronald Shook, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Shook.

The boy, who was hit while sled riding, suffered a fractured right thigh and head injuries. His condition at Allegany Hospital was reported last night as satisfactory by attaches.

Jennings Youth Injured In Sled Riding Mishap

An eight-year-old Jennings boy ran into the path of an automobile yesterday afternoon while sled riding and received a head injury, according to State Police.

Bobby W. Bittinger, was taken to the hospital at Meyersdale, Pa. The accident occurred, police added, on Main Street in Jennings about 3:30 p. m. yesterday. The boy came from a blind alley into the path of an automobile driven by Lorrane Wiley, 18, of Grantsville. No charges have been preferred, police noted.

Yule Lighting To Be Judged In Ridgeley

Heiskell Heads Lions Committee

Entries in the Outdoor Christmas Lighting contest sponsored by the Ridgeley Lions Club will be judged tonight.

Included will be 13 homes in Ridgeley, Carpenter's Addition and Maryland Junction.

Judging will be done tonight from 7:30 to 9 p. m. by Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, a member of the Cumberland Park Board; C. William Teubner and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Six prizes will be awarded in the contest, the first of the kind to be sponsored by the Ridgeley, W. Va., club.

Melvin M. Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, is chairman of the Christmas Lighting Contest.

The Ridgeley service club hopes to continue the project as one of its services to the community.

Hospital Area Dust Report Is Due February 1

Test Jars Show Increase In Dirt

Reports on tests of air pollution in the Memorial Hospital area should be ready by February 1, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, reported yesterday.

A three-month test based on collection jars shows a normal increase in air pollution.

Hitchcock said some of the increase is undoubtedly due to smoke and fly ash from home stokers and hand-fired furnaces.

Three Jars Placed

Three test jars were placed in the area August 20 following a flood of complaints from residents of the area.

Hitchcock said one jar was placed on the home of Police Commissioner John J. Long at 518 Ridgewood Avenue, the second on the Memorial Hospital penthouse and the third on the roof of the Nurses Home at Memorial Hospital.

For the first month, beginning August 20, average dustfall was 2.61 tons per square mile. The second month showed the average up to 6.06 tons and the third 11.43.

Hitchcock said a jar on the Nurses Home was turned over, necessitating a re-run of tests for the fourth month.

Possibilities Cited

Possibilities of further improvement in the operation of the boilers at the city-owned hospital was also reported by Hitchcock.

He said the Breslove Separator Company, Pittsburgh, is conducting tests to determine whether its fly ash collector would control the situation.

The firm has taken dust and fly ash collected in the area so its chemists can analyze the samples.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Tinsley, 351 South Monroe Street, Baltimore, announce the birth of a daughter December 13. Mrs. Tinsley is the former Miss Juanita Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Miller, Cresaptown.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Appel, of Rockville, Tuesday at Bethesda Suburban Hospital. The father is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Appel, 525 Columbia Avenue. The mother is the former Miss Marylee Sine, Mt. Savage.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Harkcom, 738 North Mechanic Street, Wednesday in Somerset (Pa.) Community Hospital. The mother is the former Miss Audrey Mae Groff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Groff of Berlin, Pa.

VICTIM OF STORM—The above car buried in ice and snow on Park Street is only one of the hundreds of vehicles in Cumberland which were stranded when the recent heavy snowstorms hit the city. Snow and ice pushed against the parked vehicle by passing snowplows have frozen solid against the car. On a number of local streets, cars parked on both sides of the street have narrowed the thoroughfares to one lane, causing numerous traffic tie-ups. Buses especially have trouble on streets where cars are parked.

Registration Mistake Costs Trucker $336

Hagerstown Man Fined For Overload

A mistake in the registration of a trailer used for hauling beer between Cumberland and Hagerstown cost its owner $336 in fines yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court.

The owner is Robert Wilson South, 731 Virginia Avenue, Hagerstown. His driver, Daniel S. Hager was issued an overload ticket by Patrolman Richard F. Boyle of the State Roads Commission December 5 and was charged with having an overload of 5,600 pounds on Route 40.

Unusual Twist

The unusual factor in the case is that although South's truck was carrying a lawful load according to its size and make, the load was illegal because the trailer's registration certificate allowed only a gross tonnage of 34,000 pounds.

According to two letters turned over to the court yesterday by South, it was shown that South applied for title and license tags through the Delphey Service, Hagerstown, when the trailer was purchased in August.

Melvin Shipley, of Delphey's Service, stated in his letter to South that South had requested to have the weight of his trailer raised, and if South had done so, a notation calling for the new weight would be attached to the application sent to the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles office in Baltimore.

Shipley said in his letter that this note could have been lost from the title application or the same could have been a slipup in the Motor Vehicle Department.

South also submitted a letter from Robert B. Garrett, transportation analyst for the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles, who wrote in answer to South's request for information concerning the case.

Trailer Registered

Garrett said in his letter that a search through the department's records indicated that when South bought the trailer in August and had it registered at the Department of Motor Vehicles office under the Shuttle Relay system through Delphey's Service, South was charged only for the $15 tax payable on a trailer of 34,000 pounds gross tonnage.

Garrett continued in his letter that no request was made at that time for an increase to a higher category, although South stated he instructed the Delphey people to have the change made so that the trailer would correspond more nearly with South's other trailers of similar size which are rated at 55,000 pounds gross.

However, Magistrate J. Milton Dick ruled that since registration on the trailer at the time of arrest limited the vehicle to 34,000 pounds gross tonnage, the truck was overloaded 5,600 pounds. He imposed a fine of $336 and $1.45 costs.

South informed Magistrate Dick that he would appeal the decision in Circuit Court.

Weather

The sun which appeared yesterday morning failed to warm the chilly breeze that swept the city. The Weather Bureau predicts more cold temperatures for the weekend accompanied by snow as a cold air mass moves eastward from the Plains States. The Bureau said the mercury would drop to between 10 and 15 degrees this morning with the highest temperature during the day being between 25 and 32 degrees. Increasing cloudiness is expected to develop today and tomorrow with snow tomorrow night or Sunday. The official high temperature in the city yesterday was 27 degrees according to reports from the weather station at Constitution Park. The low was 21 and at 8 p.m. the thermometer leveled at 23 degrees. Humidity at 6 o'clock last night was 53 per cent.

The Exposition will be based upon the merit badge requirements, Scout and Cub skills and advancement requirements. Booths will be erected along the side of the armory by each unit, and the Troop or Pack will arrange one or more exhibits on some phase of Scouting.

Included in the different exhibits will be cooking, fingerprinting, knot tying, rope yard, chemistry, tincan craft, trail camping, woodwork, carpentry, conservation, model planes, stamp collecting, coin collecting, tree identification, photography and woodcarving.

Also there will be displays on handicraft, pioneering, metal work, first aid, leathercraft, games and skill, miniatures, Indian lore, tenderfoot requirements, electricity, signaling, tracking, firemanship, camp gadgets, home repairs, cycling and packs and beds.

Convocation Set

Cubbers are planning displays such as back yard games, Indian lore, family fun, handicraft, cub workshop, scrapbooks, and tepee making.

In a letter to all council troops and packs, Adams urged all groups to meet as soon as possible to decide on three choice subjects in preference first, second and third. Each group should call its commissioner by January 1 and indicate its subjects. Unit assignments will be made and each Troop or Pack will be expected to design and set up their own booth.

The Sunday afternoon convocation will include participation by all religious faiths.

Register Of Wills' Office Plans Lengthy Holiday

Register of Wills, A. Charles Stewart said yesterday that his office will observe a lengthy holiday over the New Year's weekend.

The office will close at noon Saturday and will remain closed until Wednesday morning, January 2.

Recruiting Offices To Close Monday

The Army and Air Force Recruiting Office here will be closed Monday and Tuesday, according to M/-Sgt. Virgil Burns, recruiter in charge.

The office will be opened all day tomorrow however, Burns said.

District Cub Scouts Plan "Pow Wow"

January 19 Event Has Four Sections

Cubbers of the 12 Cub packs in the Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will attend the Cub leaders "Pow Wow" Saturday, January 19 from 1 to 7:30 p. m. in the new Science Building of Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., according to Dr. John L. Dunkle, Frostburg, general chairman.

Dr. Dunkle said this will be the first time that a Pow Wow has been held in the district.

Each pack's Cubmaster plans to enter a number of cubbers in each of the four sections of the event.

The sections include (1) games: playing and learning direct games; (2) pack administration: pack management, records, finance, personnel training and program planning; (3) handicraft: crafts related to advancement, themes and fixing up the Den; and (4) ceremonies and entertainment: ceremonies and dramatization, social mixers, etc.

Chairmen To Be Named

Dr. Dunkle said the four sections will be conducted by cubbers from the Shenandoah Area Council, Winchester, Va. It is hoped that future Pow Wows will be held at Camp Potomac after the initial one in Keyser, Dr. Dunkle added.

Each Cubmaster will designate from his pack's staff a pack exhibits chairman and a pack decoration chairman.

The exhibits chairman will be in charge of getting the pack to make something to display in the space provided for his individual pack at the Pow Wow. Each pack is free to display any form of exhibit it desires.

To Spark Program

The pack decorations chairman will be in charge of the pack's effort to make colorful decorations for its table at the Pow Wow banquet in the evening.

Dr. Dunkle stated it is hoped the Pow Wow will put a spark in the Potomac Council's Cub Scout Program. He said the Shenandoah Area Council's Pow Wows have been very successful.

The local council is asking prospective organizations interested in starting a Cub Pack to attend the program. If enough enthusiasm is shown at this Pow Wow, Dr. Dunkle added, Potomac Council will plan more events of this sort for the future.

News In Brief

Cumberland Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges will hold the annual kiddies party for children tonight at 7:45 at the Odd Fellows Home, South Mechanic Street. All Odd Fellows and their families are invited. The party had been scheduled for last Friday but was postponed.

A New Year's Eve Dance will be sponsored by the two local National Guard companies Monday night in the State Armory, with music by Bill Higgs and his Melody Rangers.

City Registration Staff Begins Final Checking Of Voting Cards

Final checking of voters listed in Cumberland's continuous registration system is slated to being this week.

Personnel of the office located in the basement of City Hall yesterday completed filing the last cards in the permanent file and work on the loose leaf binders which will be taken to the polls is nearing completion.

It will take about three weeks more to type registration cards for the remaining three and one-half loose leaf books, it was estimated.

While that work is going on, the cards in the permanent files will be checked against the loose leaf books to avoid any errors or duplications.

The complete job may be completed about the middle of January, when new registrations begin in earnest. So far, only 184 new voters have been added to the books since September.

A number of errors have already cropped up, especially where voters registered in new precincts and neglected to have their names removed from the books in their own precinct.

As an example one voter was registered twice in the same precinct but in different years.

Snow Clearing Work Continued By City Crews

North Mechanic To Be Plowed

City Street Department crews were slated last night to resume work on clearing ice and snow from North Mechanic Street.

Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent, said crews will work up from Valley Sreet as far as they can go during the night.

The street clearing crews worked all last night clearing ice from the sides of North Mechanic Street.

The grader, loader and trucks managed to clear the width of the street from Bedford to Market Street, and one side from Market to Valley Street.

On Job All Night

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, and Corrigan remained on the job until early yesterday morning.

The Police Department had an officer stationed with the project until the workers stopped yesterday morning.

Much trouble was experienced, onlookers said, in removing the frozen slush. At times the piles were so frozen, the rear end of the ten-ton grader would be stopped and swung around.

Mrs. Roeder said she is compiling figures on the amount of snow that has to be removed from an average city block, as taken from the tonnage removed from North Mechanic Street.

Work Is Difficult

Corrigan said removal of the heavy ice was "very difficult" and reported that while perfect results were not obtained, removal of the heavy deposits will help.

"We're doing the best we can," he concluded.

Buses weres till unable to keep on schedule yesterday as the result of the icy streets, many of which have been narrowed to one lane as a result of cars parked on both sides of the driveways.

The City Garbage Collector reported that the icy conditions in the city have complicated collections, although the schedule has been maintained.

Has Close Call

One of the heavy garbage trucks had a close call early this week, when it started slipping on the ice covered hill of City View Terrace.

Icy roads leading to the city dump have also complicated the work.

On the number of icy streets, collections have been possible only after the contents of ash cans were dumped upon the ice.

The trouble, however, is that that is only possible where the workers are sure that cans contain only ashes....and in most cases garbage is present.

Several local streets were reported considerably safer for travel as a result of the efforts of the garbage collections.

The sun which has been doing a good job of snow and ice removal for several days, scarcely had a chance yesterday as a cold wave hit the area.

Official temperatures yesterday ranged from a low of 21 to high of 27 degrees.

Collection Day CHUCKLES

"He does it every time; borrows his dad's balloon to advertise collection day on his newspaper route. Pretty smart lad!"

Prize Cow Killed As Snow Breaks Electric Wire

A freak accident Wednesday morning at the farm of Peter Grabenstein, Winchester Bridge, resulted in the electrocution of one of his prize dairy cows.

The animal was standing in the barnyard, according to Grabenstein, when a quantity of snow and sleet slipped from the roof of the barn and snapped an electric wire.

As the wire fell to the ground, the cow was struck and electrocuted. The accident occurred about 11:30 a. m. as the sun melted the section of snow and sleet loose, Grabenstein added.

Pilots Use Skis As Port Remains Clogged With Ice

Partly-Cleared Runway Is Tested

Cumberland's snowbound Municipal Airport remained closed yesterday to all but ski-equipped light planes flown by private pilots.

All-American Airways cancelled all flights to and from Cumberland nearly two weeks ago after two heavy snows within five days left runways clogged with nearly a foot of ice and snow.

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company cleared 2,500 feet of one runway at its own expense for use by the company plane.

Is "Very Unsafe"

But after one trial flight yesterday, company representatives said the runway was still "very unsafe."

Warren Mullenax, airport manager, said the runway remained dangerous because crosswinds threatened to push planes into walls of ice of neither side.

One gust, he said, could cause a crash. Most of the wind, he explained, strikes the runway at an angle.

Mellenax, who also operates Queen City Air Service, said he has equipped his own planes with skis and has flown them successfully. But he said only a few other pilots have risked flying under such conditions.

Plane Lands Safely

Yesterday, a transient Beechraft Bonanza, a single-engined plane, landed and took off safely at the airport.

But, said Mullenax, "As far as I'm concerned, the field has been closed since last Tuesday."

All American has said it would resume local flights only if the city would clear runways of ice and snow The city said it has made no provisions for keeping the port clear, but agreed to consider removal of future snowfalls if all American Airways renews its certificate for flights to Cumberland.

Kabler Named To TWUA Post

John M. Kabler has been named acting director of the Synthetic Yarn division of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), Playford Aldridge, president of Celanese Local 1874, TWUA, announced yesterday.

Kabler has been in Cumberland on a number of occasions to assist in arbitration cases while he was serving as a field director in the Synthetic Yarn division.

The temporary appointment was made recently following the death early this month of Herbert W. Payne, TWUA vice president and director of the Synthetic Yarn division for many years.

Kabler is slated to serve in the important TWUA post until the return to the United States of Wesley Cook, assistant director of the division, who was granted a leave of absence to serve on the ECA.

For the past two years, Cook has been serving in Austria in the labor division of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

The ECA official aided in Local 1874 contract negotiations from 1942 to 1948.

Victim's Widow Helps Hughes Get Clemency

Trucker's Term Lowered To Month

Because the widow of the man he fatally injured asked that clemency be extended, William J. Hughes, 25-year old Midland trucker, will have to serve only one month in the Allegany County Jail for manslaughter.

Hughes began serving a three-month sentence here December 11 after the Maryland Court of Appeals upheld his conviction in Allegany County Circuit Court on the involuntary manslaughter charge.

Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish and Associate Judge George Henderson, who jointly tried the case, sentenced Hughes April 21.

Struck Picket

The Midland man was arrested May 3, 1950, soon after the truck he was driving struck and fatally injured Thomas Robertson, 43-year old Lonaconing miner. Robertson was on a picket line along the Old Cemetery Road at Knapp's Meadow at the time. He died a short time later in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Judges Mish and Henderson yesterday decided to reduce the jail term to one month after having received a letter signed by Mrs. Ora K. Robertson, widow of the miner.

The letter read:

"I am the widow of Thomas Robertson, who was killed in the accident which resulted in the conviction of William Hughes for manslaughter. He was thereupon sentenced to 90 days in the Allegany County Jail.

"I want to say that I hold no animosity towards Mr. Hughes and I realize that it was a very unfortunate occurrence which resulted in the death of Mr. Robertson. I am sure that Mr. Hughes feels as badly about it as anyone else and I do not believe it would answer any good purpose to confine him in jail.

Claim Settled

"I might advise that my claim was settled for $9,750. The insurance policy which Mr. Hughes carried only covered him up to $5,000 and consequently it was necessary for Mr. Hughes and his family to gather the additional money in order to make the settlement. Therefore, it has cost him and his family close to $5,000 additional.

"I am perfectly willing to recommend to the court that William Hughes be paroled, as I am sure that you must agree with me that Mr. Hughes is not the criminal type.

"I might state that the above letter, while not written by me, expresses entirely my feeling in the matter."

Fair Association To Name Leaders

Officers and directors of the Cumberland Fair Association will be elected Monday, January 21, at the annual stockholders' meeting. General Manager Harry E. Flook said last night.

The meeting will be held at the association's office, 15 South Liberty Street.

Present officers besides Flook are Tasker G. Lowndes, president; J. Glenn Beall, vice-president; John Schwarzenbach, treasurer; Carl Schmutz, corresponding secretary; Frank A. Wolfhope, auditor. Directors are Earl C. Robertson, Lowndes, Schwarzenbach, F. Brooke Whiting, Charles Jeffries, Schmutz, R. F. McHenry, Albert O'Neal, Harry J. Barton, Beall, Clifton W. White, Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., Wolfhope, William Winterberg and Flook.

City Workers To Get Four-Day Holiday

City workers will have a long New Year's vacation.

City Hall will close today at 5 p. m. and reopen Wednesday morning.

Monday's regular meeting of the Mayor and Council will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m.

The Health Department office will observe the same schedule.

Faith In America's Future Expressed By Celanese Head

Faith in the future of America under our "new progressive capitalism" with its free markets and open competition was expressed recently by Harold Blancke, president of the Celanese Corporation of America.

"If we succeed in preserving this system," Blancke said, "we need not fear for the long-term future."

Blancke, in an address on "Modernization", said he was confident of this result, "because socialism and European laissez-faire capitalism make the same mistakes over and over again" and continued:

"They persist in emphasizing permanent economic controls which result, both intentionally and unintentionally, in restricted production, high costs, lower real wages, loss of purchasing power and loss of competitive position in world markets.

Compares Systems

"They deprive the individual of freedom to choose what and when to buy. They attempt to distribute wealth and they succeed in distributing poverty."

He compared the American and English cotton and synthetic yarn industries to show the difference between the America's progressive capitalistic system with modern management ideas and the English system hampered with excessive taxation and socialistic controls.

The Economic Cooperation Administration textile team, Blancke said, provided the following comparison:

Automatic looms, U.S.A., nearly 100 per cent; Great Britain, 7 per cent.

Average production per worker per week, U.S.A., 424 yards; Great Britain, 146 yards.

Change in average weekly production since 1937, U.S.A., up 9,000,000 yards; Great Britain, down 30,000,000 yards.

Change in number of employes since 1937, U.S.A., up 18,000; Great Britain, down 84,000.

Hours worked per week, U.S.A., 40; Great Britain, 45 hours.

Average pay per hour, U.S.A., $1.30; Great Britain, 38 cents.

Average pay per employe a week U.S.A., $55; Great Britain, $17.

Hits Low Wages

But the low wages paid in English mills, he added, provides no advantages.

"Contrary to the impression in some places," Blancke emphasized, "there is no advantage in low wages. Moreover, low wages prevent development of markets and make it difficult for hourly workers to buy the products they themselves create.

"In our economy we increasingly depend upon our wage earning people to provide a growing markets for our products. This is one of the strongest reasons for the strength and dynamic quality of American industry."

Youth Held In Christmas Hit-Run Death

Keister Charged With Manslaughter

State Police yesterday afternoon took a Cresaptown youth into custody on a charge of manslaughter by motor vehicle in a hit-run highway accident which resulted in the death of 52-year-old James Richard Long on Christmas Day.

Trooper John F. Browning of the State Police, who investigated, identified the youth as Gene Gilbert Keister, 24. He is being held at Allegany County Jail pending a hearing, according to Browning.

The extensive search for the driver was started immediately following the accident which occurred about 100 yards east of Evitt's Creek Bridge. City police joined in the search.

Trooper Browning acted on information from several motorists in the area where Long was killed. Keister, according to police, was picked up at Gilbert Keister's Garage in Cresaptown, where the youth is employed by his father.

Keister was driving a 1950 automobile at the time of the accident, police said, and he admitted striking the Baltimore and Ohio worker as Long was returning from a Christmas dinner with relatives.

The Cresaptown youth was en route from Paw Paw, W. Va. to Cumberland on Route 51 when the fatility occurred, police said. Long was pronounced dead upon arrival at Memorial Hospital at 7:35 p. m., according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner.

Had Many Injuries

Death was attributed to shock and intra-abdominal hemorrhage caused by a crushed pelvis.

Long, who had been employed by the railroad as a car repairman helper for 32 years, also suffered a compound fracture of the lower left leg, cuts of the head and body and abrasions. The time of the accident was placed at 6:40 p. m. and Long was found lying in the road by a passing motorist.

Dr. Deming said Long went to the home of his son-in-law, Howard Grimm, Jr., Oldtown Road for dinner. He left the house about 2 p. m. to make another visit.

Trooper Browning said Long was walking toward Cumberland on the left side of Route 51 when he was hit and knocked to the opposite lane of traffic.

Auto Parts Found

According to Trooper Browning, Long was alive when he reached him at 6:50. Broken parts from an automobile reportedly headed west were found nearby.

The body will remain at the home for services today at 2 p. m. with Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor of Cumberland Methodist Circuit, officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Herman Cemetery.

Meanwhile, City Police continue a probe into the hit-run accident in the 200 block of Pulaski Street December 16 which resulted in injuries to Ronald Shook, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Shook.

The boy, who was hit while sled riding, suffered a fractured right thigh and head injuries. His condition at Allegany Hospital was reported last night as satisfactory by attaches.

Jennings Youth Injured In Sled Riding Mishap

An eight-year-old Jennings boy ran into the path of an automobile yesterday afternoon while sled riding and received a head injury, according to State Police.

Bobby W. Bittinger, was taken to the hospital at Meyersdale, Pa. The accident occurred, police added, on Main Street in Jennings about 3:30 p. m. yesterday. The boy came from a blind alley into the path of an automobile driven by Lorrane Wiley, 18, of Grantsville. No charges have been preferred, police noted.

Yule Lighting To Be Judged In Ridgeley

Heiskell Heads Lions Committee

Entries in the Outdoor Christmas Lighting contest sponsored by the Ridgeley Lions Club will be judged tonight.

Included will be 13 homes in Ridgeley, Carpenter's Addition and Maryland Junction.

Judging will be done tonight from 7:30 to 9 p. m. by Mrs. Marguerite Findlay, a member of the Cumberland Park Board; C. William Teubner and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Six prizes will be awarded in the contest, the first of the kind to be sponsored by the Ridgeley, W. Va., club.

Melvin M. Heiskell, principal of Ridgeley High School, is chairman of the Christmas Lighting Contest.

The Ridgeley service club hopes to continue the project as one of its services to the community.

Hospital Area Dust Report Is Due February 1

Test Jars Show Increase In Dirt

Reports on tests of air pollution in the Memorial Hospital area should be ready by February 1, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, reported yesterday.

A three-month test based on collection jars shows a normal increase in air pollution.

Hitchcock said some of the increase is undoubtedly due to smoke and fly ash from home stokers and hand-fired furnaces.

Three Jars Placed

Three test jars were placed in the area August 20 following a flood of complaints from residents of the area.

Hitchcock said one jar was placed on the home of Police Commissioner John J. Long at 518 Ridgewood Avenue, the second on the Memorial Hospital penthouse and the third on the roof of the Nurses Home at Memorial Hospital.

For the first month, beginning August 20, average dustfall was 2.61 tons per square mile. The second month showed the average up to 6.06 tons and the third 11.43.

Hitchcock said a jar on the Nurses Home was turned over, necessitating a re-run of tests for the fourth month.

Possibilities Cited

Possibilities of further improvement in the operation of the boilers at the city-owned hospital was also reported by Hitchcock.

He said the Breslove Separator Company, Pittsburgh, is conducting tests to determine whether its fly ash collector would control the situation.

The firm has taken dust and fly ash collected in the area so its chemists can analyze the samples.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Tinsley, 351 South Monroe Street, Baltimore, announce the birth of a daughter December 13. Mrs. Tinsley is the former Miss Juanita Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Miller, Cresaptown.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Appel, of Rockville, Tuesday at Bethesda Suburban Hospital. The father is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Appel, 525 Columbia Avenue. The mother is the former Miss Marylee Sine, Mt. Savage.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Harkcom, 738 North Mechanic Street, Wednesday in Somerset (Pa.) Community Hospital. The mother is the former Miss Audrey Mae Groff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Groff of Berlin, Pa.

Wiser Selection Of Fabrics May Result From FTC Ruling

To help consumers make a better selection of modern textile products, the Federal Trade Commission recently ruled that all fabrics containing acetate or rayon yarn must be individually identified in all fabric labels, advertisements and sales promotion material.

The FTC decision amends its own 1937 ruling which classified acetate fabrics under the generic term "rayon." From now on, the term rayon will apply only to fabrics containing yarns made by the viscose or cuprammonium (Bemberg) process.

The Celanese Corporation of America said recently, individual labeling of acetate and rayon fabrics provides a long-needed buying guide for consumers. Previously, the average consumer was not fully aware of the important wearing, washing and handling differences between fabrics made of acetate and those made of rayon.

Although the innate differences between the two yarns were long recognized in the textile industry, the differentiation was not carried through to the retail store and consumer level because of the Federal Trade Commission's 1937 ruling which lumped both under the same general term.

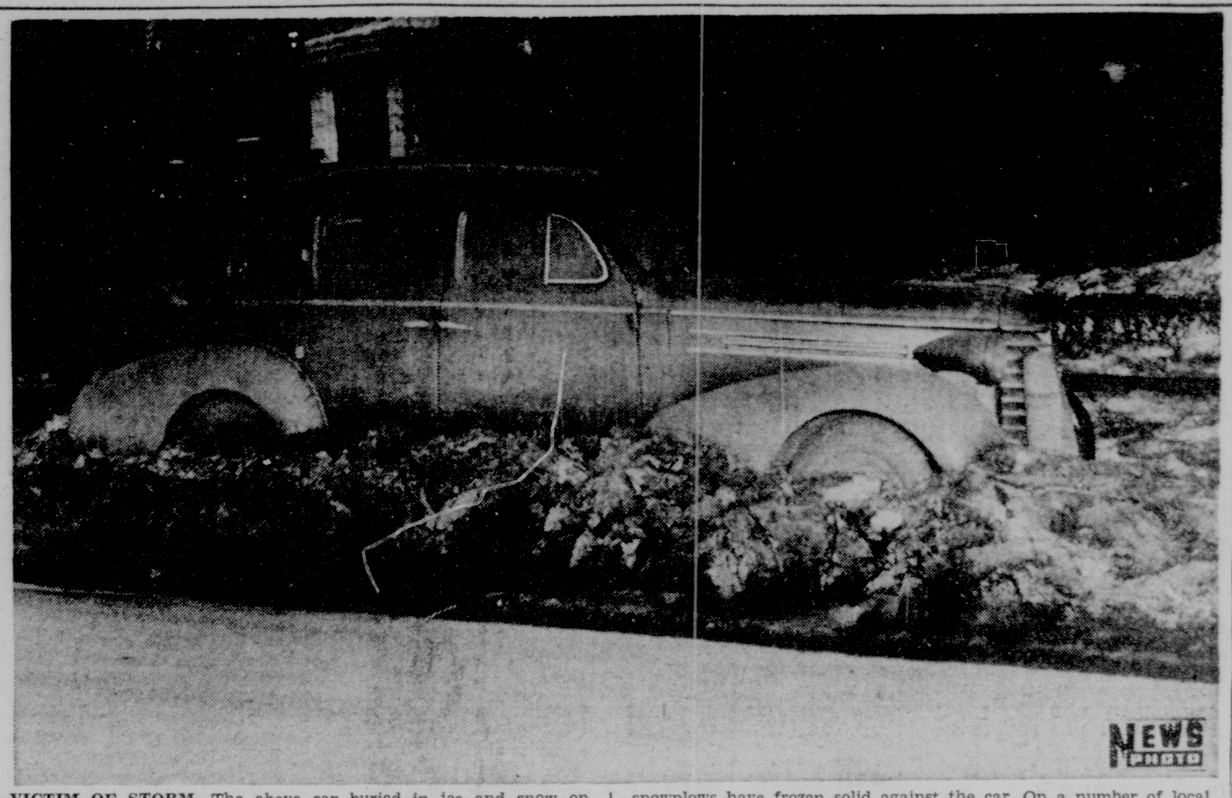
Acetate, an old product with a new retail name, now stands on its own feet. That, of course, necessitates a comprehensive consumer education program to acquaint the buying public with the distinctive characteristics of fabrics made of acetate yarn.

Such an educational program, the most extensive in the history of the textile industry, will be sponsored by Celanese, the pioneer and largest produce of acetate yarn. The company's newly-formed Acetate Information Bureau will assist department stores and apparel manufacturers by providing them with correct fiber identification material.

Chief objective of the FTC ruling is to provide consumers with a better understanding of modern textile fibers, thereby eliminating the misunderstanding and misuse which cause customer complaints — particularly important today when virtually every American wardrobe includes garments made of the new chemical fibers, including recent developments like nylon and others.

It's interesting to note, however, that acetate and rayon — the earlier man-made fibers — still account for more than 90 per cent of all apparel fabrics made of chemical fibers.

Last year, 56 per cent of all women's outerwear sales were garments made of acetate or rayon. Cotton, silk, wool and all other fibers shared the remaining 44 per cent. In better dress lines, acetate and rayon dresses accounted for 23,081,000 unit sales against only 5,816,000 for all other fibers combined. These two early man-made fibers also dominated the blouse, lingerie and sportswear field, with acetate used more often than its chemical colleague, rayon.



VICTIM OF STORM—The above car buried in ice and snow on Park Street is only one of the hundreds of vehicles in Cumberland which were stranded when the recent heavy snowstorms hit the city. Snow and ice pushed against the parked vehicle by passing snowplows have frozen solid against the car. On a number of local streets, cars parked on both sides of the street have narrowed the thoroughfares to one lane, causing numerous traffic tie-ups. Buses especially have trouble on streets where cars are parked.

Registration Mistake Costs Trucker $336

Hagerstown Man Fined For Overload

A mistake in the registration of a trailer used for hauling beer between Cumberland and Hagerstown cost its owner $336 in fines yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court.

The owner is Robert Wilson South, 731 Virginia Avenue, Hagerstown. His driver, Daniel S. Hager was issued an overload ticket by Patrolman Richard F. Boyle of the State Roads Commission December 5 and was charged with having an overload of 5,600 pounds on Route 40.

Unusual Twist

The unusual factor in the case is that although South's truck was carrying a lawful load according to its size and make, the load was illegal because the trailer's registration certificate allowed only a gross tonnage of 34,000 pounds.

According to two letters turned over to the court yesterday by South, it was shown that South applied for title and license tags through the Delphey Service, Hagerstown, when the trailer was purchased in August.

Melvin Shipley, of Delphey's Service, stated in his letter to South that South had requested to have the weight of his trailer raised, and if South had done so, a notation calling for the new weight would be attached to the application sent to the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles office in Baltimore.

Shipley said in his letter that this note could have been lost from the title application or the same could have been a slipup in the Motor Vehicle Department.

South also submitted a letter from Robert B. Garrett, transportation analyst for the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles, who wrote in answer to South's request for information concerning the case.

Trailer Registered

Garrett said in his letter that a search through the department's records indicated that when South bought the trailer in August and had it registered at the Department of Motor Vehicles office under the Shuttle Relay system through Delphey's Service, South was charged only for the $15 tax payable on a trailer of 34,000 pounds gross tonnage.

Garrett continued in his letter that no request was made at that time for an increase to a higher category, although South stated he instructed the Delphey people to have the change made so that the trailer would correspond more nearly with South's other trailers of similar size which are rated at 55,000 pounds gross.

However, Magistrate J. Milton Dick ruled that since registration on the trailer at the time of arrest limited the vehicle to 34,000 pounds gross tonnage, the truck was overloaded 5,600 pounds. He imposed a fine of $336 and $1.45 costs.

South informed Magistrate Dick that he would appeal the decision in Circuit Court.

Weather

The sun which appeared yesterday morning failed to warm the chilly breeze that swept the city. The Weather Bureau predicts more cold temperatures for the weekend accompanied by snow as a cold air mass moves eastward from the Plains States. The Bureau said the mercury would drop to between 10 and 15 degrees this morning with the highest temperature during the day being between 25 and 32 degrees. Increasing cloudiness is expected to develop today and tomorrow with snow tomorrow night or Sunday. The official high temperature in the city yesterday was 27 degrees according to reports from the weather station at Constitution Park. The low was 21 and at 8 p.m. the thermometer leveled at 23 degrees. Humidity at 6 o'clock last night was 53 per cent.

District Troops, Packs Plan Events For Boy Scout Week

Observance Is Set Feb. 6-12

District Troops and Packs of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, are planning activities and scheduling programs for Boy Scout Week to be held throughout the nation February 6 to 12.

Recently the Cumberland District commissioner staff met with the Camping and Activities Committee for the purpose of drawing up a tentative program for the event, according to H. Vernon Adams, district commissioner. At the district committee meeting a program was approved.

Adams said two major events have been planned, a Cub and Scout Exposition to be held in the State Armory Thursday, February 7, and a Convocation at Fort Hill High School Auditorium Sunday afternoon, February 10.

Plan Displays

Troops and Packs are planning window displays to be placed in several neighborhoods.

The Exposition will be based upon the merit badge requirements, Scout and Cub skills and advancement requirements. Booths will be erected along the side of the armory by each unit, and the Troop or Pack will arrange one or more exhibits on some phase of Scouting.

Included in the different exhibits will be cooking, fingerprinting, knot tying, rope yard, chemistry, tincan craft, trail camping, woodwork, carpentry, conservation, model planes, stamp collecting, coin collecting, tree identification, photography and woodcarving.

Also there will be displays on handicraft, pioneering, metal work, first aid, leathercraft, games and skill, miniatures, Indian lore, tenderfoot requirements, electricity, signaling, tracking, firemanship, camp gadgets, home repairs, cycling and packs and beds.

Convocation Set

Cubbers are planning displays such as back yard games, Indian lore, family fun, handicraft, cub workshop, scrapbooks, and tepee making.

In a letter to all council troops and packs, Adams urged all groups to meet as soon as possible to decide on three choice subjects in preference first, second and third. Each group should call its commissioner by January 1 and indicate its subjects. Unit assignments will be made and each Troop or Pack will be expected to design and set up their own booth.

The Sunday afternoon convocation will include participation by all religious faiths.

Register Of Wills' Office Plans Lengthy Holiday

Register of Wills, A. Charles Stewart said yesterday that his office will observe a lengthy holiday over the New Year's weekend.

The office will close at noon Saturday and will remain closed until Wednesday morning, January 2.

Recruiting Offices To Close Monday

The Army and Air Force Recruiting Office here will be closed Monday and Tuesday, according to M/-Sgt. Virgil Burns, recruiter in charge.

The office will be opened all day tomorrow however, Burns said.

District Cub Scouts Plan "Pow Wow"

January 19 Event Has Four Sections

Cubbers of the 12 Cub packs in the Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, will attend the Cub leaders "Pow Wow" Saturday, January 19 from 1 to 7:30 p. m. in the new Science Building of Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., according to Dr. John L. Dunkle, Frostburg, general chairman.

Dr. Dunkle said this will be the first time that a Pow Wow has been held in the district.

Each pack's Cubmaster plans to enter a number of cubbers in each of the four sections of the event.

The sections include (1) games: playing and learning direct games; (2) pack administration: pack management, records, finance, personnel training and program planning; (3) handicraft: crafts related to advancement, themes and fixing up the Den; and (4) ceremonies and entertainment: ceremonies and dramatization, social mixers, etc.

Chairmen To Be Named

Dr. Dunkle said the four sections will be conducted by cubbers from the Shenandoah Area Council, Winchester, Va. It is hoped that future Pow Wows will be held at Camp Potomac after the initial one in Keyser, Dr. Dunkle added.

Each Cubmaster will designate from his pack's staff a pack exhibits chairman and a pack decoration chairman.

The exhibits chairman will be in charge of getting the pack to make something to display in the space provided for his individual pack at the Pow Wow. Each pack is free to display any form of exhibit it desires.

To Spark Program

The pack decorations chairman will be in charge of the pack's effort to make colorful decorations for its table at the Pow Wow banquet in the evening.

Dr. Dunkle stated it is hoped the Pow Wow will put a spark in the Potomac Council's Cub Scout Program. He said the Shenandoah Area Council's Pow Wows have been very successful.

The local council is asking prospective organizations interested in starting a Cub Pack to attend the program. If enough enthusiasm is shown at this Pow Wow, Dr. Dunkle added, Potomac Council will plan more events of this sort for the future.

News In Brief

Cumberland Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges will hold the annual kiddies party for children tonight at 7:45 at the Odd Fellows Home, South Mechanic Street. All Odd Fellows and their families are invited. The party had been scheduled for last Friday but was postponed.

A New Year's Eve Dance will be sponsored by the two local National Guard companies Monday night in the State Armory, with music by Bill Higgs and his Melody Rangers.

City Registration Staff Begins Final Checking Of Voting Cards

Final checking of voters listed in Cumberland's continuous registration system is slated to being this week.

Personnel of the office located in the basement of City Hall yesterday completed filing the last cards in the permanent file and work on the loose leaf binders which will be taken to the polls is nearing completion.

It will take about three weeks more to type registration cards for the remaining three and one-half loose leaf books, it was estimated.

While that work is going on, the cards in the permanent files will be checked against the loose leaf books to avoid any errors or duplications.

The complete job may be completed about the middle of January, when new registrations begin in earnest. So far, only 184 new voters have been added to the books since September.

A number of errors have already cropped up, especially where voters registered in new precincts and neglected to have their names removed from the books in their own precinct.

As an example one voter was registered twice in the same precinct but in different years.

Snow Clearing Work Continued By City Crews

North Mechanic To Be Plowed

City Street Department crews were slated last night to resume work on clearing ice and snow from North Mechanic Street.

Martin M. Corrigan, street superintendent, said crews will work up from Valley Sreet as far as they can go during the night.

The street clearing crews worked all last night clearing ice from the sides of North Mechanic Street.

The grader, loader and trucks managed to clear the width of the street from Bedford to Market Street, and one side from Market to Valley Street.

On Job All Night

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, street commissioner, and Corrigan remained on the job until early yesterday morning.

The Police Department had an officer stationed with the project until the workers stopped yesterday morning.

Much trouble was experienced, onlookers said, in removing the frozen slush. At times the piles were so frozen, the rear end of the ten-ton grader would be stopped and swung around.

Mrs. Roeder said she is compiling figures on the amount of snow that has to be removed from an average city block, as taken from the tonnage removed from North Mechanic Street.

Work Is Difficult

Corrigan said removal of the heavy ice was "very difficult" and reported that while perfect results were not obtained, removal of the heavy deposits will help.

"We're doing the best we can," he concluded.

Buses weres till unable to keep on schedule yesterday as the result of the icy streets, many of which have been narrowed to one lane as a result of cars parked on both sides of the driveways.

The City Garbage Collector reported that the icy conditions in the city have complicated collections, although the schedule has been maintained.

Has Close Call

One of the heavy garbage trucks had a close call early this week, when it started slipping on the ice covered hill of City View Terrace.

Icy roads leading to the city dump have also complicated the work.

On the number of icy streets, collections have been possible only after the contents of ash cans were dumped upon the ice.

The trouble, however, is that that is only possible where the workers are sure that cans contain only ashes....and in most cases garbage is present.

Several local streets were reported considerably safer for travel as a result of the efforts of the garbage collections.

The sun which has been doing a good job of snow and ice removal for several days, scarcely had a chance yesterday as a cold wave hit the area.

Official temperatures yesterday ranged from a low of 21 to high of 27 degrees.

Collection Day CHUCKLES

"He does it every time; borrows his dad's balloon to advertise collection day on his newspaper route. Pretty smart lad!"

Prize Cow Killed As Snow Breaks Electric Wire

A freak accident Wednesday morning at the farm of Peter Grabenstein, Winchester Bridge, resulted in the electrocution of one of his prize dairy cows.

The animal was standing in the barnyard, according to Grabenstein, when a quantity of snow and sleet slipped from the roof of the barn and snapped an electric wire.

As the wire fell to the ground, the cow was struck and electrocuted. The accident occurred about 11:30 a. m. as the sun melted the section of snow and sleet loose, Grabenstein added.

Pilots Use Skis As Port Remains Clogged With Ice

Partly-Cleared Runway Is Tested

Cumberland's snowbound Municipal Airport remained closed yesterday to all but ski-equipped light planes flown by private pilots.

All-American Airways cancelled all flights to and from Cumberland nearly two weeks ago after two heavy snows within five days left runways clogged with nearly a foot of ice and snow.

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company cleared 2,500 feet of one runway at its own expense for use by the company plane.

Is "Very Unsafe"

But after one trial flight yesterday, company representatives said the runway was still "very unsafe."

Warren Mullenax, airport manager, said the runway remained dangerous because crosswinds threatened to push planes into walls of ice of neither side.

One gust, he said, could cause a crash. Most of the wind, he explained, strikes the runway at an angle.

Mellenax, who also operates Queen City Air Service, said he has equipped his own planes with skis and has flown them successfully. But he said only a few other pilots have risked flying under such conditions.

Plane Lands Safely

Yesterday, a transient Beechraft Bonanza, a single-engined plane, landed and took off safely at the airport.

But, said Mullenax, "As far as I'm concerned, the field has been closed since last Tuesday."

All American has said it would resume local flights only if the city would clear runways of ice and snow The city said it has made no provisions for keeping the port clear, but agreed to consider removal of future snowfalls if all American Airways renews its certificate for flights to Cumberland.

Kabler Named To TWUA Post

John M. Kabler has been named acting director of the Synthetic Yarn division of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), Playford Aldridge, president of Celanese Local 1874, TWUA, announced yesterday.

Kabler has been in Cumberland on a number of occasions to assist in arbitration cases while he was serving as a field director in the Synthetic Yarn division.

The temporary appointment was made recently following the death early this month of Herbert W. Payne, TWUA vice president and director of the Synthetic Yarn division for many years.

Kabler is slated to serve in the important TWUA post until the return to the United States of Wesley Cook, assistant director of the division, who was granted a leave of absence to serve on the ECA.

For the past two years, Cook has been serving in Austria in the labor division of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

The ECA official aided in Local 1874 contract negotiations from 1942 to 1948.

Victim's Widow Helps Hughes Get Clemency

Trucker's Term Lowered To Month

Because the widow of the man he fatally injured asked that clemency be extended, William J. Hughes, 25-year old Midland trucker, will have to serve only one month in the Allegany County Jail for manslaughter.

Hughes began serving a three-month sentence here December 11 after the Maryland Court of Appeals upheld his conviction in Allegany County Circuit Court on the involuntary manslaughter charge.

Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish and Associate Judge George Henderson, who jointly tried the case, sentenced Hughes April 21.

Struck Picket

The Midland man was arrested May 3, 1950, soon after the truck he was driving struck and fatally injured Thomas Robertson, 43-year old Lonaconing miner. Robertson was on a picket line along the Old Cemetery Road at Knapp's Meadow at the time. He died a short time later in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Judges Mish and Henderson yesterday decided to reduce the jail term to one month after having received a letter signed by Mrs. Ora K. Robertson, widow of the miner.

The letter read:

"I am the widow of Thomas Robertson, who was killed in the accident which resulted in the conviction of William Hughes for manslaughter. He was thereupon sentenced to 90 days in the Allegany County Jail.

"I want to say that I hold no animosity towards Mr. Hughes and I realize that it was a very unfortunate occurrence which resulted in the death of Mr. Robertson. I am sure that Mr. Hughes feels as badly about it as anyone else and I do not believe it would answer any good purpose to confine him in jail.

Claim Settled

"I might advise that my claim was settled for $9,750. The insurance policy which Mr. Hughes carried only covered him up to $5,000 and consequently it was necessary for Mr. Hughes and his family to gather the additional money in order to make the settlement. Therefore, it has cost him and his family close to $5,000 additional.

"I am perfectly willing to recommend to the court that William Hughes be paroled, as I am sure that you must agree with me that Mr. Hughes is not the criminal type.

"I might state that the above letter, while not written by me, expresses entirely my feeling in the matter."

City Workers To Get Four-Day Holiday

City workers will have a long New Year's vacation.

City Hall will close today at 5 p. m. and reopen Wednesday morning.

Monday's regular meeting of the Mayor and Council will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m.

The Health Department office will observe the same schedule.

Faith In America's Future Expressed By Celanese Head

Faith in the future of America under our "new progressive capitalism" with its free markets and open competition was expressed recently by Harold Blancke, president of the Celanese Corporation of America.

"If we succeed in preserving this system," Blancke said, "we need not fear for the long-term future."

Blancke, in an address on "Modernization", said he was confident of this result, "because socialism and European laissez-faire capitalism make the same mistakes over and over again" and continued:

"They persist in emphasizing permanent economic controls which result, both intentionally and unintentionally, in restricted production, high costs, lower real wages, loss of purchasing power and loss of competitive position in world markets.

Compares Systems

"They deprive the individual of freedom to choose what and when to buy. They attempt to distribute wealth and they succeed in distributing poverty."

He compared the American and English cotton and synthetic yarn industries to show the difference between the America's progressive capitalistic system with modern management ideas and the English system hampered with excessive taxation and socialistic controls.

The Economic Cooperation Administration textile team, Blancke said, provided the following comparison:

Automatic looms, U.S.A., nearly 100 per cent; Great Britain, 7 per cent.

Average production per worker per week, U.S.A., 424 yards; Great Britain, 146 yards.

Change in average weekly production since 1937, U.S.A., up 9,000,000 yards; Great Britain, down 30,000,000 yards.

Change in number of employes since 1937, U.S.A., up 18,000; Great Britain, down 84,000.

Hours worked per week, U.S.A., 40; Great Britain, 45 hours.

Average pay per hour, U.S.A., $1.30; Great Britain, 38 cents.

Average pay per employe a week U.S.A., $55; Great Britain, $17.

Hits Low Wages

But the low wages paid in English mills, he added, provides no advantages.

"Contrary to the impression in some places," Blancke emphasized, "there is no advantage in low wages. Moreover, low wages prevent development of markets and make it difficult for hourly workers to buy the products they themselves create.

"In our economy we increasingly depend upon our wage earning people to provide a growing markets for our products. This is one of the strongest reasons for the strength and dynamic quality of American industry."
